OBITUARY.

We regret to have to chronicle this week the death of another of our old and esteemed citizens of this county, in the person of Mrs. Catharine Hambly, of North Fredericksburgh. Mrs. Hambly was a lady very much esteemed by all those who enjoyed the pleasure of her society. Deceased was a life long member of the Methodist church, a faithful and consistent Christian, and her end was peaceful. Mrs. Hambly died at the ripe age of 79 years, 3 months and 23 days, and leaves to mourn the loss of an affectionate and kind mother, two sons, Mr. Geo. R. Hambly and Mr. C. W. Hambly, the present Warden of the Counties, both of North Fredericksburgh, and two daughters, Mrs. Milo Huffman, of Moscow, and Mrs. Norman Perry, of Oxford, N.Y. Mrs. Hambly will be much missed on earth, but she has gone to swell the ranks of the redeemed in the mansions above.

Mr. W. H. Hunter had quite an experience on Monday last. He was out at his farm cutting, when what it a bullet close to his head. He looked up to see where it came from when another flew by. He proceeded to make him grow nervous. He ran to where a shooting match was going on and gave him such a lecture that he thought the police forgot it. He brought the rifle to town and gave it to Chief Graham, who says he will have to make application for it and get another before on the earliest use of firearms.

Dr. C. M. Stratton leaves for the old country on June 20th, and requests all persons who have not settled their accounts with him, to call at T. J. Hooper's drug store on Saturday, 13th inst., and settle with him there.

ERNESTTOWN STATION.

Election passed off quietly here.—Decoration Day at Union church cemetery was not as well attended as formerly, owing to the busy time, seeding.—Thursday evening last Mr. N. B. Hamm's old barn caught fire, and was burned to the ground. His dwelling and surrounding buildings were for a time in great danger. Mr. Hamm cannot account for the origin of the fire other than tramps or the railroad. The fire was first discovered between 9 and 10 p.m., and illuminated the country for miles around. Neighbours worked hard to save the rest of new barn in course of construction.—The raising of Joel Kellar's barn took place last week. N. B. Hamm's on Tuesday of this week, and Malcolm Hoyle's on Wednesday. All fine buildings, with cement foundations.—A couple of young women have been holding service in the school house for the past two weeks.—A. John Anderson was sentenced at Brockville to six years in penitentiary for bigamy.

ODESSA.

Election day passed off very quietly here. No confusion or jangling at all, which is as it should be. Of course, some were disappointed at only one could win the day, but all's well that ends well, so we will wait for the fun.

A number of telephone men spent over a week repairing the poles and wires south of us, and were seen in the village evenings and Sundays.

Hurrah for the lawn social to be held on Mr. Elgin Parrott's lawn, Tuesday evening, 10th inst. Refreshments on the grounds; everything that is good. All for 10c, and mind you Odessa orchestra will be there and also special music from Kingston. So avail yourselves of this generous social and come. It is all for the good of the congregation of the C. M. church, who will hear the result of the social Sabbath mornings and evenings in the new music which will be rendered by the choir from the books bought with the proceeds of the social.

We are pleased to see Rev. McCamus back from Conference. On account of his absence no service was held on Sunday, with the exception of Sunday School, to which a large number attended and were highly pleased to have the orchestra present; also Miss Annie Johnson, violinist, pupil of Mr. Heaslip, Come again; we shall be glad to hear you. Mrs. McCamus, delegate for the W. M. S., went to Bowmanville to the Convention on Monday.

We are sorry to hear that R. Bennett is quite ill from a severe cold bordering on pneumonia. We sincerely hope it may be speedily checked.

SOMETHING CAN BE DONE

TO STOP THE INCREASE OF CATARRH IN NAPANEE.

Catarrhal troubles are increasing, not only in Napanee, but all over the country.

Catarrh is a germ disease and to cure it germ life must be destroyed. Inflammings must be destroyed, and this can be done only by the use of Catarrhozone.

There is no danger, stomach druggists' advice when Hyomei is used. Its liquid mixtures whereby the digestion is often destroyed.

Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes every outfit, its healing balsams penetrate the most remote air cells, destroying the catarrhal germs as they breathe. Colds in head. The complete outfit costs but $1.00, and if it fails to relieve you in ten minutes the money should Hyomei fail to do all that is claimed for it.

TORONTO EXHIBITION.

Prize List for 1908 Now Being Distributed.

The prize list of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, Ont. Aug. 29th to Sept. 14th, has come to hand. It has been thoroughly revised from beginning to end and in some respects presents a neater and more convenient appearance than formerly. Several important additions have been made, amongst an offer of $1,100.00, divided into six prizes, for the best floral design to cover not more than 100 square feet of floor space. The Dominion Shorthorn Association give $2,000.00 and the Dominion Horse Association $500.00 to the premiums offered for Shorthorns and Clydesdales. Special classes for horses and outfits used in connection with the transportation of the wares of $500.00 has been added to the amount given in prizes for the agricultural section. Altogether, including medals and cups, the amount given in premiums reaches upwards of $50,000. Among the greater portion of which is devoted to live stock and agricultural products. A more than usually extensive art loan collection is promised, and the prizes offered by special permission of H. M. the King for the Band of the Royal Artillery, Woolwich, Eng., will play and take a leading part in the grand international military tattoo and spectacle represented by "The Siege of Sebastopol." Every day will close with a display of fireworks and each evening be unattempted. The usual cheap rates and excursions have been arranged for by all lines of travel. Any applicant can obtain a copy of the Exhibition offices, City Hall, Toronto, Ont., free on application. Entries close on the date mentioned, will be forwarded on the receipt.

This woman says that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured her after everything else had failed.

Mrs. W. Barrett, 602 Moreau St., Montreal, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For years I was a great sufferer from female weakness, and despite every remedy given me by doctors for this trouble, I grew worse instead of better. I was face failing in health, and I was completely discouraged.

"One day a friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and am thankful to say that it cured the female weakness, making me strong and well.

"Any woman who suffers from female troubles should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

An Interesting Page of News From Our Village Neighbors.

ALBERT.

Farmers are through seeding and planting has commenced.—Mr. H. A. Mastin has moved into his house. Carpentry is busy working at Ebemeer church.—Mr. Fred Bradshaw and mother spent Saturday in Napanee.—Quite a number from here are attending the sasaces at Belleville this week.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tripp are spending a few days under the parental roof, after their departure for Calgary.—Mr. Will Adams, of Huntington, is visiting friends in our village.—Mr. and Mrs. William Whiteman's.—Mr. Herb. Winters, of Tweed, called on some of his old acquaintances on Thursday last.—Mr. F. York and sister spent Sunday at Mr. H. Bradshaw's.—Our school will be closed on Monday on account of election. —Rain is needed badly. Farmers are afraid of another dry season.

PIMPLES AND BOILS.

HEALED BY ZAM-BUK.

Mr. Joseph Arsenault resides at Cascumpec, P.E.I., and says:—"About five months ago sores broke out on my body. They came in the form of small pimples which discharged. These sores would grow until they got as large as a nickel. I used Carbolic Salves without effect. I tried Zam-Buk advertised in the papers and secured some, and daily applications of this healing balm for one week effected a permanent cure. Since then I have recommended Zam-Buk to my brother for boils on his knee, and also used it again myself for a poisoned finger, in both cases with marvellous results. I cannot recommend Zam-Buk too highly."

Zam-Buk, the great skin healer, can be obtained at any drug or grocetal store, or 50 cents a box, or postpaid from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

CARMANVILLE.

Owing to the faporable weather recently the farmers have been able to get most of their seed sowing, and everybody predicts a good hay crop.—Cpl. J. J. Connally intends holding his annual picnic on July 1st. Everybody welcome.—His Grace Archbishop Gauthier, of Kingston, visited the parish of Chippewa on the 28th of May, and laid the corner stone of the new church, and a large crowd was present. He was greatly satisfied with how the parish was progressing, and he also gave the choir great praise.—Mr. Nesbit, Inspector of Schools, made a visit to our school on Monday, and he recommended our school to be one of the best schools he has visited.—Miss Nellie Black, of Canaan, spent Thursday at Mr. John Kelly's.—Mr. Joe Carroll was the guest of Mike Kennedy on Sunday.—Mrs. Tom and John Kennedy has returned home from Croghan.—Miss Hannah O'Neil, of Erinville, is spending a few days with Mrs. John Burke.—Mr. Thomas Lawlor is repairing his barn.—A young daughter has come to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Moran.—Miss Mary Dillon, of Centreville, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. M. Clair.—Miss Mollie Clair spent Sunday at Mr. James Dillon's.—Mr. Patrick Kelly and sister Mary spent Sunday at Mr. Martin Kenny's.—Miss Ella Kenny, of Napanee, is staying a week with her mother.—Mr. Matt. Carroll was the guest of Mr. E. Clair, on Sunday evening.—Rumor says a wedding soon.

Weak women should try Dr. Shoop's Night Cure. These unfailing, scientific, vegetable suppositories go direct to the seat of these weaknesses. Dr. Shoop's "Book for Women" contains many valuable hints to women, and it is free. Ask Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., to mail it. Ask the Doctor for perfect confidence, and your question you wish answered. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is sold by T. H. Wallace.

CEDAR HILL.

The farmers are about through with their spring's work. — Quite a number from here attended the laying of the corner stone of the new R. C. church at Carmanville, on May 29th.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burns and James Burns and J. Flynn spent Sunday afternoon at James Carroll's.—Miss Tessie and Kathleen Mulrooney, of Stella, are a few days recently with Mr. and Mrs. John Mulrooney.—George Kelly and Phil. Murphy spent Sunday evening at A. Burns'.—Miss Edna O'Meara spent Saturday and Sunday at Carmanville.—The Separate school of Cedar Hill school intend holding their first social in the school on Friday evening, June 19th. Good music and a talent will be in attendance. Everybody come.

Campbell's Stains and Floor Finish are guaranteed by the makers to give perfect satisfaction. You can furnish floor, furniture and interior woodwork with these stains and the results will surprise and please your expectations. Prepared in all colors. Try them and you'll use no other. T. H. Wallace will tell you all about them.

CENTREVILLE.

There was no service in the Methodist church Sunday evening, as Rev. Allin was attending Conference.—Mrs. Frank Gerow and Mrs. Shane spent Saturday with Mrs. Geo. Comeau at Whippletree.—Several from Wesley were in the village Sunday evening.—We are all pleased to hear that our efficient teacher, Miss Hankinson, has been re-engaged for another year.—Mr. Tom. O'Connor made a flying call last week.—Mr. Levi Vanaest is having a new tin roof put on his dwelling house.—Mr. Levi York spent Sunday at Mr. Geo. Milligan's.—Miss Jennie Lockhead was in town last Friday.—Jas. Lapum has returned to his home in Ernestown after a week at home.—Our ice cream parlors are doing a flourishing business at present.—Mrs. W. J. Hinchey's health remains about the same. Her daughter is with her.—A large crowd attended the barn raising at Mr. Jas. O'Day's, last Saturday. All passed off well as there were no accidents.—Service will be held next Sunday.

WATCH YOUR TONGUE.

IF FURRED AND COATED, IT'S A LOOKING GLASS STOMACH WARNING.

When it is the morning after the night before, you do not have to look at your tongue to know that the liver is wrong, or at best, the head is aching, no appetite, mouth sour, and a general feeling that life clogged.

The real time to watch the tongue is all of the time. If it is coated with a white fur, or possibly with dark trimmings, even though the stomach does not tell you by the acute pains of indigestion that it needs help, yet the coating shows that you are getting into a bad way and that there will be trouble.

Mi-o-na is so positive, so sure, so reliable in its curative action upon the stomach that T. B. Wallace, the local agent, gives a guarantee of satisfaction with every 50 cent box or money back.

MAPLE AVENUE.

Very warm and dry on Election day, and every person is praying for a nice shower of rain.—Mr. Carnahan had a majority of 36 votes in Wilton ward on Monday, June 8th.—Mrs. Ross Parks, of Brockville, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Snider, for a few weeks. —Mrs. Ernest Sharpe, of Tamworth, is spending a month with old friends and her father, Mr. Albert Snider, Odessa, and her brothers at other places.—Miss Ethel Freeman, our popular school teacher spent last Saturday with Mrs. L. Hartman's.—Mr. H. Rose and Mrs. Charles C. Joyner, of Lapum's east, spent last Monday afternoon at Mrs. L. Hartman's, Maple Avenue.

MORVEN.

Church services were cancelled last Sunday, owing to Conference.—A number from our village attended church in town on Sunday evening last.—Mr. Bert. Hanton and Mr. Maitland Horton are home from Toronto for the holidays.—Mr. Bert Smith is home to spend a few weeks with his parents.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell spent Sunday at Mr. C. H. Garrison's.—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fraser spent Sunday the guests of their daughter, Mrs. J. A. Clute, Thorpe.—Raisings are all the rage this week.—Mr. A. B. Ellis is being organized in our Sunday School, and we wish it every success. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sharp spent Sunday with Mr. Hugh Milling.—Mr. and Mrs. Frink and family have our heartfelt sympathy in the loss of his father, who died at Collins Bay, on Monday, June 1st.—A song service will be held in the White church on Sunday evening. Foreign as well as local talent, will be in attendance and a rare treat is promised to all who come.

Pilles are easily and quickly checked with Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. To prove it I will mail a small trial box to any sufferer free. Simply address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. I surely would not send it free unless I was certain that Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment would stand the test. Remember it is made expressly and alone for swollen, painful, bleeding or itching piles either external or internal. Large jar 50c. Sold by T. H. Wallace. 25d

WILTON.

For an entertainment of rare merit go to the Methodist church, Wilton, on Thursday evening, June 18th, or to Violet, on Friday evening, June 19th. At each of which places the celebrated lecture-Entertainer, John H. Clarke, will delight and profit you with his inimitable medley entitled, "To and From London," of which the Ottawa Citizen says: "The speaker and the subject proved to be wonderfully attractive. Such mimery, eloquence, dialect, song, story and philosophy have rarely been brought before a Canadian audience." and Rev. G. H. Copeland, of Campbellford, says: "Our people were simply taken by storm," and the Preston Progress says: "Most fascinating, eliciting cheer after cheer from the audience." Do not miss this treat. It is no ordinary affair. Admission 25 cents. Children 15 cents, or two children admitted for 25 cents.

CAMDEN EAST.

A rare treat awaits the people of Camden East and vicinity in the shape of entertainment to be given by Mr. John H. Clarke, in the Methodist church of this place on Wednesday evening, June 17th, entitled "The Rose Shamrock and Thistle" (Merrie England, Ould Ireland and Bonnie Scotland.) Of this most attractive entertainment the Rev. H. J. Foley, B.A., says: "Rose, Shamrock and Thistle is eloquent and a rare treat, literary, historic and mirthful." The Guelph Mercury says: "There is not a dull moment in John R. Clark's entertainments." If you desire an entertainment of superior merit, this is your chance. Take it in. Admission, 25 cents, children 15 cents, or two for 25 cents.

H. Sager's merry-go-round is in the village this week, and is doing a rushing business.

ROBLIN.

POOR BLOOD BRINGS MISERY

Pale Faces and Pinched Cheeks Show That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are Needed.

Anaemia is written on the features of ninety women and girls out of every hundred. Unmistakable are the signs of "too little blood."

The sufferer is exalted at all ages by the evils resulting from bloodlessness; from the girl who is weak and languid, with dull eyes, sallow cheeks, and lifeless hair, to the woman who feels never well, with gnawing pains in the back, aching limbs and bitter headaches.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are specially valuable to such people, for they possess the power of making blood—the very thing that is needed—and which no woman can have perfect health. They fill the starved veins with new blood so that enfeebled bodies are strengthened, nervous systems are fortified and robust health restored.

Miss Rose D'Argon, Waterloo, Que., follows the usual course of treatment, which brings more than ordinary strain to all that was pale and sickly. She says: "I was pale and suffered from frequent headaches. I was often dizzy and the least exertion would leave me breathless. I doctored for a time, but with little or no benefit. One day I read in the Waterloo Journal the part-culars of a case similar to mine cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I determined to try them. In a few weeks there was a decided improvement in my condition, and by the time I had taken seven or eight boxes I was again in the best of health, and able to enjoy myself as well as any of my young friends."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LUKE FRINK.

On Monday morning, June 1st, the death occurred of Luke Frink, a respected resident of Collins Bay, in his 83rd year. Death was caused by a stroke. The deceased was a son of David Frink, and had lived in Kingston all his life. He left there a few years later and went to Whitby. In 1866 he served in the 34th Battalion at the Fenian Raid, for which he had just received a medal and grant in New Ontario. In 1857 he married Miss Experience Kelley, who only lived three years, and left two small children, who are now Mrs. Wm. Bowerman, of Kenyon, Michigan, and Mrs. Permilla Cook, of Ethel, Wyo. Of Herman Kerwin, Collins Bay. In religion deceased was a Methodist.

A very baldheaded man went into the barber shop in the American House in our town and, plumping himself down in the chair, said:

"Hair cut."

Ed., the barber, looked at him a moment and replied:

"Boy, you don't need no hair cut. What you want is a shine."

FIRE! FIRE! FIRE!

PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY WITH

The Cameron Steel Ladder and Fire Escape

It is practical, it is made of Bessimer steel, it is permanent, it is inexpensive, it is always ready for use, it is indestructible, it costs less than any fire escape and is without a competitor. Ice and snow will not adhere to it. No rot, as in the case of wooden ladders. It should be on all churches, schools, hotels, private houses, barns and outbuildings.

This flexible steel ladder is made in two sizes of selected Bessimer steel; 3 8 inches for dwellings, barns and outbuildings, and 7 16 inches for fire escapes. When adjusted to the wall they are as firm as the wall itself. It has been commended, amongst many others, by the following:

D. R. Noonan,	Chief of Fire Dept.,	Perth.
J. P. Quigley,	"	Syracuse.
E. J. Jewhurst,	"	Auburn, N.Y.
C. M. Hogg,	"	Binghampton, N.Y.

VILLON (10140) (1014)

Villon (10140 1014), is from the same sire as Shiptake, Champion Hipp stepper of Europe.

He is from one of the best families, and is one of the best bred horses in Ontario to-day.

From a photograph from life.

Nphew of Dan Patch 1:56, the fastest harness horse the world has ever known.

Villon has proved himself to us the past season a sure foal-getter, and a horse in every way. He will make the season of 1908 at his own stable, Milton, and a few outside points.

PURE-BRED CLYDESDALES

NO VAR (3459)

Commonly known by his every-day name "Sindy" needs no introduction, as he and his stock are now widely known as among the finest and best in the land. Name not two years old could not be bought for $150.

Leaves his stable Monday morning, arriving at the Royal Hotel, Napanee, Tuesday noon. Leaving there Wednesday morning. Goes via Morven on his last season's route.

JOE THE BANKER (3215)

"Joe's" colts are growing up fine, one not yet 2 years old, recently sold for $145, and he has many more in this class, and even better. He will travel over nearly the same route as last season. With other good qualities, all these horses have splendid feet, and are extra fast walkers. Two very important points in any horse. Services and terms same as last season.

CONGRATULATIONS.

That Lenney ends out some of the brightest intellects that are to-day in the United States has been proven by the results of the recent examinations at the Pennsylvania University, when Mr. Frank Albert Paul, son of Mr. Geo. M. Paul, formerly of Roblin, stood among the five highest in a class in which 540 were successful. Mr. Paul on entering the University took the "City of Philadelphia" scholarship, which was the highest prize obtainable. In his first year he took the Fraser prize, and each year since he has stood among the leaders. That he is popular with his class is shown by the fact that he was elected editor of "Red and Blue," the University of Pennsylvania, for two years. For three years he has been on the Intercollegiate Debating team, for the past two years as captain. This year the team of three defeated Columbia, New York and Harvard. Mr. Paul is not yet 21, and while he has graduated in law, proposes going further and taking honors for the highest positions in the country. He is a nephew of Mr. A. E. Paul, Napanee.

RE SCHOOL QUESTION.

The teacher is one who makes two ideas grow where there was only one before. Just here seems a good place to say that we live in a very stupid, old world, round this an orange and slightly flattened at the poles. The proof of this seemingly pessimistic remark, made by a hopeful and cheerful man, lies in the fact that we place small premium in either honor or money on the business of teaching. As in the olden times, butchers and scullions ranked with musicians and the master of the hounds wore a bigger medal than the poet—Laureate. So do we pay our teachers the same as coachman and coal heavers, giving them a plentiful lack of everything but overwork. I will never be quite willing to admit that this country is enlightened, until we cease the insane and narrowminded policy of trying to drive all the really strong men and women out of the teaching profession by putting them on the pay-roll at one half the rate or less than that which the same brains and energy can command elsewhere.

In the year of our Lord, 1906, in a time of peace, we appropriated $400,000,000 for war and war appliances and this sum is just double the cost of the entire public school system in America. It is not the necessity of economy that dictates our actions in this matter of education—we simply are not enlightened. But this thing cannot always last. I look for the time when we shall set apart the best and noblest men and women of earth for teachers, and their compensation will be so adequate and just that they will be free to give themselves for the benefit of the race, without apprehension of a yawning almshouse.

A liberal policy will be for our own good, just as a matter of cold expediency it will be enlightened self-interest.

Rochester, N.Y., June 8th, 1906.

BASEBALL.

A game of ball was played at the park on Wednesday afternoon, between the Bankers and Business men of the town, resulting in the defeat of the former by a score of 15-4. Following is the score:

BANKERS.

McNeill, c.	0	2
Oldfield, c.	0	3
Barker, lf.	0	3
Chenoweth, 1b.	0	1
Hill, s.s.	1	2
Bellhouse, cf.	0	1
Travers, 3b.	1	3
Carroll, rf.	1	0
Belfie, 2b.	0	3
	3	27

BUSINESS MEN.

Ham, lf.	2	4
Sills, 1b.	3	4
Dafoe, c.	3	1
Daly, 3b.	3	2
Maybee, 2b.	2	2
Vrooman, cf.	1	0
Grange, s.s.	1	1

Score by Innings—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Business Men	0	0	0	3	0	1	0	0	2	—15
Bankers	0	0	1	0	0	0	3	0	0	—4

NOTES.

J. S. Ham made a base-hit, stole second by a wonderful slide and soiled his cuff.

Dr. Sills said the business men would have trounced the bankers more easily, only they had to put out four men in one innings.

The umpire did not give Will. Smith a square deal in calling him out on strikes. Will. declared himself, but what the umpire said was law. Revenue followed in the next innings, and Smith made a two-base hit, but only reached first owing to his lack of training.

Herb. Daly, C. I. Maybee, Jee Murchand Will. Grange played an excellent game.

Dr. Vrooman distinguished himself at centre field, and covered a lot of ground in sliding to second, which called for a visit to the tailor.

D. L. Hill made the star play of the game in stealing home.

Dr. Leonard made an excellent umpire. First baseman of the Bankers is convinced that Will. Grange is a knocker. He left a very good impression behind him, even though the ground was hard.

Catcher McNeill, even though he sustained a bad cut in the hand, put up a superb game.

The "fannies" of Barker, Carroll and Oldfield didn't seem to keep them cool.

Two a.m. barrelers cut out when the score stood 14 to 4 against the Bankers, for a small urchin with a glove nearly his size to approach a Banker and challenge them for a game—with a confidence of winning that would even put the Business men to shame.

A game will be played at the park on Monday night at 6.30, between a picked team from the town with Wood and Rowe as battery, against the regular league team.

The following cases were disposed of:

McVeen vs. Joyce—An action brought by John S. McVeen, Kingston, meat dealer, against Elwood Joyce, Napanee, to recover damages for loss incurred on a carload of apples which the plaintiff claimed were not of standard quality. The jury, brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $172.50, and recommended that each party pay his own costs, and on this verdict Mr. Judge directed judgment to be entered after 30 days for the plaintiff for $172.50, without costs. H. M. Deroche, K.C., for plaintiff; W. S. Herrington, K.C., for defendant.

Masters vs. Rogers—This case was postponed until the non-jury sittings on the 5th October next, by consent of all parties. U. M. Wilson for plaintiff; H. M. Deroche, K.C., for defendant.

Schuman vs. Parks—An action brought by Frank Schuman, of Fredericksburgh, against Hiram H. Parks, to recover possession of an island in Hay Bay. A great number of witnesses were examined and His Honor reserved judgment for ten days to give the parties a chance to settle. John English for plaintiff; U. M. Wilson for defendant.

There being no criminal business the Grand Jury were not in attendance.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE
By CHAS. KLEIN.
A Story of American Life Novelized from the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLOW.

Copyright, 1906, by G. W. Dillingham Company.

"The Lion and the Mouse," novelized from Charles Klein's great play, is an American story of the hour dealing with the billionaire. Its leading character is the richest man in the world. In the thinly veiled John Ryder the reader will immediately recognize another John of worldwide fame. John Ryder's unscrupulous methods are revealed in the conspiracy to ruin an unscrupulous judge who rules adversely to the interests of organized capital. The judge's daughter determines to save him. Her heroic struggles in conflict with the money octopus make a story of absorbing interest and great dramatic power. In his willingness to renounce his father's fortune for the girl of his choice, Ryder's son displays a nobility which wins the reader's warmest admiration.

CHAPTER I.

There was unwonted bustle in the usually sleepy and dignified New York offices of the Southern and Transcontinental Railroad Company in lower Broadway.

It was the regular quarterly meeting of the directors of the Southern and Transcontinental Railroad Company, but it was something more than mere routine that had called out a quorum of such strength and which made today's gathering one of extraordinary importance in the history of the road. That the business on hand was of the greatest significance was easily to be inferred from the concerned and anxious expression on the directors' faces and the eagerness of the employees as they plied each other with questions.

"Suppose the injunction is sustained?" asked the clerk in a whisper. "Is not the road rich enough to bear the loss?"

The man he addressed turned impatiently to the questioner.

"That's all you know about railroading. Don't you understand that this suit we have lost will be the entering wedge for hundreds of others? The very existence of the road may be at stake. And between you and me," he added in a lower key, "with Judge Roosmore on the bench we never stood much show. It's Judge Roosmore that seares me, not the injunction. They've found it easy to corrupt most of the supreme court judges, but Judge Roosmore is one too many for them. You could no more bribe him than you could have bribed Abraham Lincoln.

"But the newspapers say that he, too, has been caught accepting $50,000 worth of stock for that decision he rendered in the Great Northwestern case."

"Lies! All those stories are lies," replied the other emphatically. Then, looking cautiously around to make sure no one overheard, he added contemptuously: "The big interests fear him, and they're inventing these lies to try and injure him. They might as well try to blow up Gibraltar. The fact is the public is seriously aroused this time, and the railroads are in a panic.

It was true. The railroad, which heretofore had considered itself superior to law, and found itself above the reach of outlawry and oppression. The railroad, this modern octopus of steam and steel which stretches its greedy tentacles out over the land, had at last been brought to book.

TAMWORTH.

Rev. Mr. Dixon will preach to the Free Masons next Sunday afternoon at 2.30 p.m., in the Methodist church —Mrs. John Mitchell and daughter, of Roanoak, Mass., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Aylsworth.—Mrs. Harvey Wheeler, of Buffalo, N.Y., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Wagar.—One of the bigest events of the season will be a grand Methodist picnic in Cox-all's grove on July 1st. Baseball match, sports and games of all kinds will be indulged in. Everybody welcome and enjoy a good day's outing. —All stores in Tamworth will be closed every Wednesday afternoon during July and August.—The past rains have brightened up the crops and everybody is looking forward to a good harvest.—Messrs. Gilmour and Reid have the contract of putting on a new cornice on the Rose block, which adds much to the appearance.—George Correy, of Picton, say, visited his mother on Tuesday last.—Mrs. Jas. Rogers called at Mrs. Sarn and William Shannon's one day this week.—All the principal stores in Tamworth will be closed on July 1st, as it is a general holiday.—Mrs. George Pope and son, of Peterboro', are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Way.—Tamworth and Erinsville played baseball on Saturday. Score 11-16, in favor of Tamworth.—Go to Floyd & Co.'s for the best boots in town.

ODESSA.

A few from this place attended the Free Methodist camp meeting at Carrons, and got their blessing and grand rain we had. Every farmer had a smiling face next morning, as the rain came just in the nick of time.—Court on Wednesday. Judge Madden present.—Our dentist, Dr. Nash, will be here on Wednesday, the 17th inst. After that date his friends will find him at Kingston, over Chown's drug store. He finds it a loss to come here now, as he has a good practice there. Well, success to him.—Mrs. Ed. Lindsay is visiting friends by his kind, pleasant and obliging manner.—A load of foresters drove from Kingston on the Tuesday evening, and had a gay time in the Medical Hall ice cream parlor, where lunch was served, with plenty of ice cream. The members of the lodge here were invited and spent a pleasant evening.—On Tuesday evening the lawn social as advertised, was held on Mr. Hiram Perry's lawn. The band attended and gave a good pleasure. There was also singing by the choir and others, with plenty of good things to eat and lots of ice cream, and though the evening was cool, a pleasant time was spent. Proceeds about $50.00. —There is a rumor that some despicable sneak is sending anonymous letters to some of the young girls, and others as to fit associates. Perhaps it would be advisable for the writer thereof to be put in the cell down and look over his own family history, and see if it is immaculate before attending others. A word to the wise should be sufficient.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Watts, of Oshawa, are his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Watts.—Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Cooper, of Wagner, visited here on Wednesday.

YARKER.

The Rev. Mr. Real, of Napanee, preached a very impressive sermon on Sunday night.—On Wednesday morning one of our brightest young ladies in the person of Miss. Ida Veroux, and Mr. William Kerr, of Petworth, were united in holy bonds of matrimony at the parsonage, Napanee, by the Rev. J. R. Real. — A great number from here took in the camp meeting at Verona on Sunday. —Mr. William Simkins, who has been suffering with blood poison, went to the general hospital, Kingston, on Wednesday.—Mrs. Miller, Bay Ouite, is a visitor at the parsonage.—Mrs. Gilmour, Tamworth, visited friends here on Wednesday.—J. Hamilton returned home, after spending a week with friends in Bethel. —The congregation of the Yarker Methodist church, which numbered 100 or more, gathered at the lawn of Mr. James Warner, on Wednesday evening and partook of a sumptuous supper, after which the following address was read by Mr. Cyrus Edgar, and a well filled purse presented to Mr. and Mrs. Farnsworth, showing our appreciation of their kindness and esteem among us.

To the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Farnsworth:

Dear Friends,—We, the members and adherents of Yarker Methodist church, having learned with regret that you are about to be removed to another field of labor could not forbear showing the high esteem and respect we have for you and the warm place you occupy in our hearts. You have been with us now as strangers to us, and during that time you have labored hard for the Master's cause.

We have watched with pleasure the marked success attending your efforts in church work on this circuit during that year, which is due to your industrious, earnest, painstaking efforts. We wish to thank you particularly for Mrs. Farnsworth's interest in the Sabbath School and in the Ladies' Aid branches of the church, whose kind advice and willingness at all times to perform your efforts, could not soon be forgotten.

In parting with you we are fully conscious that we are losing those friends whose places we feel it will be hard to fill, and whom we would gladly have retained had circumstances allowed it. But our loss will be their gain, and we feel encouraged, for you will find work to do in the Master's vineyard in your new field, and we trust that in your new field the same success will attend your efforts.

We now ask you to accept this purse of gold, which we have collected, and use it in such a way as to bring kind remembrances of your friends here to Yarker. This magnificent gathering, sir, to your honor and that of your beloved wife, is a testimonial that you have, in all good work, proven the warmth of your friendship for your people, and the love you have for your fellow men.

And now for the present we say farewell, wishing yourselves and family a bright and happy future, and that you may long be spared to labor for Him who doeth all things well.

Signed on behalf of the congregation,

E. SIMPSON,
D. H. SMITH,
E. W. BENJAMIN,
JAS. WARNER.

Everybody is coming to Napanee for Dominion Day Celebration.

Why suffer from heat when you can get a delicious meal at all conditions and sell to your cooking and not cool you. Use them at BOYLE & SON'S.

SELBY.

There has been no news from our little village recently. Wonder what has happened our correspondent ? We are sorry to state Mrs. John McGuinness is not much better. Mrs. Martin Davis, Mrs. Fred Hull and two children, Big Rapids, Mich., are visiting Mr. Alex. Davis.—Mr. Frank Amey's house will soon be completed.—Our village is improving its appearance with a new cement walk.—Miss Evelyn Turnbull visited at Mr. Martin Bradshaw's, also at Alex. Davis'. — Mr. Dan. Hambly at M. Bradshaw's, Sunday night. We are sorry to lose our teacher, Miss McCoy, who leaves at the end of the term. — Miss Myra Valleau spent a couple of days at Napanee with Mr. and Mrs. J. Davis spent Sunday at A. Davis'.—Rumor states a wedding.

FELLOWS.

We had quite a rain in this vicinity on Sunday and Monday last. I guess every body was glad to see it come, as it has been very dry indeed.—Mr. John Shaw is clapboarding his house over new, which will make a great improvement.—Miss Ella Dawson, of Kingston, but formerly of Fellows, was united in marriage to Mr. Henry Jones, of Kingston. We all join in wishing them a long and prosperous life.—Mr. Horace Benyes and Mr. Percy Parrott are all smiles; it's two boys.—Miss Della Shillington spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. John Dawson.—Mr. Stanley Rose, of Kingston, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Fellows.—Mrs. Robert Silver and children, of Marlbank, and Miss Annie Silver, of Camden East, spent Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson's, recently.—Mr. and Mrs. Bert. Wheeler were united in the holy bonds of matrimony on the 3rd inst. Miss Melmore Shay spent a few visiting friends at Kingston.—Quite a number from here attended the lawn social on the lawn of Mr. Elvin Parrott's. All report a good time.

ALBERT.

Planting is the order of the day.—Mrs. Lobie Jenkins has returned home, after spending the past few days with her sister, Mrs. Ralph Anderson.—Mr. Frank Marshall, of Kingston, made cheese at Albert cheese factory for Mr. Bert. Wheeler, last week.—Miss Ethel Anderson is visiting friends in this vicinity.—Mr. and Mrs. Lester Scott, of Napanee, is spending a few days at Mrs. R. Anderson's.—Rev. Mr. Hicks occupied the last week on account of our teacher's illness.—Mr. Bert. Wheeler wears a smile; it's a girl.—Mr. A. Whiteman spent Sunday under the parental roof.—Mr. J. Hunt had a bee on Monday last. Mr. H. Martin spent Sunday at Mr. W. Whiteman's.—Mr. F. Bradshaw and his mother spent Saturday at Bethel.—Mr. Bert. Wheeler was in Bellville a few days at Mr. B. Wheeler's.—Those who attended the Fair at Bellville, have returned home.—Rumors say a wedding soon.—Miss Margie Corrigan and Mr. McLaughlin were married at St. Charles' Church, on Monday morning. They left on the evening train for Montreal and other points east. We wish them a long and prosperous life.

HAWLEY.

Miss Lrona Fretts returned home from Toronto on Tuesday last.—Mr. Garrison has been laid up with rheumatism.—Mr. Walter Detlor is sporting a new wheel.—Miss Lena Ireland is here from Belleville on the entertainment and tea at Conway on June 11th. All report an enveient time. —Miss Maude Parks and Miss Cora Creighton took in the Branch meeting on July 1st, Missionary Society at Bowmanville last week.—Mrs. George Loyst spent Wednesday at F. W. Creighton's.—A number from here attended service at Canown on Sunday evening.—Mrs. W. Fretts and Mrs. T. M. Asselstine spent Wednesday at Bosport.—Mr. N. Allen comback returned home from Manitoba on Tuesday.—The Hawley football team played a match on their own field with Fairbairn team on Wednesday evening. The local put up a good fight, but were defeated 3-0. This is not bad, considering they had to play against the pick of three teams.—Mr. Wesley Young made a successful reiever.—Mr. Hughes, of Napanee, painted the schoolhouse the first week.—Strawberry festival will be given in the Methodist church on Wednesday evening, June 24th. Admission 25c. Strawberries, ice cream and cake. First three ladies served will get 1 free.—Is on the sick list. We hope for her speedy recovery.—Electric light is over the Ladies' Aid feel pretty well pleased with. Why because "they counted their chickens before they were hatched" and the proceeds of the strawberry festival will be light. A. C. Parks & Son are spraying their trees for oyster shell bark louse, and are using the Eureka preparation.—Mrs. Ed. Demille called a meeting on Wednesday evening for the purpose of organizing a ladies' aid, but as only a few were present, it was postponed for a week. Everybody interested was taken in the project, and we hope to see a large number present next week. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Ed. Demille; vice-president, Mrs. Wesley Young; secretary-treasurer, Miss Ethel Parks; executive committee, Mrs. Ed. Demille, Mrs. Wesley Young, Mrs. Ed. Parks, Mrs. Jas. Parks, Mrs. Jas. DOMINION DAY AT TAMWORTH.

Great preparations are in progress at Tamworth for a day of sports, music, etc., on July 1st. A monster picnic, under the auspices of the Methodist church will be held at Milligan's grove and island, immediately south of the railway station. The Enterprise Brass Band will tender music throughout the day. A regular programme of sports, including a baseball match, is being arranged. Confectionery and ice cream stands will be erected on the grounds. A sumptuous dinner will be served. Altogether it promises to be a monster affair. Single fare on the railways. Admission to grounds, including dinner, 50 cents. Children, 25 cents. A Band Concert will be given at night. Particulars later. S. F. DIXON, Pastor. 20tf

NEXT WEDNESDAY,

June 24th, is the date for the first league game of baseball. On that date the fast Gananoque team will be here, and a good game may be loosed for. The park is in fine shape for baseball and the citizens should turn out in large numbers and encourage the local team. Admission, adults, 25c.; boys under 12 years, 10c.; ladies free. The management made a special effort this year to get into this league and it all depends upon the support they get from the people of Napanee in the way of gate receipts as to whether baseball will be a success in Napanee. Lovers of baseball without sport of this kind, so do your share, go to the game, and you will get your money's worth. Don't forget ladies free to every game, adults 25c., and boys under 12 years 10c. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

YOUR HEAD UNCOVERED.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propagates Hundred Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair, yet if the scalps of these men at once became infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply at the quickest for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing and as a dandruff cure contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists, or sent, in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co. Detroit, Mich.

WEDDED AT MARYSVILLE.

At the early hour of seven a.m. on Monday, June 8th, at St. Mary's church, Marysville, Rev. Father Quinlivan united in marriage Miss R. E. Loretta, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Meagher, Marysville, to Hyrum Scantlebury, Napanee, son of James Scantlebury. The bride was attended by Miss Anne Meagher, Enterprise, and the best man was John Meagher, brother of the bride. After the ceremony the nuptial mass was celebrated and the bride received the good wishes of her many friends, who came to witness the ceremony. Then the bridal party, with their very intimate friends, repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served, and all drank a toast to the bride and groom. Then the bride donned her travelling suit of brown, and the happy couple were escorted to the G.T.R. station, and left for points east, amid showers of rice, confetti, and good wishes. On their return they will make their home at Moor Lake, where the groom is a successful agent on the C. P. R.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by Druggists. Testimonials free.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

By resolution of Enterprise L. O. L. No. 431, to Bro. A. E. Smith, and his brothers and sisters.

We, the officers and members of L.O.L. No. 431, desire to here express our deepest sympathy to you in this your hour of bereavement.

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to take to himself your beloved father, Bro. Smith, although we know it is a dispensation which we cannot understand, we hope that you will look to a glorious resurrection when we shall meet those loved ones gone before. And we who is able to bear your burden and sustain you in this your hour of greatest trial and sorrow.

IN MEMORIAM.

Lines composed by a friend on the death of Mrs. Irvine Parks.

Stand not inside the breathless body weeping,
'Tis but the dress she wore;
The spirit of the dear one, is in God's keeping,
And has but gone before.

Perchance 'tis not for her your tears are falling,
But for your own sad loss?
Cease, broken hearted one, "Twas Jesus called her,
And he too sent the cross.

Would you recall her to this world of sorrow,
Where the touch pain has known?
The seed God planted now has bloomed the flower,
He gathered for His own.

And she shall not be lonely in that kingdom,
That land you cannot see;
For all the gone before were waiting for her
And now she waits for thee.

Close to the great white throne His lovely angels stand,
A crown of fadeless light,
Christ's own hand, and Heaven's expanse has gathered
Another star of light.

Your jewel has been placed in such bright setting,—
That 'tis far away,
Still down the earth through deepest cloud of sorrow
It seems a golden ray.

Another link to bind your hopes and longings
Still closer to that shore,
Where she has gone, take up thy cross and follow,
Christ Jesus is the Door.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Chambers,
Napanee, June 15th, 1908.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor Meng in the chair. Members present — Councillors Steacy, Alexander, Simpson, Kimmerly, Osborne and Reeve Symington.

Minutes of last session were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From J. Taylor, Secretary Kingston Asylum, producing documents containing names of those confined therein from this County—J. Loucks and John H. Lowry, both of Napanee, and the cost to the municipality from which they come. Ordered the enclosing blank schedule to be filled in.

On motion ordered clerk and that the Clerk be instructed to fill in the necessary schedule.

From A. G. Wilson, County Clerk, showing that the County assessm nt, etc., was $2900,000.00. On motion ordered filed.

From A. F. Ruttan, Solicitor and agent for Sir Richard John Cartwright, asking for certain exemptions on the Cartwright properties. On motion ordered filed.

From E. J. Pollard, C. W. Guess and Chas. Stacey, residents of Bridge street, asking for a cement walk on the usual conditions. On motion it was placed in the hands of the Street Commissioner to report at next meeting.

From Rev. T. P. O'Connor and others, asking for a cement walk to be placed outside of trees, on the south side, in the vicinity of the R. C. Church. Referred to Street Committee to investigate and report at next meeting of the Council.

Coun. Steacy reported that Mr. Forsythe, a pauper had been complaining to him that $1.00 per week was not sufficient for his maintenance, and asked that it be raised to $1.25. On motion the sum asked for was granted.

Mr. Ira Graves was By-law appointed poundkeeper at the sum of $2.50 per week, he to retain and account for fees collected by him.

Moved by Coun. Osborne, seconded by Coun. Steacy, that the resolution passed on April 6th last, in reference to voting the Citizens' Band $100.00, be rescinded. Lost.

Moved by Coun. Simpson, seconded by Coun. Alexander, that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to execute an agreement between John Lowry and the Corporation of Napanee in reference to the street sewer. Carried.

Moved by Coun. Osborne, seconded by Coun. Simpson, that the Street Commissioner be instructed to have the rubbish removed from street south of swing bridge, and utilized, if possible, in filling up holes in streets near by. Carried.

Moved by Coun. Simpson, seconded by Coun. Osborne, that this Council grant the Napanee band the sum of $99.00. Mayor Meng ruled this resolution out of order unless the previous motion to rescind, which motion had been put and lost.

The discussion of the great amount towards such a worthy cause, took up considerable time.

Reeve Symington thought it was a matter of very little importance, as he could not see why so much should be said of a thing of so little importance, and trying invariably to lose the dignity of the chair. The various rules brantished Mr. Simpson were waived and Mr. Callender's considerable time taken up in discussing.

Coun. Simpson thought the matter should be settled to-night as the season is getting along, the next meeting being three weeks hence, the first Monday in July.

Various opinions were given in reference to this donation, and the wheeling eventually simmered down to nothing, just where it was originally.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO MIDDLE LIFE

All Women Need the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make.

From girlhood to middle life the health and happiness of every woman depends on her blood. If her blood is pure and rich, the heroines weak, languid, pale and nervous. If her blood is poor, watery she suffers from headaches and backaches and other unspeakable misery, and is an easy victim to disease. At every stage of a woman's life Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are her best friend, because they actually make the rich, red blood which drives health and strength and tone to every organ of the body. They help a woman just when nature makes the greatest demand upon her blood supply. Mrs. H. Gagnon, who for twenty years has been one of the best known residents of St. Rosalie, Que., says:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. I was weak, pale, and suffered greatly and could not sleep well about. I suffered from headaches and dizziness, my appetite was poor and to attempt housework left me utterly worn out. I slept badly at night and what sleep I got did not refresh me. For two years I suffered from this condition and was constantly taking medicine but found no benefit from it. One of my neighbors who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a similar trouble advised me to try them. I did so, and the whole story is told in the words of my wife again. There is no doubt but what I take the pills for they seem to me a guarantee against the troubles which so many women suffer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not act on the bowels. They contain just the elements that actually make new blood and strengthen the nerves. That's why they cure anemia, indigestion, rheumatism, lumbago, headaches, backaches, St. Vitus dance, nervousness and sick headaches, and all diseases like pimples and eczema. That is why they are the greatest help in the world for growing girls who need new blood and for women who are troubles with irregular health. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DESMOND.

On Thursday evening, June 11th, a very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Quinn, the occasion being a reception tendered in honor of their son Silas L. and his bride on their return from their wedding trip. The house and lawn were tastefully decorated with flags and evergreens. Games of varied descriptions were indulged in until a late hour, when the guests, numbering about seventy, wended their way to their respective homes, well satisfied with the evening's entertainment. The newly wedded couple were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents, among which was a lovely mantle clock, presented to the bride by the young men of the district in appreciation for her services as organist in the Methodist church here. The young couple will be assisted in their start in their residence in Lansdowne, carry with them the best wishes of the community for their future welfare.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you would stop a simple cold only—you should avoid that nauseous, sickening, stomach-ruining cough syrup. Don't blindly suppose it with a drug-ging poison. It's strange how long this fact remains dear. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has persistently warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Morphine or Chloroform. Yet these are the very ingredients in such cough mixtures as you find in your Cough Mixture." Good! Refreshingly honest for this very reason should, therefore, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, she it must by law on the label. And it's only a few cents. It quickly relieves the cough. Relieves the whole system. Takes no chances then. Especially with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cure. Compare carefully the next time you buy with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can depend on it—the safe side by demanding

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

Copyright, 1906, by G. W. Dillingham Company.

John Burkett Ryder, the richest man in the world—the man whose name had spread to the farthest corners of the earth because of his wealth, and whose money, instead of being a blessing, promised to become the only curse to himself, but a source of dire peril to all mankind—was a genius born of the railroad age. No other age could have brought him forth. His peculiar talents fitted exactly the conditions of his time. Attracted early in life to the newly discovered oil fields of Pennsylvania, he became a dealer in the raw product and later a refiner, acquiring with capital, laboriously saved, first one refinery, then another. The railroads were cutting each other's throats to secure the freight business of the oil men, and John Burkett Ryder saw his opportunity. He made secret overtures to the road, guaranteeing a vast amount of business if he could get exceptionally low rates, and the illegal compact was made. His competitors, undersold in the market, stood no chance, and one by one they were crushed out of existence. Ryder called these maneuvers "business." The world called them brigandage. But the Colossus prospered and slowly built up the foundations of the extraordinary fortune which is the talk and the wonder of the world today. Master now of the oil situation, Ryder succeeded in his ambition of organizing the Empire Trading company, the most powerful, the most secretive and the most wealthy business institution the commercial world has yet known.

Yet with all this success John Burkett Ryder was still not content. He was now a rich man, richer by many millions than he had dreamed he could ever be, but still he was unsatisfied. He became money mad. He wanted to be richer still, to be the richest man in the world, the richest man the world had ever known. And the richer he got and the stronger the lion grew upon him with all the force of a morbid obsession.

Yet this commercial pirate, this Napoleon of finance, was not a wholly bad man. He had his redeeming qualities, like most bad men. His most pronounced weakness, and the one that had made him the most conspicuous mark of his time, was an entire lack of moral principle. No honest or honorable man could have amassed such stupendous wealth. In other words, John Ryder had not been equipped by nature, with a conscience. He had no sense of right or wrong or justice where his own interests were concerned. He was the prince of egoists. On the other hand, he possessed qualities which, with some people, count as virtues. He was pious and regular in his attendance at church, and, while he had done but little for charity, he was known to have encouraged the giving of alms by members of his family which consisted of a wife, whose timid voice was rarely heard, and a son Jefferson, who was the destined successor of his gigantic estate.

Such was the man who was the real power behind the Southern and Transcontinental railroad. More than any one else Ryder had been aroused by the present legislative action, not much for the money interest at stake as that any one should dare to thwart his will. It had been a pet scheme of his, this purchase for a song when the land was cheap of some thousand acres along the line, and it is true that at the time of the purchase there had been some idea of laying the land out as a park, but real estate values had increased in astonishing fashion, the road could no longer afford to carry out the original scheme and had attempted to dispose of the property for building purposes, including a right of way for a branch road. The matter was featured in the newspapers, had raised a storm of protest. The people in the vicinity claimed that the railroad secured the land on the express condition of a park being laid out, and in order to make a success of the new scheme of his, this portion, which had been sustained by Judge Rossmore of the United States circuit court.

These details were hastily told and retold by one clerk to another as the heads of various the inner room grew louder and more directors kept arriving from the ever busy elevators. The meeting was called for 3 o'clock. Another five minutes and the chairman would rap for order. A tall, strongly built man with white mustache and kindly smile emerged from the directors' room and, addressing one of the clerks, asked:

"Has Mr. Ryder arrived yet?"

The alacrity with which the employes hastened to reply would indicate that his interlocutor was a person of more than ordinary importance.

"No, senator, not yet. We expect him any minute." Then with a deferential smile he added, "Mr. Ryder usually arrives on the stroke, sir."

The senator gave a nod of acquiescence and, turning on his heel, greeted with a grasp of the hand and affable smile his fellow directors as they passed in by twos and threes.

Senator Roberts was in the world of politics what his friend John Burkett Ryder was in the world of finance—a leader of men. He started life in Wisconsin as an errand boy, was educated in the public schools, became bookkeeper in a dry goods store, finally going into business for his own account on a large scale. He was elected to the legislature, where his ability as an organizer soon gained the friendship of the men in power, and later was sent to congress, where he was quickly initiated in the game of corrupt politics. In 1886 he entered the United States senate. He soon became the acknowledged leader of a considerable majority of the Republican senators, and from there on he was a figure to be reckoned with. A very ambitious man, with a great love of power and little scruples, it is little wonder that only the practical or dishonest side of politics appealed to him. He was in politics for all there was in it, and he saw in his lofty position only a splendid opportunity for easy graft.

He did not hesitate to make such alliances with corporate interests seeking influence at Washington as would enable him to accomplish this purpose, and in this way he had met and formed a strong friendship with John Burkett Ryder. Each, being a master in his own field, was useful to the other. Neither was troubled with qualms of conscience, and they never quarreled. As Ryder interests needed anything in the senate, Roberts and his followers were there to attend to it. Just now the cohort was marshaled in defense of the railroads against the attacks of the new rebate bill. In fact, Ryder managed to keep the senate busy all the time. When, on the other hand, the senators wanted anything—and they often did—Ryder saw that they got it, lower rates for this one, a fat job for that one, and forgetting themselves. Senator Roberts was already a very rich man, and, although the world often wondered where he got it, no one had the courage to ask him.

But the Republican leader was stirred with an ambition greater than that of controlling a majority in the senate. He had a daughter, a marriageable young woman who, at least in her father's opinion, would make a desirable wife for any king. His daughter Ruth had a son, and this son was the only heir to the greatest fortune ever amassed by a single man, a fortune which at its present rate of increase by the time the father died and the young couple were ready to inherit would probably amount to over $6,000,000,000. Could the human mind grasp the possibilities of such a colossal fortune? It staggered the imagination. Its owner or the man who controlled it would be master of the world! Was not this a prize any man might well set himself out to win? The senator was thinking of it now as he stood exchanging banal remarks with the men who accosted him. If he could only bring off that marriage, he could be content. His ambition of his life would be attained. There was no difficulty as far as John Ryder was concerned. He favored the match and had often spoken of it. Indeed, Ryder favored it, for such an alliance would naturally further his business interests in every way. Roberts knew that his daughter Kate had more than a liking for Ryder's handsome young son. Moreover, Kate was practical, like her father, and had sense enough to realise what it would mean to be the mistress of the Ryder fortune. No, Kate was all right, but there was young Ryder to reckon with. It would take two in this case to make a bargain.

Jefferson Ryder was, in truth, an entirely different man from his father. He was difficult to realise that both had sprung from the same stock. A college bred boy, with all the advantages his father's wealth could give him, he had inherited from the parent only those characteristics which would have made him a man's contempt for lack of activity, pluck, application, dogged obstinacy, alert mentality. To these qualities he added what his father sorely lacked—a high notion of honor, a keen sense of right and wrong. He had the honorable man's contempt for meanness of any description, and he had little patience with the lie, so called business morals of the day. For him a dishonorable or dishonest action could by no apology be excused, and could see no difference between the crime of the hungry wretch who stole a loaf of bread and the banker who systematically robbed both his employees and the public. In fact, had he been on the bench he would probably have acquitted the human derelict who in despair had appropriated the prime necessity of life and sent the overfed, conscienceless coal baron to jail.

The hands of the large clock in the senate lobby pointed to 3, and a sedate, dapper little man with glasses and with looks under his arm passed hurriedly from another office into the directors' room.

"There goes Mr. Lane with the minutes, senator," called out one. "Where's Mr. Ryder?" asked one of the directors.

There was a general move of the scattered groups of directors toward the committee room. The clock overhead began to strike. The last stroke had yet quite died away when the big swinging doors from the street were thrown open and there entered a tall, thin man, gray headed and bent with a slight stoop, but keen eyed and alert. He was dressed in a frock coat, a well fitting frock coat; white waistcoat, black tie and silk hat.

It was John Burkett Ryder, the Colossus.

CHAPTER II.

Fifty-six John Burkett Ryder was surprisingly well preserved. With the exception of the slight stoop already noted and the rapidly thinning snow white hair, his step was as light and elastic and his brain as vigorous and alert as in a man of forty. Of old English stock, his physical makeup presented all those strongly marked characteristics of our race which sprung from Anglo-Saxon ancestry, but modified by nearly 300 years of different climate and customs has gradually produced the distinct and free American type, as easily recognizable among the family of nations as any other of the earth's children.

Tall and distinguished looking, Ryder would have attracted attention anywhere. Men who have accomplished much in life usually bear plainly upon their persons the indefinable stamp of achievement, whether of good or evil, which renders them conspicuous among their fellows. We turn after a man in the street and ask, Who is he? And nine times out of ten the object of our curiosity is a man who has made his mark—a successful soldier, a famous sailor, a celebrated author, a distinguished lawyer, or even a notorious crook.

There was certainly nothing in John Ryder's outward appearance to justify Lombroso's sensational description of him: "A social and physiological freak, a degenerate and a prodigy of corruption who, in the pursuit of money, crushes with the insensibility of a steel machine every one who stands in his way." On the contrary, Ryder, outwardly at least, was a prepossessing looking man. His head was well shaped, and he had an intellectual brow, while power was expressed in every feature of his hard cut face. Every inch of him suggested strength and resourcefulness. His face, when in good humor, frequently assumed in a pleasant smile, and he had even been known to laugh boisterously, usually at his own stories, which he rightly considered very droll, and of which he possessed a goodly stock. But in repose his face grew stern and forbidding, and when his prognathous jaw, indicative of will power and bulldog tenacity, snapped to with a click like sound, those who heard it knew that squalls were coming.

But it was John Ryder's eyes that were regarded as the most reliable barometer of his mental condition. Wonderful eyes they were, strangely eloquent and expressive, and their most singular feature was that they possessed the uncanny power of changing color like a cat's. When their owner was at peace with the world, and had temporarily shaken off the cares of business, his eyes were of the most restful, beautiful blue, like the sky after sunrise on a spring morning, and looking into their serene depths it seemed absurd to think that this man could ever harm a fly. His face, while under the spell of this kindly mood, was so benevolent and gentle, so frank and honest that you felt there was nothing in the world—purse, honor, wife, child—that if needs be, you would not intrest to his keeping.

When the period of truce was ended, when the plutocrat was once more absorbed in controlling the political as well as the commercial machinery of the nation, then his eyes took on a snakish, greenish hue, and one could plainly read in them the cunning, the avariciousness, the meanness, the insatiable thirst for gain that had made this man the most unscrupulous monopolist of his time, but his eyes had still another color, and when this last transformation took place those dependent upon him and even his friends quaked with fear, for they were his eyes of anger. On these dreaded occasions his eyes grew black as darkest night and flashed fire as lightning rends the thunderclond. Almost ungovernable fury was indeed the weakest spot in John Ryder's armor, for in these moments of appalling wrath he was reckless of what he said or did, friendship, self interest, prudence, all were sacrificed.

Such was the Colossus on whom all eyes were turned as he entered. Instantly the conversation stopped as by magic. The directors nudged each other and whispered. Instinctively Ryder singled out his crony, Senator Roberts, who advanced with effusive gesture.

"Hello, senator!"

"You're punctual, as usual, Mr. Ryder. I never knew you to be late."

Ryder passed on and into the directors' room, followed by Senator Roberts and the other directors, the procession being brought up by the dapper little secretary bearing the minutes.

With a nod here and there Ryder took his place in the chairman's seat and rapped for order. Then at a sign from the chair the dapper little secretary began in a monotonous voice to read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Quickly they were approved, and the chairman proceeded as rapidly as possible with the regular business routine. That disposed of, the meeting was declared to be called for order, and Ryder then calmly proceeded to present the facts in the case.

Some years back the road had acquired as an investment some thousands of acres of land located in the outskirts of Ashurstdale, on the line of their road. The land was bought cheap, and there had been some talk of laying part of it out as a public park. This promise had been made at the time in good faith, but it was on condition of the sale. If afterward, owing to the rise in the value of real estate, the road found it impossible to carry out the original idea, surely they were masters of their own property? The people of Ashurstdale thought differently and, goaded on by the local newspapers, had begun action in the courts to restrain the road from diverting the land from its alleged original purpose. They had succeeded in getting the injunction, but the road had fought it tooth and nail and finally carried it to the supreme court, where Judge Rossmore's decision reversing his opinion had finally sustained the injunction and decided against the railroad. That was the situation.

Several directors spoke, the arguments of each one being merely a reiteration of those already heard, Ryder did not listen to what was being said, for he should be? Was he not familiar with every possible phase of the game? Better than these men who merely talked, he was planning how the railroad and all his other interests could get rid of the troublesome judge, Rossmore.

He who controlled legislatures and dictated to supreme court judges had found himself powerless when each turn of the legal machinery had brought him face to face with Judge Rossmore. Suit after suit had been decided against him and the interests he represented, and each time it was Judge Rossmore who had handed down the decision. So for years these two men had fought a silent but bitter duel in which principle on the one side and attempted corruption on the other were the gage of battle. Judge Rossmore fought with the weapons which his oath and the law placed in his hands to use, Ryder with the only weapons he knew—bribery and trickery. And each time it had been Judge Rossmore who had emerged triumphant. Despite every unscrupulous expedient which could suggest, notwithstanding every cool that could be played to undermine his credit and reputation, Judge Rossmore stood higher in the country's confidence than when he was first appointed.

So when Ryder found he could not corrupt this honest judge with gold he decided to destroy him with calumny. No scruples embarrassed Ryder in arriving at this determination. From his point of view he was fully justified. "Business is business. He hurts my interests; therefore I remove him." So he argued, and he considered it no more wrong to wreck the happiness of this honorable man than he would to have shot him in self defense. So having thus tranquilized his conscience he had gone to bed and slept the sleep of innocence, and his success had surpassed the most sanguine expectations.

This is what he had done.

Like many of our public servants whose labors are compensated only in disproportion to the large responsibility country, Judge Rossmore was a man of but moderate means. His income for years had been a constant one was $12,000 a year, but for a man in his position, having a certain appearance to keep up, it little more than kept the wolf from the door. He lived quietly, but comfortably, in New York with his wife and his daughter Shirley, an attractive young woman who had graduated from Vassar and had shown a marked taste for literature. The daughter's education had cost a good deal of money, and this, together with life insurance and other husbandly and fatherly house in New York, had about taken all he had. Yet he had managed to live within his means, and this year he could put by a fifth of his salary the judge considered himself lucky. Besides, he had been left wholly independent of his wife's fortune

The Song of the Hair

There are four verses. Verse 1. Ayer's Hair Vigor stops falling hair. Verse 2. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow. Verse 3. Ayer's Hair Vigor cures dandruff. Verse 4. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the scalp healthy, and keeps it so. It is a regular hair-food; this is the real secret of its wonderful success.

TITUS—LONGMORE.

Brooklyn Times.

Huntington, June 12.—Charles Victor Titus was made happy at noon on Wednesday, June 10th, when Miss Hattie B. Longmore promised to become Mrs. Charles V. Titus till death do them part. The wedding took place at the charming home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Longmore, at Camden East, Canada, the Rev. Mr. Gandier officiating. The bride was unusually charming in a costume of white silk. She was attended by Miss Ethel Titus, sister of the bride-groom, as bridesmaid, in a becoming costume of pink. The groom's best man was Lynden Longmore, brother of the bride. Directly after the congratulations and an elaborate repast, the bride and groom left for Toronto and Niagara Falls. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Titus, of Huntington. The bride is beloved throughout Long Island, having been one of the first graduates of the Nassau Hospital Training School for Nurses and one of the most capable ever graduated from there. Mr. and Mrs. Titus will occupy a cozy home in Huntington.

"How I hated work in those days!" said Mark Twain, recalling his boyhood. "Mother would call me morning my father led me into the garden and pointed to a bed of flowers that had a considerable number of weeds in it.

"I want you," said my father, "to weed out this flower bed."

I examined the task ahead of me, and the more I looked at it the bigger it seemed to grow. Certainly I had never seen so many weeds in my life.

"Wouldn't it be a simpler operation," I said to my father, "to flower out the weed bed?"

WORSE THAN ONIONS

BAD BREATH FROM INDIGESTION CANNOT BE OVERCOME WITH PERFUMES.

Nine-tenths of the offensive breath is a result of stomach trouble. It cannot be overcome by breath perfumes or any other palliative measures.

If you have a bad breath; if there is heartburn, flatulence and gulpings of undigested food; if the stomach burns or smarts; if there is drowsiness, headaches or any other symptoms of indigestion, use Mi-o-na stomach tablets and get well.

A 25 cent box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets lasts for a couple of weeks and will ward off a dozen mild attacks of indigestion, while its continued use will give an absolute and complete cure.

T. H. Wallace has seen so many cures made by Mi-o-na stomach tablets that he gives a guarantee with every box to refund the money if it fails.

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "spring fever," but there is a cure — Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the after effect of our winter habits. Don't drug at such a time. Tired, worn-out nerves have no languid, lifeless, or limpid spirits or appetite. Ayer's Sarsaparilla will tone and invigorate the nerves, make the blood rich and pure, and the whole system receives new life. Ask your doctor if you should not bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do much good. It tones to satisfy you that its remedy is nothing short of the best. Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and forceful spring tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other medicine sarsa or sometimes-al tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite. Ask your druggist what he thinks of it. Ask his advice. Then do as he says in addition. That is a fair deal, and be sanctioned. For sale by T. B. Wallace. 24d

A large attendance was noted.—Mr. Albert Christie is expected home from the Cobalt on a flying visit to his mother, Mrs. Charles Curlette.

ALBERT.

A very pretty wedding took place on Monday, June 8th, at St. Paul's Church, Read, when Michael J. McLaughlin, of Forest Mills, and Margaret A. Corrigan, second daughter of Michael Corrigan, were united in marriage by the Rev. Father McCarthy. The bride was prettily attired in white silk and white hat and carried a white ivory prayer book. Miss Annie McLaughlin, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and was dressed in blue silk and wore a white hat. Denis J. Corrigan, brother of the bride, did the duties of best man. After the ceremony a number of guests came to the home of the bride's father at Albert, where a sumptuous repast awaited them. The happy couple left on the evening train for Brantford, thence to Montreal on board the "Rapid King." The many presents which the bride received testified to the high esteem in which she is held. The groom's present to the bride was a handsome gold bracelet set with amethyst, to the bridesmaid a gold chain and cross, and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links. The young couple will take up their residence at Forest Mills, and take with them the best wishes of a large number of friends.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS FOR YOUNG MOTHERS

The hot weather months are an anxious time for all mothers, but particularly for young mothers. They are the most fatal months in the year for babies and young children, because of the great prevalence of stomach and bowel troubles. These come almost without warning, and often before the mother realizes that there is danger the little one may be beyond aid. It is the duty of every mother to use all reasonable precautions to ward off summer complaints. For this purpose no other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets. An occasional dose will regulate the stomach and bowels, allay fever, prevent and expel worms, and ensure the little one good health. If the trouble comes unexpectedly the Tablets will quickly cure it. They are therefore, should keep the Tablets on hand always; they may be the means of saving your child's life. They are guaranteed free from opiates and narcotics, and may be given with perfect safety by the youngest born babe or feeblest invalid. They are sold by all druggists or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY WITH

The Cameron Steel Ladder and Fire Escape

It is practical, it is made of Bessimer steel, it is permanent, it is inexpensive, it is always ready for use, it is indestructible, it costs less than any fire escape and is without a competitor. Ice and snow will not adhere to it. No rot, as in the case of wooden ladders. It should be on all churches, schools, hotels, private houses, barns and outbuildings.

This flexible steel ladder is made in two sizes of selected Bessimer steel; 3 inches for dwellings, barns and outbuildings, and 7-16 inches for fire escapes. When adjusted to the wall they are as firm as the wall itself. It has been commended, amongst many others, by the following:

D. R. Noonan, Chief of fire Dept., Perth.
J. P. Quigley, " Syracuse.
E. J. Jewhurst, " Auburn, N.Y.
C. M. Hogg, " Binghampton, N.Y.
J. H. Espey, " Elmira.

SCANLIN—MEAGHER.

A very pretty ceremony was solemnized at St. Mary's church, Marysville, on Monday, June 8th, at 7 a.m., when Miss Margaret E. Lorena Meagher, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Meagher, was united in marriage to James Byron Scanlin, son of Mr. James Scanlin, of Enterprise. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Meagher, and was of a very quiet nature, owing to the illness of the bride's brother, Miss Mary Traynor, a friend of the bride, played the wedding march, and as the sweet strains peeled forth, the bride, handsomely attired in grey silk voile with touches of blue and pretty blue hat, and carrying a bouquet of beautiful white roses, and leaning on the arm of her father, was escorted to the altar. Miss Annie Scanlin, sister of the groom, attended the bride, and was attired in blue voile with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Thomas Meagher, brother of the bride, was best man. A beautiful gold pin set with pearls was the gift of the groom to the bride, and a handsome gold ring and pearl pin to the attendant and best man. After the breakfast was partaken of by only the immediate relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Scanlin left for Montreal and Quebec. The bride's travelling suit was of brown with hat to match. A large number of costly presents testified to the esteem in which the happy couple are held. The bride was very popular among friends for her bright and vivacious manner and kindliness of heart. Mr. and Mrs. Scanlin attended action agent at Moor Lake on the C.P.R.

HE PICKED UP THE PAPER.

A good story is being told about a Kingston traveller who visited Desoronto some time ago. It is his duty to collect certain coupons from merchants who handle his firm's goods. He came out of a store with a handful of the paper, which he immediately proceeded to tear up and throw in the street, and which fell eye of the chief-of-police caught the act. "It's against the by-law to throw paper in the street," warned the chief. "Better pick it up !". "I'll think a great deal of it," said the drummer. "It sometimes costs money to think about doing things here instead of doing them." commented the chief. The drummer still refused to pick up the tiny bits of paper. The chief thereupon hastened away and swore out a summons for the arrest of the traveller in police court next morning. The magistrate imposed a fine of $1.85 and compelled the traveller to go back and pick up the paper.

1st JULY AT TAMWORTH.

The General Committee arranging Dominion Day celebration here decided this morning to hold picnic at Cozall's grove, which includes several acres and the Napanee Railway station ground. The entrance is immediately south of Bridge st. Present sale of tickets indicates a monster crowd from far and near. Full programme of sports is under way. Prize baseball match will be between Tamworth and Marlbank, and the winning team will be awarded fifty dollars. Cash prizes will also be given for other sports. Competition open to all. Enterprise Brass Band in full force will render music throughout the day. Two ice cream and confectionery booths will be on the grounds. Sumptuous dinner served from 12.30 a.m. until all are served. Single fare tickets on railway, good to return July 2d. Railway will hold afternoon train going south here until 5 o'clock. Admission to grounds, including dinner, 50 cents. Children under 12 years, 25 cents. Supper served for 15 cents additional. Day will wind up with Band concert in Town Hall at 8 o'clock. Home and foreign talent, vocal and instrumental, including an orchestra. Watch for hand bills. Admission for concert, 25 cents. Spend Dominion Day and evening at Tamworth. E. F. DIXON, Pastor.

CANOE RACES.

The weekly regatta of the Canoe Club was held on the south course of Light's dock to swing bridge. The tours were keenly contested, also the Backward race. The Upset race proved an amusing locker, but owing to the difficulty disappointed many of the spectators of the view. The Sports Committee have decided to start their races at 7 p.m. sharp, allowing time of 10 minutes from finish of race to start of next regatta, on Thursday, 25th. The regatta promises an interesting time.

Fours—1st, Carrol, Dafoe, Grange and Bell; 2d, Chenoweth, Dafoe, Bell and Bellis. 3d, Barber, Anderson, McAllister and Robinson.

Backwards—1st, Chenoweth; 2d, Carrol. 3d, Anderson.

Singles—1st Chenoweth, 2d Carrol, 3d Barber.

Upset—1st Carrol, 2d Anderson, 3d Layton.

The Doukies owing to late entries being too late were called off.

The Club would express a desire to have the membership enlarged, and would be pleased to welcome all who will help promote the sport.

TRIP THROUGH RUSSIA.

The following interesting letter was received this week by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rose from their daughter, Mrs. C. V. Sale, who is travelling from Japan to England via Russia over the Siberian railway:

Moscow, Russia,
May 27th, 1908.

My Dear Mother and Father:—

We arrived last evening at eight o'clock, all well, after ten days on the train, which was very comfortable, and we had a most interesting trip. The country is nearly all most prosperous looking and the people nearly all look quite happy and well-to-do. We looked in vain for the misery one reads of. We saw some convicts being taken to Siberia. The children proved good travellers, and baby, best of all, sleeps through everything.

I shall never forget my first drive in a drosky (as the Russian carriages are called). The driver raced the electric trains, drove most furiously, beating the horses with his whip. He rushed down hills and through crowded streets at such a rate I never expected to get out alive. Somehow, safely and I were to ride alone, as they are very small, and we would not say a word to stop him as he only understood Russian. I was thankful to get to the hotel, which is as fine as the Waldorf in New York and much more attention given one. We have lovely rooms, two bath rooms and a private sitting room for what we paid at the Waldorf, and the food is cheaper and so good. Moscow seems a fine city. We are just going out after enjoying our bath, and to-night I get my hair shampooed as there is a hair dresser in the hotel.

You cannot imagine the number of birds we saw on our journey; such immense flocks and birds on every side. 8 p.m.—We have been to see the famous Kremlin, the Czar's palace, and we went all through. It is very picturesque in their grand old domes, and very old it is, too, and built of old brick and gold work. There is a marvel of richness, full of sacred pictures framed in gold, and jewels worth thousands of dollars, and very old they are, too, and every one does a cross before the most religious people, so many were kissing sacred relics and saying prayers. I saw a nail which is supposed to have come from the cross of Christ, and also a piece of wood of the Holy Cross, pictures of Christ on a tile, and then we saw the gorgeous silver candelabras in the coronation church, which Napoleon carried to Paris, only one-third have been returned.

Moscow is a city of temples, and many of the domes are covered with gold, others are painted bright colors. The cathedrals are beautiful inside. In our rooms are sacred images, they are everywhere. We drove to a park this afternoon and had tea at a restaurant. There is a great many fine horses here and the Russians seem very good horsemen.

Moscow is a very up-to-date city and a very busy one, there is a great many fine modern buildings. We have just dined in the hotel restaurant with a Hungarian band playing and all kinds of people dining. One of the men at the next table spoke English, and one or two French, but most of our meals were made known by gestures.

Stephen Leacock's funny phrase books are of their pocketed and our mistakes are funny. I asked for a laundry list this morning and he gave me a time table list of the trains to St. Petersburg. We have also purchased a Russian dictionary walk in if the doors are not locked. The porters speak French generally. The Russian tunics; in this hotel every porter wears a tunic of old rose color around."

We have not yet seen any of the down-trodden looking Russians one reads about. We had to have passports at the frontier here and must show them each time we step off the train. Our luggage was examined three times; one official thought one of Baxter's books looked very suspicious and asked questions about it. We get only tea or coffee and rolls for breakfast as is the custom all over the continent, and every one has it in one's room. Most rooms have a little samovar (tea urn) in them.

Saturday—We started out this morning early and went to an art gallery first, where only Russian pictures are exhibited and we went to a park overlooking the city and had a Russian lunch in a restaurant there.

It was very good—soups with cream served with it and meat in large slices floating in it and eggs boiled and cut in half in it; then mutton cooked on skewers and taken off them at the table, and green cucumbers and fruit and tea. Then we visited a museum and the zoological gardens where we had tea with a Samovar, and then home. The Russians are very good natured and the majority of their pictures are religious subjects. Moscow on the whole, a decadent looking city, but there are very good architects and there is plenty of color about the buildings. The shops are of brick covered with plaster, and painted various colors, and the roofs are also belonging to one of the grand dukes and duchesses. We went to three Russian services this morning; they were all very long, and the people were constantly coming and going, and the priests' robes were all of gold and silver, and literally covered with gold. One service was in the church the Czars are crowned in, and the service was in honour of the Epiphany. It was a great deal of uneasiness to see one of the priests walking about in the grand stand generals and court people sitting, and quite earnestly to people, especially to the ladies, who seemed very devout.

They prayed with much enthusiasm for the Imperial family. We went to a new cathedral just finished, which has cost 10,000 roubles, and is very grand. Some of the paintings were very fine, and there were only pictures with diamond frames and set of Christ and the Virgin and real pearls.

Then we had lunch which was delicious and a Russian drink made from brown bread, which is very nice. Then we had a man we knew from Tokio in the hotel to dinner with us, and he is now in the employ of another foreign company. He knows another from Yokohama. We are still in Moscow, and I was terrified. I am always afraid of bombs. We are not sure where Alexius was blown up three years ago, and they erected a lovely monument to him and Czar Nicholas bowers on it. We go to St. Petersburg the evening. I will write you from there. We are all well.

Mrs. Limbert, the popular organist of the Methodist church, has tendered her resignation, to take effect the 1st August. During the time Miss Limbert has been organist here, she had made a host of friends, who will greatly miss her. She is an organist of the first rank, and gave general satisfaction.

Everybody is coming to Napanee for Dominion Day Celebration.

WILTON.

The lecture given here by Mr. John R. Clark on Thursday evening last was much appreciated, although the attendance was not large.—The Presbyterian church, having been undergoing repairs for the past couple of months, is nearing completion, and it is expected will be ready for service by July 12th.—Mrs. L. L. Gallagher is visiting friends at Bloomfield.—Mrs. Elizabeth Babcock suffered a stroke last week, and is very ill.—Mrs. Freemont Mills, Brookville, is at present home for a few days.—Mrs. Ida Sheppard, Kingston, was a guest at Jas. Lewis' last week.—Miss Grace Burt is visiting friends in Napanee.—Mr. Samson Davey, Palermo, Ont., accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Hope, St. Paul, Minn., is visiting friends in Wilton.—There are eight pupils from this school going to Newburgh for the Entrance exams. Success to them.

STRATHCONA.

Rev. M. B. Williams, who was at one time stationed on the Newburgh circuit, is holding meetings in the old friends were delighted to see him.—Mrs. McLean, of Montreal, and little son Henry, arrived here to spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. Neil Kellie.—Mr. John Walker spent Sunday last with friends at Tamworth.—Miss Lizzie Finlay left last week to remain until fall at Grand Metis, Quebec.—Miss Blue, who has been ill with her brother for several months, has returned to her home at Grand Metis, Que. Miss Blue made many friends while here, who regret her departure.—The rains of the past week have revived vegetation greatly. The prospect for hay is now good.—Mr. and Mrs. Drury, of Prince Edward County, were the guests of Mr. Byron Rose and family on Saturday and Sunday last.—Mrs. John Hanes, of Plevna, is the guest of Mr. Ed. Hanes.—Mr. John Milne has returned to his old duties in the paper mill.

He left it several months on account of his health.—Mr. Will. Cooper is filling a position at the Ann Cement Works.—Misses Mamie Connors, of Belleville, is visiting friends here.—On Monday, Mr. Haydon has been blessed with a boy born to Mr. and Mrs. James Guire.

MOUNTAIN GROVE.

The recent rains have made the crops look as though there would be a bountiful harvest.—The Rev. Mr. Bowerman has made a very thorough trip through the surrounding neighborhood, arranging matters for the dinner on the 1st of July, which is to be celebrated here. Every effort is being made by the public to help put forward.—The Government grant, which is to be laid out between here and Long Lake, has been started, which is greatly needed.—Strawberries are very plentiful, and many are enjoying the luxurious fruit.—During the electric storm which passed over here on the 31st of May, Wm. Miller had the misfortune of having a valuable cow killed. Also on the 14th inst., Mr. Samuel Dawson had a fine two-year-old colt killed.—Mrs. Henry Godfrey, who has been ill all winter and spring, is able to be out once again.—Several from here attended the Free Methodist camp meeting at Verona.—The funeral of the late G. R. Monds, Arden, passed through here to the cemetery for interment.—Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, a son.

CARMANVILLE.

We had quite a rain in this vicinity on Tuesday night. I guess everybody was glad to see it come, for the crops are coming on slowly.—A happy event took place at the Church of Annunciation, Chippewa, at nine o'clock on Wednesday morning, the 17th, when Miss Annie P. Byrnes, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Byrnes, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to John Dowling, son of Mrs. Martin Dowling. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Connolly. While the strains of the wedding march pealed forth, the bride, handsomely attired in white silk and wore a very handsome hat with a large ostrich feather. The bride was attended by Miss Kate Dowling, sister of the bridegroom, and the groomsmen by Mr. Bernard Dowling and James Furlong. The groom's gift to the bride was a twenty dollar gold piece, and to each of the bridesmaids a gold brooch, and to the groomsmen a tie pin. After the ceremony the bridal party went to the residence of the bride, where dinner awaited them. A large number of costly presents testified to the high regard in which the young couple are held. Among the gifts was a check from one of the bride's parents. The bride was very popular among friends for her bright and vivacious manner and her kindness of heart. The bride's travelling suit was of white lace over white glace silk skirt and a jacket to match. Everybody wishes them success in their journey through life.—Miss Maggie Kenny returned home from Toronto on Tuesday evening to make a visit to her parents and friends.—Miss Scanlin spent Monday at Mr. Tom Dunn's.—Miss Nellie Finn and sister Florence spent Monday afternoon at Mr. John Kelly's.—Mr. Michael made a trip to Erinsville on Sunday.—Mr. Bernard Dowling and sister Annie spent Sunday with friends at Enterprise, and James Foster spent Sunday at John Kelly's.

KIDNAPPED TWICE.

LITTLE JOSIE EMBERLEY HAS AN EXCITING TIME EARLY IN LIFE.

About the first of June Mr. and Mrs. Marsh. Kellar left Napanee for Cleveland, O., taking with them her three-year-old daughter, Josie Emberley. On arrival at Cleveland Mrs. Kellar didn't like Marshall any more and left him for her former lover, one Emberley. Marshall, to get even, kidnapped Josie and returned to Napanee about a week ago. On arriving here little child was taken in charge by Chief Graham and placed in Mrs. R. Meeks' care. Mrs. Kellar (nee Brown) (or as Chief McCoy), arrived here on Tuesday and in the evening stole the child again and left in a livery rig for Kingston. At the latter place she purchased tickets for Buffalo, N.Y. She was in fact on her arrest for the theft of the horse and buggy.

DESMOND.

A lawn social will be held on the church lawn on Wednesday, July 8th. All is being done to make this a success. Come one, come all. Admission, 10c. and 15c.—Mr. H. F. Bell is having new cave troughs placed on his barn this week.—We are all very glad to see the rain in our locality, as it was very much needed.—Rev. Mr. Allin will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday next. We all wish him success in his new field of labor, as he has gained many warm friends during his four years' stay here.—In our last week's correspondence some person or persons took it upon themselves to set a date for our lawn social without any authority, as but a meeting was held on Wednesday evening last, and that date was sustained, but we are sorry to learn a report has been also sent in to the Editor. We hope the guilty party will repent and don't forget our lawn social on July 8th.

SWITZERVILLE.

Owing to Mr. Duke's absence last Sunday morning Mr. Wm. Glover preached a very interesting sermon and gave a talk on the previous Sunday School lessons.—The public school has closed for the term and the pupils have gone are trying the Entrance examinations in Newburgh this week.—Miss M. THE OLD LOYALIST.

This is a story by A. R. Davis, C.E., now a resident of Winnipeg, but formerly of Adolphustown, on the banks of the Bay of Quinte on the shores of which the plot is laid.

One cannot read the story without a thrilling sympathetic interest and the story is told with such a fine mingling of freedom, so bold and straight and yet simple, that it storms the imagination and holds the attention of the reader from start to finish of this unforgettable story. The living character and compact of this book shows it to be a work on which time and care have been expended.

I have read the book and like it very much, and have no hesitation in recommending a reading of the same to my many friends in the old Midland District.

Yours truly,
A. S. HENRY.

Give Fair Play to

A really reliable remedy for headache —Zutoo.

If you have got it into your head that Zutoo Tablets will hurt you, you are mistaken.

It isn't fair to us for you to judge Zutoo by other headache cures.

The fair thing for both of us is—to judge Zutoo on its merits—to test it.

If you find it does not cure your headache, sick, nervous or other weak feeling minutes, break up a cold in a night and leave you feeling good generally, no bad after effects, then discard it.

What do not condemn a medicine after a trial, and keep on suffering. You really do not have to, and one trial of Zutoo will prove it.

We'll send trial tablets for nothing, or you can buy them at dealers in 10c. and 25c. packages.

LAWLOR—McGUIRE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, June 17th, at St. Anthony's church, Camden, when Miss Margaret G. McGuire, Strathcona, was united in marriage to Michael Lawlor, of Camden East. Rev. Father McCarthy officiating. The wedding march was played by Mrs. R. B. Dunn, of Napanee, during the ceremony the bridal party proceeded to the home of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of. Only the immediate relatives were present. The bride was attired in a handsome gown of white silk with white hat to match. She was attended by Miss Nellie McDonald, of Bath, who also arrayed in a pretty gown of white silk with cream hat. John Drumm, of Belleville, was best man. A multitude of beautiful and costly gifts showed the high esteem in which the contracting parties are held by their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Lawlor took the 4.20 train at Napanee for Grafton and Toronto. The bride's travelling costume was navy and tan.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

INSTITUTE MEETING.

Pursuant to notice the annual meeting of Addington Farmers' Institute was held in the Town Hall, Tamworth, on Friday afternoon. The usual number of members were present. Also, quite an additional attendance of gentlemen who settled the annual meeting for the first time, and who appeared to take a lively interest in the proceedings.

The President, Mr. Gilmour, Reeve of Sheffield, called the meeting to order, and presided.

The Secretary, J. B. Aylesworth, of Newburgh, read the minutes of the last annual meeting, also the report of the Executive and Auditors. Messrs. Thos. Winters and Wm. Nugent. The report showed a fair balance on hand.

Mr. Gilmour was unanimously elected President of the Institute for the third year.

The officers for the current year are:

President—Smith Gilmour.
Vice-Pres.—M. Shannon.
Sec.-Treas.—J. B. Aylesworth.
Directors—C. D. Wagar, Thos. Evans, Mark A. Gilmour, Wm. M. Paul, John Kaiser, Wm. Nugent, F. Bell, J. M. Lochhead, Wm. Brown.

Places for holding public meetings during the year were selected. Some short addresses were given.

METHODIST PASTOR PREACHES FAREWELL.

Brandon Daily Times, Brandon, Man.: The Methodist church was packed with the largest congregation yesterday morning and evening, when Rev. C. E. McIntyre, whose pastorate expires this month, preached his farewell.

In the morning the retiring pastor preached a powerful gospel sermon from Christ's words in St. Matthew's gospel, "Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I also confess before My Father which is in heaven."

In the evening, also, Mr. McIntyre, chose a gospel subject as an appropriate one, basing his sermon on the text, "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."

The preacher selected several striking illustrations of his text, proving his argument about them. One case was that of the apparent annihilation of christianity at its very birth, by the crucifixion of Christ and the dispersion of His disciples. To all appearances christianity was then a failure. But Pentecost marked the awakening of God's power in the disciples, and the gospel was carried in that generation to every quarter of the known world.

Another case was the attempts of popes and emperors to stamp out the pure faith by attempting to silence Martin Luther. One lone man stood against the world, but on his side was God, and all the powers of earth and hell could not bring him to naught. To the eye of sense, His death marked the failure of christianity but his protests lighted a torch that kindled the Reformation, and lighted millions.

When John Wesley was excluded from the established church, those who excluded him believed that his life was stamped out of the cause of the Lord. He preached Christ Crucified, and Methodism grew till now, it girdled the world.

The practical application of the sermon, was that men could invoke the aid of an Omnipotent power, and that by yielding themselves to God, they would get strength to overcome sin.

The minister made no special reference in the nature of a farewell.

The male quartette rendered an appropriate selection.

IN THE HOMES OF FAIR CANADA

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are Bringing Health to Weak, Despondent People.

There is not a nook or corner in Canada, in the cities, towns, villages and farm homes, but Williams' Pink Pills have not been used, and from one end of the country to the other they have brought back to breadwinners, their wives and families, the most splendid treasure of new health and new strength. You have only to ask your neighbors and they can tell you of some nerve-shattered man, suffering women, ailing youth, unhappy anaemic girl who owe present health and strength to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Their wonderful success is due to the fact that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills go right to the root of the disease in the blood, and by making the vital fluid rich and red, strengthen every organ and every nerve, thus driving out disease and pain.

Mr. Joseph Lacombe, Quebec City, says :—"To-day I weigh about forty pounds more than I did a year ago, and am in every way in much sounder health. For upwards of two years I had been studying hard to pass my examinations and my health had completely given way under the strain. I lost flesh rapidly, my appetite was gone and my nerves were greatly weakened. I was obliged to relinquish my studies and was in a state of complete exhaustion. I consulted a physician, but still was daily growing weaker I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I had often heard very highly spoken of. The beneficial effects were indeed remarkable for I had not used more than a couple of boxes when I could feel an improvement, and hope returned. I continued using the pills for some weeks longer, with the result that my strength increased daily and I was soon able to take over my studies and work with as much energy as I had ever done. To-day I am in perfect health and I attribute my recovery solely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS.

In the Pine Grove, Ont., association for the 30 days ending 17th May last, 46 cows had a total production of 28,502 lbs. milk. During the same period, 46 cows in the North Oxford, Ont., association gave a total yield of 60,395 lbs. milk. The difference between the average per cow was not so very striking, being in the one case 712 lbs. and 628 lbs. milk in the other. But it is the totals that tell the story, and count up the profits. The Company of which the Pine Grove cows had produced as well as the North Oxford cows, they would have given an additional 5618 lbs. milk, equivalent to an extra 8 cheese each weighing 70 lbs.

Similarly at Sheffield, Ont., during the same 30 days 34 cows gave 24,211 lbs. milk, or an average of only 639 lbs. per cow. If they had yielded in the same proportion as the North Oxford cows, they would have given 12,870 lbs. milk more than they did, or an additional yield of one hundred and fifteen dollars to their owners in the 30 days.

What is being done in one district can just as well be done in another. Farmers, are you cows earn more money for you.

THE LENNOX AND ADDINGTON MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

Continues to enjoy the confidence of the farmers in this and adjacent counties, by the large increase in new business during the past few months, and the addition of many new members, because of their liberal policy and speedy adjustment and prompt settlement of losses. The Board of Directors confidently expect by the close of the year to have at least 2,000 members with an insurance of $2,000,000, and greatly add to their already handsome cash surplus. The Company's office will find the officials, M. C. Bogart, Secretary, and F. C. Bogart, Treasurer, at the Company's office ever ready to do business, and a note to them or the efficient and courteous agents, Messrs. D. L. Greene and Manly Jones, will receive their prompt and immediate attention.

CANOE RACES.

Wednesday evening's regatta of the Canoe Club showed a marked improvement in both paddling and use of time between races. The Sports' Committee hope yet to do even better on Thursday next, 25th June. It is gratifying to see the keen interest being taken in the racing larger. But there's room for more. The 'Gunnell' race was tried for the first time, and if not to impress Mr. Loynes that the water was wet.

The results were as follows :

1st—Fourr—1st Chenoweth, Anderson, Robertson, Cleland; 2d, Carrol, Oldfield, Grange, Stacey; 3d, Loynes Stacey, Gale, Miller.

Gunnell—1st, Dafoe; 2d, Chenoweth; 3d, Carrol.

Double—1st, Chenoweth and Dafoe; 2d, Barker and Carrol; 3d, Loynes and Bolte.

Crab—1st, Chenoweth; 2d, Oldfield, 3d, Anderson.

Tub—1st, Carrol; 2d, Dafoe; 3d, Anderson.

The Best Flour, Dafoe's Nonesuch, Dafoe's Manitoba Patent

By numerous tests by the best bakers the above mentioned grades of flour proves to be the best flours in the market.

When buying flour, ask for Dafoe's, and your purchase will home still, thereby producing bran and Shorts that you can purchase cheaper than the product of the Napanee mills, which has to be transported those parts at a great expense, and you will find when it reaches you is of inferior quality. Nothing more complete if the farmer or the public generally can do than to call at our points for an article that is produced at their very doors, and not be at the trouble to buy flour from mills hundreds of miles away, and sells you an inferior flour for more money than you can purchase the best flour from the mills of which I am guarantee.

Cracked Cornmeal and Buckwheat Flour always on hand. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest cash price paid for wheat. Also a full stock of the best Anthracite Coal; also the best market for the purchase of wheat at all times.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. To think of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness as real diseases, is like thinking sickness only a certain species of something else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone benefited that success of a factor to be. Shoop and his Restorative. Without original and highly valuable principle, no remedy could have survived the test of time. For stomach distress, biliousness, bad breath, and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and guarantee it—to relieve

A Sale of Women's Suits Conducted in a New Way, on Saturday, June 27th, at 10 a.m. Read on:

To-morrow, Saturday, June 27th, we will place on sale, 16 well-made Women's Costumes at Whatever Any One is Willing to Pay.

There is not a suit in the lot that was less than $10.00, and from that up to $20.00. Now this is the way the sale will be conducted. At 10 o'clock sharp you may take any suit in the lot at $7.50. If no one buys at 5 minutes after 10, the price will be $7.25; at 10.10 a.m. the price will be $7.10. At 10.15 a.m., the price will be $6.90. At 10.20 a.m. $6.75, and so on down the line. The suits are on display now. The Skirts alone are worth more than sale price. We reserve the right to withdraw suits from sale if there are less than 10 customers present.

In Our Men's Departments.

Men's Suits—$5.00 WORTH $7.50.

You had better not delay if you want one of these $7.50 Suits that we are selling at $5.00 now. They won't last long. They are too big a snap to stay with us. Anyone can see they are being sold at a bargain price.

Men's Two-piece Suits

Made from light grey homespuns and flannels in the newest checks and stripes—single and double breasted — loops on trousers for belt, gne-half lined, hand padded and hand felled collars. Sizes, 34 to 42. Prices, $5.00 to $12.50. It is worth your while coming to us for your summer outfit. You will save money and be better dressed than if you went elsewhere.

Men's Straw Hats

Straw Hat business has been extra good with us. We were better prepared than ever with a grand new stock of up-to-date Hats in all the newest shapes and styles.

At 25c., you have choice of about 50 good serviceable Straw Hats.

Linen Hats.—Some specials reduced from 75c. to 50c. each.

Boys' Wash Suits

Just the neatest, prettiest, little suits you can imagine. Every one of them made by experts who do nothing else the year round but make Boys' Wash Suits. They get a perfection of style and charatcter about them that it is impossible for the mother to get. And then the price is but a trifle more than the material costs.

Come and see them. Ages 2½ to 10 years. Prices 75c., $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00, and extra fancy up to $3.50.

Cool Summer Outing Shirts for Men and Boys

With collar attached, reversible collar or no collar. Prices, 50c., 75c., $1.00 and $1.25.

A Sale of Men's Shirts, Commencing Saturday Morning, June 27th

On Saturday morning we will have ready for sale, some 200 Men's Shirts. Some are Fancy Colored Dress Shirts, others are Oxford Shirts, Gingham Shirts and Drill Shirts in Blue and Black checks and stripes and spots. These are all regularly sold at 50c and 60c. For one week we will sell them at Special Sale Price 40c Each.

Now these are from our own stock and are well made, durable Shirts. Shirts that you will be well pleased with, unless you are a very large man. They are as big as any 50c. Shirt that is made, but no 50c. Shirt is big enough for a 200 lb. man. What he should ask for is one of our special "Flaxman" Shirts.

For the Boys, sizes 12 1-2 to 14.

We do not want the Boys to think we have forgotten them. We have therefore placed on sale for them 100 Shirts worth 50c. and 75c. Sale price, 40c.

See These Sale Shirts in Window on and after Friday, June 26th.

—On Friday afternoon last Mrs. (Dr.) Wartman took her Sunday School class in Hodson's Park for a picnic. The picnic was in honor of Miss Bessie Emsley, who is leaving the class. After a very nice lunch was served, an address signed by the members of the class was read by Miss Marguerite Hall, to which Miss Emsley replied.

WELCOME!

The reception of welcome for Rev. W. H. Emsley will be held on the evening of July 3d. A good programme, ice cream and cake. Admission, 25c. Everyone welcome.

ANNUAL EXCURSION.

A third annual excursion to Kingston and the 1000 Islands will probably be run by Trinity Methodist church on July 4th. This is the most popular excursion of the season.

HOSPITAL AID SOCIETY.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hospital Aid Society will be held Monday afternoon, June 29th, in the Board Room of the Public Library, at 3.30 o'clock. A full attendance is earnestly solicited, as this will probably be the last meeting until September.

A PLEASANT EVENING SPENT.

Those who attended the at home on Tuesday at Dr. and Mrs. Wartman's spent a very pleasant and social evening. Notwithstanding the inclement weather a goodly number were present, and the host and hostess were untiring in their efforts to make it pleasant for all. The orchestra, under the able leadership of Mr. Shannon, and assisted by Miss Kimmerly, rendered some very fine selections to the delight of all present. The members of the Hospital Aid feel very grateful indeed to the orchestra for their kind generous assistance.

LUCAS—TALLEAT.

On Wednesday evening a quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Talleat, Napanee, when their youngest daughter, Mrs. Estella Lucas, became the wife of Mr. Reginald Lucas. Rev. Mr. Thomas tied the nuptial knot in the presence of a few of the most immediate friends of both bride and groom. The charming young bride was prettily attired in a tailored suit of lavender broadcloth with white silk blouse. After the ceremony a delicious dinner was served in the dining room, when all did ample justice to the many good things. Mr. and Mrs. Lucas will reside in their honeymoon in New York, and upon permanently reside with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Lucas, Palace street. The young people are very popular and we convey to them our best wishes.

DEATH OF DONALD DALY.

For the second time within the space of two years the home of Mr. Denis Daly has been visited by death. On Friday morning, 12th inst., Donald, third son, passed away after a protracted illness, having reached the age of twenty years. In Donald's second year he met with a fall which determined his subsequent health, and although he indulged in youthful pastimes with considerable vitality, the effects of the accident were continually undermining his constitution. During the past year there were signs of the inevitable decline and collapse of his system, and, though he travelled to British Columbia, hoping thereby to gain strength, the journey proved detrimental rather than beneficial. Upon Donald's early return, Mrs. Daly accompanied him to Philadelphia, where in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital he underwent an operation which alleviated his suffering and encouraged the parents' hopes for his recovery, but it proved only a temporary remedy, for on reaching Napanee he speedily succumbed to his illness. Donald had many friends and companions who cannot but remember his genial nature, his humor and his gentlemanly qualities.

ODESSA.

On Saturday evening we were startled to hear that Mr. Will Frink's house was burned to the ground in a very short time. The family were milking and therefore did not see the fire immediately. Some mills drew the alarm and made great haste to empty the rear of the mill and save the factory, and fill them with water, but go to the rescue, but everything being so dry it was fire raged. Very few articles were saved from up stairs, and not many from the lower floor. We all are very sorry for the family in their great loss of property.

On Sunday, Mr. Nathan Fellers's home, aged 16 or 17, was drowned while bathing. A younger brother was with him and saw him go down, and did his best to save him, but failed. The funeral took place on Monday, Rev. Mr. McAmmond, after which the body was taken to Napanee to be buried in the family plot.

The C. M. church pulpit was occupied on Sunday last, morning and evening, by Mr. John R. Clark, with a large congregation, who admired his easy and fluent manner of delivering himself on the subjects that were chosen for the theme. On Monday evening he gave a lecture, which was not so well attended.

A number of Masons from this and other places attended Divine service in the Methodist church, Bath, on Sunday, service being conducted by the Rev. MacFaye.

Dr. Douglas Storgis, of Hamilton, and brother, Mr. Earl Storgis, of Toronto, spent a couple of days with their mother, Mrs. C. Storgis, having received sad intelligence. All were pleased to see them in their home once more. Come again.

Didn't the band boys have a terrible time getting home from Colebrook in the storm on Tuesday night. They were somewhat like drowned rats when they arrived. We hope they were appreciated. On Thursday evening at Newburgh, and on Friday evening the orchestra at Morven. So they are kept busy these evenings. Last Saturday evening Mr. Wallace Fralick, of the 13th line, and Miss Wilhelmina Fralick, of Napanee, were united in Newburgh to try the Estrees matrimonial noose. She went to Tamworth as one of the examiners there.

Miss Rutherford, of North Bay, is spending some time with friends.

Mrs. (Dr.) Mabee entertained a number of her friends the other evening on her speckled hen, which had been missing for some time. Everybody was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Wm. Fralick spent a short time with his mother, Mrs. C. Del. Sharpton.

Mrs. Doherty and Miss Kennedy went to Enterprise on Sunday.

Miss Strayner, of New York, is visiting her friend, Miss. (Dr.) Mabee.

Mrs. Hunter and children, of Napanee, took a spin in her new auto car to the Dominion the other day.

ENTERPRISE.

The strawberry festival on Saturday evening, in aid of the new English church, was a great success. Proceeds, $130 clear.

Miss Lilla Chalmers, of Bridlington, spent a few days visiting old friends.—A little girl baseball has come to stay at Mr. Wm. Keller's.—Mr. Cephas Allin is visiting his sister, Mrs. Jas. Bateman, Napanee.

Mr. Wm. Bateman has taken to a great increase.—We are sorry to learn that Mr. Wm. Bateman intended separating Mrs. Bateman and family, who are moving to Ontario, in order to better himself, as he cannot get a good position.—Mr. Read Dolloe and young son, Napanee, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dolloe.—Rev. Mr. Allin preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening.

—Warden C. W. Hambly and Mr. B. G. Hamm, Chairman of Roads and Bridges Committee, were in Camden last week inspecting County Road work. They also visited Richmond township in company with Mr. H. W. Paul, Reeve, and let contracts for a new steel bridge near Manchester Thompson's.

—Mrs. Mary Hinch, relict of the late Thomas Hinch, South Napanee, died Saturday, aged 84 years. Deceased, whose maiden name was Mary Purdy, lived before her marriage in Hungerford. She was twice married, her first husband being Mr. Edward, well known in Kingston. She was for seven weeks, her niece, Miss Newlands, Kingston, being one of her nurses. She leaves to mourn two stepdaughters, Mrs. Joseph Franklin, Winnipeg, and Mrs. Charles Perry, Latimer. Also two daughters, Mrs. Hy. Bateman, Toronto, and Mrs. Daly Hamm, Scarboroughjr.; and two sons, Mr. Odgen Hinch, Carman, Man., and Edward, at home. Rev. Mr. Hazlewood officiated at the funeral, deeply beloved by her many friends. The funeral took place on Monday to the Eastern cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS.

At high noon on Wednesday in Trinity Church, Napanee, Miss Maude O. Ward took, eldest daughter of Rev. F. Dealtry Ward, rector of Trinity Church, was married to Rev. E. E. Kidd, M.A., of Frankville, Ont. The bride was unattended save of Tamworth lane over white satin with veil and orange blossoms. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Ward, bridesmaid, and Mr. Harry Kidd, brother of the bridegroom, acted as bridesmaid. Rev. F. Dealtry Woodcock, of Brantford, brother-in-law of the bride, assisted the groom. Mr. George Woodcock, of Montreal, and J. E. Kidd, of Harriett's Road, were ushers. Following the ceremony, which was performed by the rector, assisted by Rev. Mr. Austin Smith, of Lyn, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Lake street, Mr. and Mrs. Kidd left for the east on the afternoon train, the bride wearing a Dealtry Woodcock, of Brantford, brother-in-law of the bride, assisted the groom. Mr. George Woodcock, of Montreal, and J. E. Kidd, of Harriett's Road, were ushers. Following the ceremony, which was performed by the rector, assisted by Rev. Mr. Austin Smith, of Lyn, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Lake street, Mr. and Mrs. Kidd left for the east on the afternoon train, the bride wearing a handsome travelling dress of navy blue broadcloth and a Panama hat with tan trimmings.

BASEBALL.

NAPANEE 6, GANANOQUE 2.

'Twas a beat! One of the finest baseball games from a spectators' standpoint that has been played in Napanee in some time took place at the Driving Park on Wednesday afternoon, when Napanee defeated the Gananoque team by a score of 6-2 in the opening game of the Eastern Ontario Baseball League.

The locals had their batting togs on and what they did to Pelow is a shame to chronicle. Twelve nice clean singles and two double-baggers tells the story. Mr. Bisbee, the genial catcher for the Gananoqueites, assisted Napanee in the run column materially by adding a couple of nice juicy errors.

The boys from the east were a very gentlemanly team and did some excellent work in the field, especially Keyworth, who made a beautiful running catch during the game.

Fourteen visitors hit at the atmosphere wildly, thanks to the deceptive offerings of our Wood. Napanee's catcher. By the way, Mr. Wood also fanned thirteen men at Belleville last week.

The locals were in fine form at the bat and in the field, splendid catches and assists being made by each one of them, and the error column was kept down to three.

At bat McNeill and Wood each secured a single and double, while Hill, Schultz connected safely three times, Trimble twice and all the rest once each except Allison, but the latter assisted by a base on balls, made a tour of the bases safely and added one to the run column. Rose played an excellent game behind the bat, as did also McNeill at third.

Gananoque pulled off a nice double play in the first inning, retiring the side. They also secured their two runs in the eighth inning, assisted by errors.

A large crowd were in attendance and the boys feel gratified to see that the citizens appreciate their efforts. On Wednesday half-holiday the attendance will likely be doubled.

Mr. James Pringle umpired the game to the satisfaction all.

The next game takes place next Wednesday (Dominion Day) at the park between Napanee and Kingston, an exhibition game. The next scheduled league game is a week from Wednesday, July 8th, when Belleville play here.

Following is the story:

EMERGENCY DANGER.

WHEN A HARSH CATARRHAL COLD FASTENS ON THE BREATHING ORGANS A LIFE IS THREATENED.

There are times when a Hyomei outfit is worth a life and having it at hand will save a life, no safer precaution can be suggested than calling at T. B. Wallace's drug store and getting a supply for in following cases.

When a child shows the first sign of croup a breath of Hyomei through the inhaler will check the trouble permanently.

When through catching cold you seem to be choking up, difficulty to breathe, pain or soreness over the lungs and other symptoms of pneumonia, the instant relief from Hyomei air is marvelous.

It penetrates quickly to the inner recesses of the bronchial tubes and lungs where no liquid or moist medicine can reach.

When an asthmatic condition prevents unusual wheezing and oppressed breathing, Hyomei will bring rest, complete outfit $1.00.

The senate would not take action until it convened in December, but there was a lot of work to be done and no time to be lost.

The evening following the day of their arrival they were sitting on the porch enjoying the cool evening air after dinner. The judge was smoking. He was not a slave to the weed, but he enjoyed a quiet pipe after meals, claiming that it quieted his nerves and enabled him to think more clearly. Besides, it was necessary to keep at bay the ubiquitous Long Island mosquito. Mrs. Rossmore had remained for a moment in the dining room to admonish Eudoxia, their new and only maid of all work, not to wreck too much of the crockery when she removed the dinner dishes. Suddenly Stott, who was perusing an evening paper, asked:

"By the way, where's your daughter? Does she know of this radical change in your affairs?"

Judge Rossmore started. By what mysterious agency had this man penetrated his own most intimate thoughts? He was having the thinking of Shirley that very moment, and by some inexplicable means—telepathy modern psychologists called it—the thought current had crossed to Stott, whose mind, being in full sympathy, was exactly attuned to receive it. Removing the pipe from his mouth, the judge replied:

"Shirley's in Paris. Poor girl, I hadn't the heart to tell her. She has no idea of what's happened. I didn't want to spoil her holiday."

He was silent for a moment; then after a few more puffs he added confidentially in a low tone, as if he did not care for his wife to hear:

"The truth is, Stott, I couldn't bear to have her return now. I couldn't look my own daughter in the face."

A sound as of a great sob which he had been unable to control cut short the speech. His eyes filled with tears, and he began to smoke furiously, as if ashamed of this display of emotion. Stott, blowing his nose with suspicious vigor, replied soothingly:

"You mustn't talk like that. Everything will come out all right, of course. But I think you are wrong not to have told your daughter. Her place is here at your side. You should need even if only in justice to her. If you don't tell her, some one else will or, what's worse, she'll hear of it through the newspapers."

"Ah, I never thought of that!" exclaimed the judge, visibly perturbed at the suggestion about the newspapers.

"Don't you agree with me?" demanded Stott, appealing to Mrs. Rossmore, who emerged from the house at that instant. "Don't you think your daughter should be informed of what has happened?"

"Most assuredly I do," answered Mrs. Rossmore determinedly. "The judge wouldn't hear of it, but I took the law into my own hands. I've cabled for her."

"You cabled for Shirley?" cried the judge incredulously. He was so unaccustomed to seeing his ailing, vacillating wife do anything on her own initiative and responsibility that it seemed impossible. "You cabled for Shirley?" he repeated.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Rossmore triumphantly and secretly pleased that for once in her life she had asserted herself. "I cabled yesterday. I simply couldn't bear it alone any longer."

"What did you say?" inquired the judge hesitatingly.

"I just told her to come home at once. Tomorrow we ought to get an answer."

Stott, who had been figuring out the time of Shirley's probable arrival, if the cablegram had been received in Paris the previous evening, it would be too late to catch the French boat. The North German Lloyd steamer was the next to leave, and it touched at Cherbourg. She would undoubtedly come on that. In a week at most she would be here. Then it became a question as to who should go to meet her at the dock. The judge could not go, that was certain. As Rossmore did not know the lower part of the city well and had no experience in meeting ocean steamships. There was only one way out—would Stott go? Of course, Stott would go and bring Shirley back with him to Massapequa. So during the next few days while Stott and the judge toiled preparing their case, which often necessitated brief trips to the city, Mrs. Rossmore, shrouded in an icily indifference to Eudoxia, was busy getting a room ready for her daughter's arrival.

Eudoxia, who came originally from County Cork, was an Irish lady with a thick brogue and a husky temper. She was capable enough so long as things went to her satisfaction, but when they did not suit her she was a terrapin. She was neither beautiful nor graceful; she was not young nor was she very clean. Her usual condition was disheveled, her face was all askew, and when she dressed up she looked like a valentine. Her greatest weakness was a propensity for smashing dishes, and when reprimanded she would threaten to take her traps and skidoo. This news at the arrival of a daughter failed to fill her with enthusiasm. Firstly, it meant more work; secondly, she had not been paid for it. When she took the place it was on the understanding that the family consisted only of an elderly gentleman and his wife, that there was practically no work, good wages, plenty to eat with the privilege of not sleeping out when she pleased. Instead of this the millennium she soon found Stott and she lumped at the little village of Massapequa just what they were looking for—a commodious, neatly furnished summer cottage at a modest rental. Of course it was nothing like what they had been accustomed to, but it was clean and comfortable, and, as Mrs. Rossmore said, rather tactlessly, beggars cannot be choosers. Perhaps it would not be for long. Instant action had to be had, so a deposit was paid on the spot, and a few days later the Rossmores left their mansion on Madison avenue and took up their residence in Massapequa, where their advent created quite a flutter in local social circles.

Stott was given a room in the cottage so that he might be near at hand to work with the judge in the preparation of the defense, and he came out from the city every evening. It was

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures sick women.

Miss M. R. Morin, 335 Ontario St., Montreal, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was in very poor health and doctored for months, receiving very little benefit. I had lost all ambition, was nervous, and subject to dizzy spells and painful periods each month.

"A friend suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the proper medicine for me. I procured a bottle of this remedy and have daily used it. When she took the place it was on the understanding that the family consisted only of an elderly gentleman and his wife, that there was practically no work, good wages, plenty to eat with the privilege of not sleeping out when she pleased. Instead of this the millennium she soon found Stott stalled as a permanent guest, and now a daughter was to be foisted on her. No wonder hardworking girls were getting sick and tired of housework!

That evening Stott and the judge came home earlier than usual, and from their dejected appearance Mrs. Rossmore divined bad news. The judge was painfully silent throughout the meal, and Stott was unusually grave. Finally the latter took her aside and broke it to her gently. In spite of their efforts and the efforts of their friends the congressional inquiry had resulted in a finding against the judge, and a demand had already been made upon the senate for his impeachment. They could do nothing but fight it in the senate with all the influence they could muster. It was going to be hard, but Stott was confident that right would prevail. After dinner as they were sitting in silence on the porch, each measuring the force of this blow which they had expected, yet had always hoped to ward off, the crunching sound of a bicycle was heard on the quiet country road. The rider stopped at their gate and came up the porch, holding out an envelope to the judge, who, guessing the contents, had started forward. He tore it open. It was a cablegram from Paris and read as follows:

Am sailing on the Kaiser Wilhelm today.

SHIRLEY.

"Father, father, what have they done to you?"

CHAPTER VII.

THERE was great activity in the Rossmore cottage at Massapequa than there had been any day since the judge and his wife went to live there. Since daybreak Eudoxia had been scouring and polishing in honor of the expected arrival, and a hundred times Mrs. Rossmore had climbed the stairs to see that everything was as it should be in the room which had been prepared for Shirley. It was not, however, without a passage at arms that Eudoxia consented to consider the idea of an addition to the family. Mrs. Rossmore had said to her the day before:

"My daughter will be here tomorrow, Eudoxia."

A look expressive of both displeasure and astonishment marred the classic features of the hireling. Putting her broom aside and placing her arms akimbo, she exclaimed in an injured tone:

"And it's a dayther you've got now! So it's three in family you are! When I took the place, it's two you told me there was!"

"Well, with your kind permission," replied Mrs. Rossmore, "there will be three in future. There is nothing in the constitution of the United States that says we can't have a daughter without consulting one's help, is there?"

The sarcasm of this reply did not escape even the dull edged wits of the Eudoxia. She resigned herself to dignified silence and a few minutes later was discovered working with some show of enthusiasm.

The judge was nervous and fidgety. He made a pretense to read, but it was plain to see that his mind was not on his book. He kept leaving his chair to go and look at the clock; then he would lay the volume aside and wander from room to room like a lost soul. His thoughts were on the dock at Hoboken.

By noon every little detail had been attended to, and there was nothing further to do but sit and wait for the arrival of Stott and Shirley. They were to be expected any moment now, as the passengers had probably got off the steamer by 11 o'clock. It would take at least two hours to get through the customs and on to Massapequa. The judge and his wife sat on the porch counting the minutes and straining their ears to catch the first sound of the train from New York.

"I hope Stott broke the news to her gently," said the judge.

"I wish we had gone to meet her ourselves," sighed his wife.

The judge was silent, and for a moment or two he puffed vigorously at his pipe, as was his habit when disturbed mentally. Then he said:

"I ought to have gone, Martha, but I was afraid. I'm afraid to look my own daughter in the face and tell her that I am a disgraced man, that I am to be tried by the senate for corruption, perhaps punished and turned off the bench as if I were a criminal. Shirley won't believe it; sometimes I can't believe it myself. It's enough up in the night and think of it as part of a dream, but when morning comes it's still there—it's still there!"

He smoked on in silence. Then happening to look up he noticed that his wife was weeping. He laid his hand gently on hers.

"There, there, dear; don't make it harder for me to bear. Shirley must see no trace of tears."

The blinding of the injustice of it all," replied Mrs. Rossmore, wiping her eyes.

"Hush! Shirley in this place, living from hand to mouth," went on the judge.

"That's the least," answered his wife. "She's a fine, handsome girl, well educated and all the rest of it. She ought to make a good marriage." No matter what state of mind Mrs. Rossmore might be in, she never lost sight of the practical side of things.

"Hardly with her father's disgrace hanging over her head," replied the judge wearily. "Which," he added, "would have the courage to marry a girl whose father was publicly disgraced?"

Both relapsed into another long silence, each doubtlessly reviewing the past and speculating on the future. Suddenly Mrs. Rossmore started. Surely she could not be mistaken! No, the clanging of a locomotive bell was plainly audible. The train was in. Upon the direction of the road became people with parcels and hand bags and presently there was heard the welcome sound of carriage wheels crunching over the stones. A moment later they saw coming round the bend in the road a cab piled up with small baggage.

"Here they are! Here they are!" cried Mrs. Rossmore. "Eudoxia!" she called to the servant, while she herself hurried down to the gate. The judge, fully as agitated as herself, only showing his emotion in a different way, remained on the porch, pale and anxious.

The cab stopped at the curb, and Stott alighted, first helping out Mrs. Blake. Mrs. Rossmore's astonishment on seeing her sister was almost comical.

"Milly?" she exclaimed.

They embraced first and explained afterward. Then Shirley got out and was in her mother's arms.

"Where's father?" was Shirley's first question.

"There—he's coming!"

The judge, unable to restrain his impatience longer, ran down from the porch toward the gate. Shirley, with a cry of mingled grief and joy, precipitated herself on his breast.

"Father, father," she cried between her sobs, "what have they done to you?"

"There, there, my child! Everything will be well—everything will be well!"

Her head lay on his shoulder, and he stroked her hair with his hand, unable to speak from pent up emotion.

Mrs. Rossmore could not recover from her stupefaction on seeing her sister. Mrs. Blake explained that she had come chiefly for the benefit of the voyage and announced her intention of returning on the same steamer.

"So, you see, I shall bother you only a few days," she said.

"You'll stay just as long as you wish," rejoined Mrs. Rossmore. "Happily we have just one bedroom left." Then, turning to Eudoxia, who was wrestling with the baggage, which formed a miniature Matterhorn on the sidewalk, she instructed:

"Eudoxia, you'll take this lady's baggage to the small bedroom adjoining Mr. Shirley's. She is going to stop with us for a few days."

Taken completely aback at the news of this new addition, Eudoxia looked at first defiance. She seemed on the point of handing in her resignation there and then. But either her thought better of it, for, taking a cue from Mrs. Rossmore, she acted in the sarcastic manner of her mistress.

"Four is it now, m'm? I suppose the count'nection of the United States always a family to le as big as one likes to make it. It's hard on us girls, but if it's the law, it's all right, m'm. The more the merrier!" With which broadside she hung the bags all over herself and staggered off to the house.

Stott explained that the larger pieces and the trunks would come later by express. Mrs. Rossmore took him aside while Mrs. Blake joined Shirley and the judge.

"Did you tell Shirley?" asked Mrs. Rossmore. "How did she take it?"

"She knows everything," answered Stott, "and seems it very much. We shall find her of great moral assistance in our coming fight in the senate," he added confidentially.

Realizing that the judge would like to be left alone with Shirley, Mrs. Rossmore called Mrs. Blake to go upstairs and see the room she would have, while Stott said he would be glad of a washup. When they had gone Shirley stifled up to her father in her old familiar way.

"I've just been longing to see you, father," she said. She turned to get a good look at him, and, noticing the lines of care which had deepened during her absence, cried: "What, have you've changed! I can scarcely believe it's you. Say something. Let me hear the sound of your voice, father."

The judge tried and smiled.

"Why, my dear girl, I'm—"

KEEP LITTLE ONES WELL

If you want to keep your children healthy, rosy and full of life during the hot weather months, give them an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. This medicine prevents deadly summer complaints by relieving the stomach and bowels. The mother who keeps this medicine on hand may feel as safe as if she had a doctor in the house. The Tablets are equally as good for the new born baby as the well grown child. Mrs. W. H. Switzer, Elfrid, Ont., says—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children and have always found them prompt to relieve and keep them well." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY WITH

The Cameron Steel Ladder and Fire Escape

It is practical, it is made of Bessimer steel, it is permanent; it is inexpensive, it is always ready for use, it is indestructible, it costs less than any fire escape and is without a competitor. Ice and snow will not adhere to it. No rot, as in the case of wooden ladders. It should be on all churches, schools, hotels, private houses, barns and outbuildings.

This flexible steel ladder is made in two sizes of selected Bessimer steel; 3⅛ inches for dwellings, barns and outbuildings, and 7-16 inches for fire escapes. When adjusted to the wall they are as firm as the wall itself. It has been commended, amongst many others, by the following:

COLLINS—BARRETT.

At an early hour on Wednesday, June 17th, St. Basil's church, Toronto, was the scene of the marriage of Mr. Maurice Francis Collins, a young merchant of that city, to Miss Catherine Amelia Barrett, also of Toronto, but formerly of Camden. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Kelly. After the nuptial mass the happy couple took the morning train east, to the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Denis Barrett, of Camden, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was awaiting them. The bride, who was unattended, was beautifully attired in a dress of navy blue taffeta, with trimmings of cream silk and oriental lace, with hat to match. After spending a week here and with friends west, Mr. and Mrs. Collins will return to Toronto, where they will reside.

There will be an ice cream and refreshment stand at entrance to hall. Tickets for concert, 25 cents. For sale on July 1st.

DOWLING—BURNS.

At the Church of the Annunciation Chippewa, on Wednesday, June 17th, a very pretty wedding took place, when Miss Annie Burns, second daughter of James Burns, was united in marriage to John V. Dowling, of Croghan, N.Y., Rev. Father Connelly officiating.— At nine o'clock the bridal party entered the church, and proceeded to the altar to the strains of the wedding march. The bride was prettily attired in white silk and white hat. She was attended by Miss Annie Dowling, sister of the groom, and Miss Carrie Kelly, who were similarly attired, while the groom was ably supported by his brother, Bernard Dowling and James Furlong. After the ceremony the wedding party accompanied by a number of friends, drove to the home of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous dinner was served. The bride received many beautiful presents, which testified to the high esteem in which she is held. A gold piece was the groom's present to the bride, to each of the bridesmaids, a shamrock broach set with emeralds, and to the groomsmen each a tie pin. Mr. and Mrs. Dowling will leave in a few days for their future home at Croghan, N.Y., and will take with them the best wishes of their many friends.

Everybody is coming to Napanee for Dominion Day Celebration.

Taft was sure to be nominated at Chicago and Fairbanks at Indianapolis for Roosevelt, and he is probably the best of the candidates. Bryan, it seems, will be nominated by the Democrats, though he has hardly been classed among statesmen, having shone as a popular orator only, owing his prominence, indeed, largely to his pyrotechnic metaphor. Governor Johnson looks like a dangerous man, but he comes too late into the field. Roosevelt is beyond question the ablest statesman. But then a man who could seriously propose, as he did once to sink a sanatorium belonging to a country with which his own was at peace, cannot be safely trusted with vast and highly sensitive interests. The stampede to him kept up by the 14.0 men for forty-seven minutes must have been sublime in its way. The Lord Mayor prays that we may be "godly and quietly governed." Godly the Americans may be governed, quietly they are not.—A Bystander, Weekly Sun.

THE RE-COUNT.

MR. CARSCALLEN'S MAJORITY IS INCREASED FROM 15 to 17.

The re-count in the Lennox election was held at the Judge's Chambers in the Court House, and the following report of His Honor Judge Madden will be read with interest :—

In the Matter of an Election for a Member for the Legislative Assembly of Ontario for the Electoral District of Lennox, held on the First and Eighth Days of June, A. D. 1908.

It having been made to appear, on affidavit of credible witness, to me, the James Henry Madden, Esq., Judge of the County Court of the County of Lennox and Addington, in which the said Electoral District of Lennox is situated, on the 17th day of June inst., and, therefore the Returning Officer had made his return in the said election) that Deputy Returning Officers at the said election had, in counting the votes given at the said election, improperly counted or rejected ballot papers I did thereupon by my order bearing date the 17th day of June, 1908, appoint Monday, the 22d day of June inst., at the hour of 9 o'clock in the forenoon at my chambers, in the Court House in the Town of Napanee, for an official re-count of the ballots cast in said election, in pursuance of Section 130 of the Ontario Elections Act, 1908. And whereas, I, the said James Henry Madden, was attended on the said 22d day of June, inst., by David Ibram Preston, K.C., Returning Officer at the said election; Mr. Archibald W. Falon, Election Clerk; Mr. Thos. G. Carscallen, one of the candidates at the said election; Mr. U. M. Wilson, his Counsel and Agent; Mr. S. S. Herrington, his Counsel and Agent for Mr. Marshall S. Madole, the other candidate; and by Mr. T. B. Germain, Clerk and Agent for Chas. Eyvel, applicant for said re-count. And I did at the time and place aforesaid in the presence of the said parties proceed to re-count all the votes or ballot papers returned by the said Deputy Returning Officers; and after the presence of the said parties open the sealed packets containing

(1) The used ballot papers which had been counted.
(2) The rejected ballot papers.
(3) The cancelled ballot papers.
(4) The declined ballot papers.
(5) The unused ballot papers.

Such re-count of votes was proceeded with according to the provisions of the said Election Act.

I find that the number of votes or ballots cast for Mr. Thomas G. Carscallen aforesaid were fourteen hundred and seventy-seven (1477), and that the number of votes or ballots cast for Mr. Marshall S. Madole, the other candidate, were fourteen hundred and six (1,406.)

And whereas neither of the said candidates has given notice within two days after the completion of the said re-count of his intention to appeal from my decision on the said re-count, I do now certify that the number of votes or ballots cast for the said Mr. Thomas G. Carscallen were fourteen hundred and seventy-seven (1,477), and that the number of votes or ballots cast for the said Mr. Marshall S. Madole were fourteen hundred and sixty (1,460), and that the statement for the purpose marked as Schedule "A" shows the number of votes cast for each candidate in each Polling Sub-division in the said Electoral District of Lennox.

And I further certify that the majority for the said Thomas G. Carscallen is seventeen (17).

Dated under my hand at Chambers in the Court House in the Town of Napanee, this 25th day of June, A.D. 1908.

SCHEDULE "A"

This is Schedule "A" contain ng the number of votes cast at each Polling Sub-division in the Electoral District of Lennox on the first eighth days of June, 1908, and allowed on a re-count held on the 22d day of June, 1908.

THE WINE MAN TALKS BASEBALL.

A hit in the pinch is worth two of the other kind.

You've got to hit the dirt to get there in a pinch.

To outguess the other fellow makes your game easy and success a pipe.

The man who always does 'em out will make good in any game of tackles.

Luck is always a winning factor—until it runs into pluck. Then the stuff is off.

The motto of the coach lines this, "Open your eyes and keep on your toes."

The game is never lost until it's over; and it's never over until the last man is out.

A home run is a fine thing but the diminutive bunt in a tight place is not to be despised.

The baseball never makes an error or a mistake never makes a play that is really worth while.

The sacrifice hit has won more games than the home run and the 10-cent head lost fewer than the 10-cent arm.

Speed without control hasn't a show to win against control without speed. But speed with control has the field cinched.

The man who stretches a single into an extra base is of more value than the man who hits for three bases and stops at second.

All you've got to do is stop and figure there never was a knocker yet who could do as well as you are doing, although you are shooting em all over the yards. And so it goes from this what his opinion is worth.

IS YOUR DAUGHTER IN SCHOOL?

There are thousands of sickly school girls dragging through the spring months because they lack the full vigor of their youth by taking Scott's Emulsion.

Seven negroes were taken from the jail at Hemphill, Texas, Sunday night, and lynched.

A baseball player, almost blind, had his sight restored in New York while in a trance.

Twenty-four companies manufacturing manilla paper were fined $2,000 each at New York for maintaining an illegal combination.

Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, collector of customs at Barry Sound, died suddenly.

Mr. D. McKenzie was thrown on a saw in his mill near Tara, and cut in two.

Two men were arrested at Chapleau on suspicion of the murder of W. Smiley near Mackenzie.

BASEBALL

BELLEVILLE AT NAPANEE.

Next Wednesday, 8th July, the unbeaten Belleville aggregation come to Napanee to play an Eastern Ontario Baseball League game. Our boys were defeated in Belleville and are working overtime to get into shape to redeem themselves. It will be a hot game and you should be on hand to see your favourites win out. Those who attended the Napanee-Kingston game were greatly surprised at the sterling ball our boys put up and to say they were pleased would be putting it mildly. Admission, 25c.; boys under 12 years, 10c.; ladies free. Be sure and attend. Game starts at 3 p.m.

BATTING AVERAGES.

Although the season is young and the boys are playing only two games, a glimpse at their batting averages will be of interest to a large number of the fans. Five of the regulars are batting over .300, which is an excellent showing considering the ability of the pitchers they have been up against. Following are the batting averages of those at bat, number of hits and percentages up to and including June 24th.

HIS COAT OF ARMS

A man applied to the college of heralds for a coat of arms, and was asked if any of his ancestors had been rewarded for any singular achievement. The matter was pawsed and considered, but could find out nothing.

"Your father," said the herald, assisting his memory, "your grandfather, your great-grandfather?"

No, returned the applicant. I never knew that I had a great-grandfather of a grandfather."

"Of ourself?" asked this creator of dignity.

"I know nothing remarkable of myself," returned the man, until lately, being once locked up on Ludgate prison for debt I found means to escape from an upper window and that's about all I've done in a man's contribution.

"And how did you get down?" said the herald.

"Why, stomach," retorted the man, procured a cord, tied it around the neck of the statue of King Lud on the outside of the building and thus let myself down."

"A statue, sir!" said the herald, "a statue of Lud, descended from King Lud? And his coat of arms will do for you."

By CHARLES KLEIN.

Copyright, 1906, by C. W. Dillingham Company.

Shirley threw her arms round his neck.

"Ah, yes, now I know it's you," she cried.

"Of course it is, Shirley, my dear girl. Of course it is. Who else would it be?"

"Yes, but it isn't the same," insisted Shirley. "There is no ring to your voice. It sounds hollow and empty, like an echo. And this place," she added dolefully, "this awful place"—

The glanced around at the cracked ceilings, the cheaply papered walls, the shabby furniture, and her heart sank as she realized the extent of their misfortune. She had come back prepared for the worst, toshelp win the fight for her father's honor, but to have to struggle against sordid poverty as well, to endure that humiliation in addition to disgrace—ah, that was something she had not anticipated! She changed color, and her voice faltered. Her father had been closely watching for just such signs, and he read her thoughts.

"It's the best we can afford, Shirley," he said quietly. "The blow has been complete. I will tell you everything. You shall judge for yourself. My enemies have done for me at last."

"Your enemies?" cried Shirley eagerly. "Tell me who they are so I may go to them."

"Yes, dear, you shall know everything, here and now. You are tired after your journey. Tomorrow—Sometime Stott and I will explain everything."

"Very well, father, as you wish," said-Shirley gently. "After all," she added in an effort to appear cheerful, "what matter where we live so long as we have each other?"

She drew away to hide her tears and left the room on pretense of inspecting the house. She looked into the dining room and kitchen and opened the cupboards, and when she returned there were no visible signs of trouble in her face.

"It's a cute little house, isn't it?" she said. "I've always wanted a little place like this all to ourselves. Oh, if you only knew how tired I am of New York and its great ugly houses, the retinue of servants and its domestic and social responsibilities! I shall be able to live for ourselves now, old father!"

She spoke with a forced gayety that might have deceived any one but a judge. He understood the motive of her sudden change in manner, and silently he blessed her for making his burden lighter.

"Yes, dear, it's not bad," he said. "There's not much room, though."

"There's quite enough," she insisted. "Let me see." She began to count on her fingers. "Upstairs, three rooms, eh, and above that three more"—

"No," smiled the judge; "then comes the roof."

"Of course," she laughed; "how stupid of me—a nice gable roof, a tiny roof that the rain runs off beautifully. Oh, I can see that this is going to be awfully jolly—just like camping out. You know how I love camping out. And you have a piano too."

She went over to the corner where stood one of those homely instruments which hardly deserve to be dignified by the name piano, with a cheap, grandly painted case outside and a flimsy effect inside, and which are usually to be found in the poorer class of country boarding houses. Shirley sat down and ran her fingers over the keys, determined to like everything.

"It's a little old," was her comment, "but I like these sither effects. It's just like the sixteenth century spinet. I can see you and mother dancing a stately minuet," she smiled.

"What's that about mother dancing?" demanded Mrs. Rossmore, who at that instant entered the room. Shirley arose and appealed to her:

"Isn't it absurd, mother, when you come to think of it, that anybody should accuse father of being corrupt and of having forfeited the right to be judge? Isn't it still more absurd that we should be helpless and dejected and unhappy because we are on Long Island instead of Madison avenue? Why should Manhattan island be a happier spot than Long Island? Why shouldn't we be happy anywhere? We have each other, and we do need each other. We never knew how much till today, did we? We must stand by each other now. Father is going to clear his name of this monstrous charge, and we're going to help him, aren't we, mother? We're not helpless just because we are not rich. We're going to work, mother and I."

"Work?" echoed Mrs. Rossmore, somewhat scandalized.

"Work," repeated Shirley very decisively.

The judge interfered. He would not hear of it.

"You work, Shirley? Impossible!"

"Why not?" he took him to be well versed in the matter of literature, too, for the newspapers and magazines. It will add to our income."

"Your book, 'The American Octopus,' is selling well?" inquired the judge, interested.

"So well," replied Shirley, "that the publishers wrote me in Paris that the fourth edition is now on the press. That means good royalties. I shall soon be a comfortable author. The publishers will be after me for more books, and we'll have all the money we want. Oh, it is so delightful, this novel sensation of a literary success!" she exclaimed with glee. "Aren't you proud of me, dad?"

The judge smiled indulgently. Of course he was glad and proud. He always knew his Shirley was a clever girl. But by what strange fatality, he thought to himself, had his daughter in this book of hers ansulted the very man who had encompassed his own ruin? It seemed like the retribution of heaven. Neither his daughter nor the financier was conscious of the fact that each was indirectly connected with the impeachment proceedings. Ryder could not dream that "Shirley Green," the author of the book which stirred him so mercilessly, was the daughter of the man he was trying to crush. Shirley, on the other hand, was still unaware of the fact that it was Ryder who had lured her father to his ruin.

When at last she could lock herself in her room where no eye could see her, Shirley threw herself down on the bed and burst into a torrent of tears. She had kept up appearances as long as it was possible, but now the reaction had set in. She was very free from to her pent up feelings; she felt that unless she could relieve herself in this way her heart would break. She had been brave until now, she had been strong as her everything and see everything, but she could not keep it up forever. Stott's words to her on the boat had in part prepared her for the worst; he had told her what to expect at home, but the realization was so much more vivid. Then to have come to this all in the brief space of a few months! It was incredible, terrible, heart rending! And what of the future? What was to be done to save her father from this impeachment which she knew well would hurry him to his grave? He could not survive that humiliation, that degradation. He must be saved in the senate, but how —how?

She dried her eyes and began to think. Surely her woman's wit would find some way. She thought of Jefferson. Would she come to Massapequa? It was hardly probable. He would certainly learn of the change in their circumstances, and his sense of delicacy would naturally keep him away for some time even if other considerations less unselfish did not. Perhaps he would be attracted to some other girl he would like as well and who was not burdened with a tragedy in her family. Yet even to begin to flow afresh until she hated herself for being so weak while there was work to be done to save her father. She loved Jefferson. Yes, she had never felt so sure of it as now. She felt that if she had him there at that moment she would throw herself in his arms, crying: "Take me, Jefferson—take me away—where you will—for I love you! I love you!" But Jefferson was not there, and the rickety chairs in the tiny bedroom and the cheap prints on the walls seemed to gibe at her in her misery.

Suddenly she thought of Jefferson's promise to take an interest his father in their case, and she clutched at the hope this promise held out as a drowning man clutches at a drifting straw. Jefferson would not forget his promise, and he would come to Massapequa to tell her of what he had done. She was sure of that. Perhaps, after all, there was where their hope lay. Why had she not told her father at once? It might have relieved his mind. John Burkett Ryder, the Colossus, the man of unlimited power! He could save her father, and he would. And the more she thought about it the more cheerful and more hopeful she became, and she started to dress quickly, so that she might hurry down to tell her father the good news. She was actually sorry now that she had said so many hard things of Mr. Ryder in her book, and she was worrying over the thought that her father's case might be seriously prejudiced if the identity of the author were ever revealed, when there came a knock at her door. It was Eudoxia.

"Please, miss, will you come down to lunch?"

CHAPTER VIII.

A WHIRLING maelstrom of human activity and dynamic energy—the city which above all others is characteristic of the genius and virility of the American people—New York, with its congested polyglot population and teeming millions, is assuredly one of the busiest, as it is one of the most strenuous and most noisy places on earth. Yet, despite its swarming streets and crowded shops, constantly thronged with men and women eagerly hurrying here and there in the pursuit of business or elusive pleasure, all chattering, laughing, shouting amid the deafening, multitudinous roar of traffic incidental to Gotham's daily life, there is one part

OUR NATIONAL DANGER

TIME TO CRY A HALT BEFORE COMPLETE WRECK RESULTS.

There are thousands, both men and women, who do not take time to eat properly. They rush through life, and as a result there is an age of indigestion, nervousness, irritability, sleepless nights, and morose dispositions generally. Others suffer from stomach weakness, due to the strenuous life.

Mi-o-na tablets strengthen the walls of the stomach and stimulate the nerves of digestion. They make the stomach comfortable and cure indigestion.

Sick headaches, palpitation, yellow skin and coated tongue are a few of the distressing results of indigestion that Mi-o-na never fails to cure.

T. B. Wallace sells Mi-o-na in 50 cent boxes, and guarantees to refund the money if it does not give complete satisfaction.

of the great metropolis where there is no bustle, no noise, no cries—where the streets are empty even in daytime, where a passerby is a curiosity and a child a phenomenon. This deserted village in the very heart of the big town is the millionaires' district, the boundaries of which are marked by Carnegie hill on the north, Fiftieth street on the south, and by Fifth and Madison avenues respectively on the west and east. There is nothing more mournful than the outward aspect of these princely residences which, abandoned and empty for three-quarters of the year, stand in stately loneliness, as if ashamed of their isolation and utter uselessness. Their blinds drawn, affording no hint of life within, enveloped the greater part of the time in the stillness and silence of the tomb, they appear to be under the spell of some baneful curse. No merry voiced children romp in their carefully railed off gardens, no sounds of conversation or laughter come from their hermetically closed windows, not a soul goes in or out; at most, at rare intervals, does one catch a glimpse of a gorgeously arrayed servant gilding about in ghostly fashion, superficially conscientious and addressing the chance visitor in awed whispers as though he were the guardian of a house of affliction. It is, indeed, like a city of the dead.

So it appeared to Jefferson as he walked up Fifth avenue, bound for John Ryder residence, the day following his arrival from Europe. Although he still lived at his father's house, for a long time had there been an open rupture, he often slept in his studio, finding it more convenient for his work, and there he had gone straight from the ships. He felt, however, that it was his duty to see his mother as soon as possible; besides he was anxious to fulfill his promise to Shirley and find what his father could do to help Judge Rossmore. He had talked about the case with several men the previous evening at the club, and the general impression seemed to be that, guilty or innocent, the judge would be driven off the bench.

Europe, thought Jefferson as he strode quickly along, pointed with envy to America's unparalleled prosperity, spoke with bated breath of her great fortunes. Rather should they say her gigantic robberies, her colossal frauds. As a nation we were not proud of our multimillionaires. How many of them would bear the searchlight of investigation? Would his own father? How many millions could one man make by honest methods? America was enjoying unprecedented prosperity not because of her millionaires, but in spite of them. The United States owed its high rank in the family of nations to the country's vast natural resources, its inexhaustible vitality, its great wheatfields, the industrial and mechanical genius of its people. It was the plain American citizen who had made the greatness of America; not the millionaires who, forming a class by themselves of unscrupulous capitalists, had created an arrogant oligarchy which sought to rule the country by corrupting the legislature and the judiciary. The plutocrats—these were the leeches, the sores in the body politic. As organized band of robbers, they had succeeded in dominating legislation and in securing control of every branch of the nation's industry, crushing mercilessly and illegally all competition.

Jefferson turned abruptly and went up the wide steps of an imposing white marble edifice which took up the space of half a city block. A fine example of French renaissance architecture, with spire roofs, round turrets and multilioned windows dominating the neighboring houses, this magnificent home of the plutocrat, with its furnishings and art treasures, had cost John Burkett Ryder nearly $10,000,000. It was one of the show places of the town, and when the "rubbernecks" wagons approached the Ryder mansion and the guides through their megaphones expatiated in awestricken tones on its external and internal beauties, there was a general craning of vertebrae among the "seeing New Yorkers" to catch a momentary glimpse of the richest man in the world.

Only a few privileged ones were ever permitted to penetrate to the interior of this $10,000,000 home. Ryder was not fond of company; he avoided strangers and lived in conditions suspension of the subpoena server. Not that he feared the law, only he usually found it inconvenient to answer questions in court under oath. The explicit instructions to the servants, therefore, were to admit no one save by previous text whatever unless the visitor had been approved by the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, Mr. Ryder's arbitrator of private secretary, and to facilitate this preliminary inspection there had been installed between the library upstairs and the front door one of those ingenious electric writing devices, such as are used in banks, on-which a name is hastily scribbled, instantly transmitted elsewhere, instantly answered and on the visitor promptly admitted or as quickly shown the door.

Jefferson did not have to ring at the paternal portal. The sentinel within was at his post. No one could approach that door without being seen and his arrival and appearance being signaled upstairs. But the great man's son headed the list of the privileged ones, so without ado the smartly dressed butler opened wide the doors, and Jefferson was under his father's roof.

"Is my father in?" he demanded of the man.

"No, sir," was the respectful answer. "Mr. Ryder has gone out driving, but Mr. Bagley is upstairs." Then after a brief pause he added, "Mrs. Ryder is in too."

Jefferson went up the grand staircase, hung on either side with fine old portraits and rare tapestries, his feet sinking deep in the rich velvet carpet. On the first landing was a piece of sculptured marble of inestimable worth, erected in the soft warm light that filtered through a great pictorial stained glass window overhead, the subject representing Ajax and Ulysses contending for the armor of Achilles. To the left of this, at the top of another flight leading to the library, was hung a fine full length portrait of John Burkett Ryder. The ceilings here as in the lower hall were richly gilded and adorned with paintings by famous modern artists. When he reached this floor Jefferson was about to turn to the right and proceed direct to his mother's suit when he heard a voice near the library door. It was the voice of Bagley giving instructions to the butler.

The Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, a younger son of a British peer, had left his country for his country's good, and in order to turn an honest penny, which he had never succeeded in doing at home, he had entered the service of America's foremost financier, hoping to gather a few of the crumbs that fell from the rich man's table and disguising the menial nature of his position under the high sounding title of private secretary. His job called for a spy and a toady, and he filled these requirements admirably. Accepting with his employer, of whom he stood in craven fear, his manner was consciencedingly patronizing to all with whom he came in contact, as if he were anxious to impress on these American plebeians the signal honor which a Fitzroy, son of a British peer, did them in deigning to remain in their "blarsted" country. In Mr. Ryder's absence, therefore, he ran the house pretty much to suit himself, to the servants and not infrequently issuing orders that were contradictory to those already given by Mrs. Ryder.

Jefferson could not hear the sight of him. In fact, it was this man's cringing subservience to his employer that driven him to seek refuge elsewhere. He believed him to be a scoundrel as well as a fatuous ass, and his last fair estimate of the English secretary far wrong. The man, like his master, was a grafter, and the particular graft he was after now was either to make a marriage with a rich American girl or to so compromise her that the same end would be attained. He was shrewd enough to realize that he had little chance to get what he wanted in the open matrimonial market, so he determined to attempt a raid and carry off an heiress under her father's nose, and the particular proboscis he had selected was that of his employer's friend, Senator Roberts. The senator and Miss Roberts were frequently at the Ryder house, and in course of time the aristocratic secretary and the daughter had become quite intimate. A fellow feeling made them congenial spirits in life beyond dress and amusement and having what she termed "a good time," Kate thought it exceedingly pastime to flirt with Mr. Bagley, and when she discovered that he was serious in his attentions she felt flattered rather than indignant. After all, she argued, he was of noble birth. If his two brothers died, he would be peer of England, and she had enough money for both. He might not make a bad husband. But she was careful to keep her own counsel and not let her father have any suspicion of what was going on. If he knew that his heart was set on her marrying Jefferson Ryder, and she knew better than any one how impossible that dream was, he would likely hurry Jefferson quite enough to marry him, but if his eyes were turned in another direction—and she knew all about his attentions to Miss Rossmore—she was not going to break her heart about it. So she continued to flirt openly with the Hon. Fitzroy while she still led the Ryders and her own father to think that she was interested in Jefferson.

"Jenkins," Mr. Bagley was saying to the butler, "Mr. Ryder will occupy the library on his return. See that he is not disturbed."

"Very good, sir." The butler bowed and went downstairs. The secretary looked up and saw Jefferson. His face reddened, and his manner grew nervous.

"Hello! Back from Europe, Jefferson? How jolly! Your mother will be delighted. She's in her room upstairs."

Declining to take the hint and gathering from Bagley's embarrassed manner that he wanted to get rid of him Jefferson lingered purposely. When the butler had disappeared the secretary said nervously: "I'm afraid it's impossible," answered the secretary with studied insolence. "He has three important people in before dinner. Chauncey the national Republican committee and Bergenal Ellison of the secret service from Washington, all busy by appointment. It's quite impossible."

"I fear I intrude here."

"I didn't ask you if it were possible. I said I wanted to see him, and I will see him," answered Jefferson quietly but firmly, and in a tone and manner which did not admit of further discussion. "I'll go and leave word for him at his desk," he added.

He started to enter the library when the secretary, who was visibly perturbed, interposed to bar his way.

"There's some one in there," he said in an undertone. "Someone waiting to see your father."

"Is there?" replied Jefferson coolly. "I'll see who it is," which he brushed past Mr. Bagley and entered the library.

He had guessed aright. A woman was there. It was Kate Roberts.

"Hello, Kate! How are you?" Jefferson cheerfully to say nothing of the interrupted tete-a-tete, but mentally he resolved to spoil Mr. Bagley's game and save Kate from her own folly. On hearing his voice Kate turned and gave a little cry of genuine surprise.

"Why, is it you, Jeff? I thought you were in Europe."

"I returned yesterday," he replied somewhat curtly. He crossed over to his father's desk, where he sat down to scribble a few words, while Mr. Bagley, who had followed him in, scowling, was making frantic dumb signs to Kate.

"I fear I intrude here," said Jefferson pointedly.

"Oh, dear no, not at all," replied Kate in some confusion. "I was waiting for my father. How is Paris?" she asked.

"Lovely as ever," he answered.

"Did you have a good time?" she inquired.

"I enjoyed it immensely. I never had a better one."

"You probably were in good company," she said significantly. Then she added: "I believe Miss Rossmore was in Paris."

"Yes, I think she was there," was his noncommittal answer.

To change the conversation, which was becoming decidedly personal, he picked up a book that was lying on his father's desk and glanced at the title. It was "The American Octopus."

"If you'll excuse me, I'll go and pay my filial respects upstairs," said Jefferson. "I'll see you again." He gave Kate a friendly nod, and without even glancing at Mr. Bagley left the room.

The couple stood in silence for a few moments after he disappeared. Then Kate went to the door and listened to his retreating footsteps. When she was sure that he was out of earshot she turned on Mr. Bagley indignantly.

"I fear I intrude here."

"You see what you expose me to. Jefferson thinks this was a rendezvous."

"My dear Miss Roberts—Kate—I"—stammered the secretary.

"How dare you address me in this manner when you know I and Mr. Ryder are engaged?"

No one knew better that Kate that this was not true, but she said it partly out of vanity, partly out of a desire to draw out this Englishman who was such good love to her.

"Miss Roberts," replied Mr. Bagley loftily, "in that note I expressed my sentiments. But now, after your engagement to Mr. Jefferson Ryder is, to say the least, a most uncertain fact." There was a tinge of sarcasm in his voice that did not escape Kate.

"You must not judge from appearances," she said hastily, trying to keep up the outward show of indignation which inwardly she did not feel. "Jeff and I may hide a passion that burns like a volcano. All lovers are not demonstrative, you know."

The absurdity of this description as applied to her relations with Jefferson appealed to her as so comical that she burst into laughter, in which the secretary joined.

"Then why did you remain here with me when the senator went out with Mr. Ryder, senior?" he demanded.

"To tell you that I cannot listen to your nonsense any longer," retorted the girl.

"What?" he cried incredulously. "You remain here to tell me that you cannot listen to me when you could easily have avoided listening to me without hurting me by going? Kate, your coldness is not convincing."

"You mean you think I want to listen to you? Do you dare?"

"I do," he answered, stepping forward as if to take her in his arms.

"Mr. Bagley!" she exclaimed, recoiling.

"Just once again," he persisted, "you called me Fitzroy. Once in an outburst of confidence you called me Fitz."

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Mounted Officer—Aw—are you the West Ridings?

Voice from the ranks—No. I We're the bloomin' buff. I walkin'!

MILD IN THEIR ACTION—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are very mild in their action. They do not cause pain, nor do they gripe. Of course a cathartic there is as many pills do. Therefore the most delicate can take them without fear of unpleasant results. They can, too, be relied on to do nothing without warning. Those who follow the use of pills find Parmelee's Vegetable Pills the best.

Hot milk is much better than boiling water for removing most stains.

THEY ARE A POWERFUL MEDICINE—Dyspepsia causes derangement of the stomach, and although the symptoms may be numerous they all tend to derange the system and should be dealt with promptly. There are many testimonials to the efficacy of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills in curing this disorder, showing that they are a powerful medicine for the stomach, liver and bowels. They tone to the digestive organs, restore equilibrium to the system, and

Mr. Calliper—Unfortunately, however, my son, as the best eggs—

Little Clarence—Yes, I know. He do this spring, and everything.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a compounded medicine, and is prepared according to the directions and orders that change of food and water, or the unhealthy conditions of the summer months, are liable to cause. It is a safe and reliable remedy for the entire family, be adults or children, and can be relied on to relieve and cure all cases of dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera morbus, etc.

Books keep better when covered with the air than when shut up in a case.

THE HAN THROAT—Many are the things that should not be done to the throat. Time has proved Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil a friend in need. Many are the diseases of the throat for which it is a specific. Many are the lives it has saved by taking into the bronchial tubes. Many are the throats it has healed. It must be good.

It takes a lot of nerve to be a successful burglar.

Yes, but it takes a lot of nerve to be a successful wife, as Mother Seigel's Syrup has proved, and we have added the Seigel Pills to make it better.

Pearl knife handles should be cleaned with a rag dipped in fine salt; they polished with a leather.

Have you tried it? If not, you have no equal for keeping your hair in order. Many have tried it.

Parker and Bridge—Have you been sitting up with a sick friend last night? Mr. Bridge—No, but with his sick wife all the afternoon.

To clean a stove mix it with wet tablespoonful of kerosene and rub with a mill and all traces of the stove will be removed.

An Ward—Not to it? Why, you're dressed to the nines, old world? A square meal. Pinto.

An ward is it you want to be lead?

Dr. Vere Pringsberry, Pinto.

Sprinkle salt on chairs and the shelves of pantries where ants are troublesome, and both are extinguishable to these insects.

It's so ridiculous," said Chollie, to say that clothes make the man. Indeed I" remarked Miss Brow. "Yes, you see if a fellow has one didn't have such lots of clothes he wouldn't need a man.

Heat prostrates the nerves. In the summer one needs a tonic to effect the necessary heat and nerve. Force engagement to Mr. Jefferson Ryder is, to say the least, a most uncertain fact." There was a tinge of sarcasm in his voice that did not escape Kate.

"You must not judge from appearances," she said hastily, trying to keep up the outward show of indignation which inwardly she did not feel. "Jeff and I may hide a passion that burns like a volcano. All lovers are not demonstrative, you know."

the road grader. Now, imagine yourself running a milk wagon, a loaded vehicle or a carriage over a road where often one wheel will be nearly a foot higher than the other and you will understand how difficult it is to carry on traffic over such a constructed road. I venture to say that you may travel the Dominion over and you will not find a badly constructed road as the one above referred to, unless done under the present management.

Now, sir, as one of the taxpayers of the Township of Camden I protest against any further outlay of public money on our highways until a competent man has been appointed to superintend the work.

Now, Mr. Editor, I would like to give your readers a description of how this work should have been done, but I fear I have already trespassed upon your valuable space, and will close with many thanks for this privilege.

Yours truly,

PLEASANT EVENING SPENT.

On the evening of June 22th a large and interested assembly responded to the invitation of the Odessa Public Library Board and gathered at the home of Mr. Jas. F. Dawson to meet Mrs. Geo. I. Ham and daughter, Miss Eno, of Mexico.

Mr. Dawson's comfortable home, with its spacious verandahs and wide lawns, lent itself admirably to the entertainment of the guests.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs. Geo. I. Ham and Miss Eno Ham, of Mexico; Mr. Johnson, New York; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Herrington, Miss Lena Herrington, Mrs. Burritt, Mrs. Lockridge, and Mr. Edelstein, of Napanee.

The evening was chiefly musical, and the people of Odessa had a rare pleasure of hearing Miss Ham in several charming selections. She delighted her audience. Mrs. Burritt Mrs. Herrington, Mrs. Lockridge and Mr. Edelstein were also heard to advantage, as was the Odessa band. Mr. Herrington made a splendid chairman.

During the evening Mr. J. H. Gardiner, President of the Library Board, took the opportunity to read the following address, which explains itself:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen—

As you are aware the entertainment this evening is under the auspices of the Odessa Public Library. This institution has been struggling to exist in our midst for a number of years. We were handicapped on all sides—rented rooms, small income, and other discouragements. But one day there came a change in the tide, in the form of a gift from Mrs. Ham, who is with us this evening with Ham, while visiting her birthplace, saw our need and generously placed us on a firm footing. We have now the finest library of any village in the Province of Ontario. It contains a free reading room, supplied with all the leading daily and weekly papers and magazines, in addition to a list of 1200 volumes.

We feel that our difficulties are over, and our pathway for the future looks bright. We owe our present financial standing to the kindness of Mrs. Ham, and here will take this opportunity to thank her.

Mrs. Geo. I. Ham,
Mexico City.

Dear Madam,—To-night in the presence of this company here assembled, the members of the Board of Management of the Odessa Public Library, desire to express to you our sincerest thanks, for the timely and unconditional gift of twenty hundred dollars, being the amount of the purchase money of our Library building.

Though you are absent from us, the little village in which your girlhood days were spent, has not been forgotten, and now contains a lasting tribute of your generosity.

May fortune continue to smile upon you, and rest assured that your name will ever be a interest to us.

"Time touch ye gently and each day unfold additional delights."

Mrs. Ham asked Mr. Herrington to reply for her, at the same time saying that it was a great pleasure to herself to give the library to the village.

Mr. Herrington said: I know Mrs. Ham, the chief benefactress, speaks from the depth of her heart when she says that her whole heart is in the interest of the Odessa Public Library. She asked me to thank you on her behalf. I wasn't told what to say. She recalled everything on her way down—every log, every stick, every stump, every scene of her childhood days. I am sure that she feels that the old saying is true, "How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood." We find your library in a very prosperous condition, having inspected it some time ago, and again just recently. I am sure I am voicing the sentiments of Mrs. Ham, in fact of all of us, that you will continue to be prosperous.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS.

Eden Bank, B.C., association for May had the remarkable test of 841 cows, an average production of 917 lbs. milk, 3.7 per cent, 34.1 lbs. fat. In each of the 20 herds some individual cows gave over 1000 lbs. milk, while the 3 best single yields were 1630 lbs. testing 3.2, 1750 lbs. testing 3.5, and 1780 lbs. milk in the 30 days. The best herd average was from a lot of 20 cows yielding 1284 lbs. milk, 3.4 test, 44 lbs. fat. Such animals must be a pleasure to handle, a source of pride and satisfaction, as well as of good cash returns.

A good Ontario record for the same period is at the Central Smith association where a herd of 20 cows averaged 1096 lbs. milk, 3.2 test, 35 lbs. fat. The best cow in that herd gave 1465 lbs. milk testing 4.0, and the lowest yield in the same herd was 800 lbs. testing 3.2.

A contrast to the above is at St. Antoine, Que., for the same period where 40 cows averaged only 654 lbs. milk, 3.1 test, 21.9 lbs. fat. The 40 cows gave a total yield of 26,161 lbs. milk, 1,317 lbs. fat. If they had milked as well as the cows at Eden Bank, B.C., they would have given an additional weight of actually sixteen thousand pounds of milk and over seven hundred pounds of butter fat during the one month.

Are there around some more places where there are still some poor cows left? The poor cows are quickest detected by systematic weighing and testing.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

The pupils of Centreville school met and presented their teacher, Miss Myrtle Husband, with a gold locket and chain, accompanied by the following address:

Dear Miss Husband—We, the pupils of Centreville Public School, desire to express our love and esteem for you as our teacher, and our appreciation of your efforts in our behalf in ways outside of the usual sphere of school duties. During your stay among us you have endeared yourself to us by your kind and painstaking efforts to give us what is better than wealth, a liberal education.

In after years, when we have graduated into the practical world, we will trust we shall remember and profit by the lessons of kindness, patience and perseverance which you have tried to instil into our minds and hearts. As a slight token of our affection will you please accept this locket and chain, and let them serve as a reminder of the happy days we have spent together.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of The Beaver:

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly favor me with space in your valuable paper for the purpose of calling the attention of the County Council, and especially the Roads and Bridges Committee, to some work that has recently been done on the County road between Camden East and Centreville in the Township of Camden by the men employed to operate the County road machinery. The people who have travelled that road know quite well that for several years past the road through the 2d and part of the 3d concessions have been in a very deplaidated state and needed repairing, and I was particularly pleased when I heard that the County road machinery, with its staff of workmen, had come to repair it. I heard and read so much about "Good Roads" that I really expected to see something out of the ordinary, and as the road bed was all that could be desired in order to make a first-class road, I expected to see something in the line of road repairing that would equal anything I had ever travelled over. But, how great was my astonishment when I passed over the road a few days after the work had been completed. After closely examining the work from beginning to end, I came to the conclusion that it would take from $150 to $200 to make the road bed as good as it was before the work was done. Had the workmen ceased operations when the gravel was placed on the road, they would have done no damage to the road, and in time the gravel heaped up in the centre would have gradually spread out and we would have had a very good road. But evidently the man in charge of the work went about something he did not understand when he undertook to grade off the piles of the road, and should not be allowed to do any further damage on our public highways by the use of the road grader. I will now tell you how this job of work was done.

There was a heavy coat of gravel put on the centre of the road, and it needed all that was put on, and averaged about ten inches in thickness and cover a width of about 16 feet. Then the road plough was run used on the outside edges of the road bed and the furrows turned outwardly into the ditches, thus leaving the road almost impassible for two weeks or more. Then came the road grader to do what only insane people would do, viz.: Scrape the larger part of the earth and gravel from both sides of the turnpike and throw it into the ditches; and in many places the only course now remaining for the water is along on the edges of the turnpike. Down some of the grades the water has already begun to do its work. A comparative-ly small portion, however, of the ploughed up sod was put up against the gravel, and as steam clamber over this pyramid of gravel in crossing and re-crossing it is gradually being forced over the sods and is fast making its way (in many places) into the only watercourse now remaining on the edge of the turnpike. Evidently part of those sods were placed in position by hands, while others were placed in all manner of shapes on the edge of the gravel by

Bumper Crop Assured.

WEST NEVER KNEW MORE FAVORABLE CONDITIONS SO EARLY IN SEASON.

Optimists Predict a Yield of One Hundred Million Bushels of Wheat This Year.

Six weeks of ideal crop weather with plenty of warm rains, alternated with bright warm days, have brought the wheat crop to a favorable stage, which if scarcely ever attained before at this season of the year, and despatches from various points in the different points in the west invariably state that no prospect season ever witnessed the country in as promising a condition as it is at the present moment. The sort of weather which has been prevalent for the past six weeks will doubtless result in a heavy straw crop, but old farmers say that indications are that the grain will open early and that there will be no danger of frosts. The wheat is now six inches inches in height, being a little further advanced in Manitoba than in the other provinces. The following is a carefully selected report of the state of the crops in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and can be relied on as correct to date:

Regina, Sask., June 23.—Matthew Henderson, of Condie, says up to the present the growth of grain is the most wonderful he has ever seen. Season has been ideal for growing crops, and if no setbacks are experienced, there is every reason to believe that the crop this year will be a record one. It looks as though it would be best yet. This may be expressed it, and when Henderson makes a statement of that kind it may be taken as a conservative opinion and having great weight. Walter Simpson, an old timer in this district returned from Broadview, where he has a second farm. Reports crops between Broadview and Regina best he has ever seen at this time of year.

SASKATOON OPTIMISTIC.

Saskatoon, Sask., June 22.—It can be said without exaggeration that crop conditions in this district have never been better. Reports from a district covering a hundred miles are to the effect that everything is looking excellent. The weather has been ideal for good results. The crops show much rain of late. There has been enough rain for the present, while the proportion of sunshine is equal. The ground has never been too wet to be too dry, and every prospect is for a bumper crop as the grain is growing thickly, and it looks as if some records of bushels to the acre will go. As far as can be ascertained generally the root growth is all right.

Milestone, Sask., June 23.—A heavy rain of nearly three inches last Thursday inundated wheat and oat fields in summerfallow occasioning slight damage otherwise wheat, oats and barley are making rapid progress, flax is looking exceptionally fine. Crop outlook thirty per cent. better than last year at this time. No damage by frost.

Carman, Man., June 23.—The present condition of crops is considered very satisfactory. No damage to crops from frosts, but slight damage to garden stuffs; also some slight damage from hail on Saturday night. Rain is not required at present, as we have had several good rains this month. Crops are so far ahead of last year that there is no comparison. Fully a month earlier and every prospect of a large yield, whereas, last year, seeding was not completed at this time.

REGINA PROSPECTS.

Regina, June 22.—Crop prospects in the Regina district were never more ideal than at the present time. The season commenced a month earlier than last year and most of the wheat was in the ground before the last snowstorm which followed the fine weather of the spring. Reports from down the Arcola line and from the Soo line are encouraging, and especially on the latter division the wheat is well advanced. The month of May was good for late oat seeding and for flax, and although no estimate of the increased acreage is yet handed out by the government, it is generally believed that it will be much increased in these lines.

WHEAT ACREAGE.

The wheat acreage will be about the same as last year, and the additional oat land is accounted for by the large amount of fall plowing stopped last year but completed this spring. Thus far it has been very wet, but rains have been alternated with warm, sunny days, which have brought growth along wonderfully. In the Condie district wheat is twelve inches high, and east of Regina, in the Pilot Butte district, samples fourteen inches have been pulled. Old timers state that never in the history of the country have prospects been so bright as at the present time, and with the continuance of favorable conditions, the crop will be a bumper one. An exceedingly large amount of rain will result in the straw being heavy, but indications are that the grain will ripen early and early frosts will be missed.

IN SUNNY ALBERTA.

Stettler, Alta., June 22.—Crops in Red Deer, Lacombe and Stettler districts look splendid. Fall wheat is up to twenty-three inches high. Root crops never looked better.

Brandon, Man., June 23.—The present condition of wheat, oats and barley is as near perfect as it possibly could be at this time. The wheat is two feet high and has a very large blade; the crops have not been injured by frost. Very slight damage to tender garden stuff in a few places in the Assiniboine valley only on June 9th. Plenty of rain has fallen to last some time. The crop outlook as compared with last year is fully 50 per cent. better.

Griswold, Man., June 23.—Wheat, oats and barley are in first-class condition, except some odd spots that were blown by high winds.

Frost of June 9th cut down beans, cucumbers and some other tender stuff and nipped potato tops a little, but did no harm to grain. Can do without rain for two or three weeks. Outlook is twice as good as last year at this date and crops at least two weeks further ahead.

Portage la Prairie, Man., June 23. Cold time farmers of this district declare they have never seen better prospects for a bumper crop since the phenomenal season of 1895. The present condition of all grains is excellent. There are slight indications of frost on garden stuff after the early frosts of this month, but no damage of any note. The recent rains came just at the right time and will greatly improve the wheat besides helping on the late barley. Compared with last year this season the outlook is for a harvest at least 15 and possibly 20 days earlier. The crop is very thick on the ground and has stooled out well.

Neepawa, Man., June 23.—Copious rains during the past week have helped the growing crops immensely and throughout the Neepawa district conditions were seldom as good as this date. Grain has stooled strongly and is coming on very evenly, the growth on summerfallowing being rather better than on summerfallows or fall plowing. In odd places south and in greater areas north there has been too much rain. Gardens, meadows and pastures show most luxuriant growth and the wild fruit crop promises to be abundant.

Minnedosa, Man., June 23.—Prospects at this season never looked brighter for a good crop. Grain is making rapid growth with the warm moist weather and wheat is three weeks ahead of last year and may possibly grow too rank and strong if present weather conditions continue. Frost on the 9th damaged tender garden plants, but did not injure grain.

Birtle, Man., June 23.—Present condition of wheat, oats and barley is good. Frost of June 9th, did not injure crops except to slightly retard growth. Garden stuff in many parts hurt but largely recovered. No rain required. Crop outlook much better than this time last year, and with continued warm weather will be a bumper.

Binscarth, Man., June 23.—Wheat, oats and barley are doing splendidly. The wheat is 15 inches high in several cases and fully three weeks ahead of last year. No damage to crops by frost, though beans and corn in the gardens suffered slightly. No rain required; have had a great deal this month. Some damage caused by hail on Saturday last.

Russell, Man., June 23.—Crop conditions in this district could scarcely be better. The grain was put in early and well, germinated strongly and quickly and following weather conditions have been favorable. Everything is three weeks to a month ahead of last year. There was frost one night, but all reports are that no damage was done to grain and little or none to garden stuff. There has been abundance of rain, and nothing further is required for a big crop along rapidly.

Swadale, Man., June 23.— Fair amount of sunshine with plenty of rain coming without any frost to injure grain every two or three weeks better start than last year. Crop, which is principally oats, never looked better at this time of year. Every thing tends to a much earlier harvest and better yield than last year.

Langenburg, Sask., June 23.— Wheat throughout looks well; some fields headed out two weeks; oats and barley also far advanced; never saw than in previous seasons. Slight damage done to some garden stuff on June 9th. No rain required; soil in good shape and the crops in general about three weeks ahead of last year.

Yorkton, Sask., June 23.—Crops not have never looked better, wheat averages to 11 inches high, oats and barley in excellent condition. Garden stuff slightly touched by frost on June 9th. Rains have been much heavier for many years, all that is wanted is warm July, and barring hail Yorkton's crop will exceed 1906 by many thousands of bushels.

CATARRH NOW CURABLE.

BUT NEVER BY MEDICINE SWALLOWED, SNIFFED, SPRAYED OR DOUCHED.

Catarrh is not a blood disease and that is why it cannot be cured by any medicine taken into the stomach. Catarrh is a germ trouble contracted from the germ-laden air you breathe inward. These germs so often themselves in the tissue and air cells of the breathing organs, multiply by millions, cause sneezing, coughing, raising of mucous, discharge from the nose, difficulty in breathing, hoarseness, dryness and sometimes the nose, tickling in the throat and other symptoms that can only be reached by the dry air principle of Hyomei.

Hyomei medicates the air you breathe with the curative properties of the Australian Eucalyptus Forests where catarrh is unknown.

The reason you get relief in a minute of two from Hyomei is because it destroys every catarrhal germ in the air you breathe, and its penetrating aroma will reach the innermost recesses of the air passages, killing millions of germs a minute. Their destruction means freedom for oppressed respiratory organs. T. Wallace sells Hyomei under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Price, $1.00.

VALUABLE INFORMATION.

Something Every Person in Napanee Should Know.

Nearly three hundred years have passed since the medicinal, curative elements known to exist in the cod's liver were first discovered and recognized by physician as a specific in the treatment of pulmonary and wasting diseases, and as a body builder and strength creator; but how to extract those medicinal elements from the oil in which they were enveloped, has been the study of some of the most expert chemists in the world.

Now, the process discovered by two eminent French chemists, Morgnus and Gautier, should interest every person in Napanee. By an extractive concentrating process they discovered a way to separate the tonic, body building and curative elements contained in fresh cods' livers from their useless oil. By this process Vinol is made.

Because Vinol contains no oil, but embodies all the medicinal value of cod liver oil, with tonic iron added, it is fast superseding old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions. As a body builder and strength creator for old people, weak women, delicate children, after sickness, and for all pulmonary troubles, nothing has ever been known to excel Vinol. We ask Napanee people to try Vinol on our offer to return their money if it does not give satisfaction. T. B. Wallace, Druggist, Napanee, Ont.

No comparison with last year as we are fully three weeks ahead.

Theodore, Sask., June 23.—Crops in this vicinity are reported further advanced this year than they have been for many years at this time. Wheat, oats and barley are all doing fine and even the very late sown is far higher than any at this time last year. This section has escaped from both frost and hail this year. The past week's rains have made every thing take an extra jump. Outlook brightest.

Shellbrook, Sask., June 22.—Crop conditions are first class all over this extensive district; there has been no injury by frost and the genial rains following the thunder storms have provided ample moisture. Temperature keeps high and weather is rushing crop rapidly ahead; everything four weeks earlier than last year, and not too much rain. Several fields of barley will head out in seven days. Average height of wheat and oats 15 to 18 inches high, but some choice fields have reached 24 inches, while a very fine field of wheat belonging to C. J. Helgason measures 30 inches.

A CHANCE AHEAD.

There is a great chance awaiting the young men of the Province of Canadian West, if they will only take advantage of the mistakes of the old timers, and have the foresight to look ahead and the courage to reach out. I consider this country is yet in its swaddling clothes. In the words of our popular Governor, Lord Dufferin, this country is the bulls-eye of the Dominion; the right hand of the empire, the grainery of the world. Just think of it. We had to wait twenty years before anything happened here; for it is only since 1895 that the real growth of the Canadian West began, and I think that within the next decade it will advance twice as much as it did in the last, thirty. Very few people in the East have any idea of the West. It is simply wonderful. Six years ago land that was a wilderness is now farmed as closely as the famous old portage plains, and yet there is more beyond, and more beyond that. I predict that in ten years' time, with the G. T. R. built a line through to the Hudsons Bay and the C. P. R. operating a transcontinental, that the railways will not be able by any means to handle the business ready for them.

Sincerely yours,
ALEX. HENRY.

WOLFE AND MONTCALM.

Wolfe and Montcalm! Montcalm and Wolfe!
Two heroes of a kindred soul
To whose proud people tribute pays;
In life divided bet by death united;
To-day in glory one.
The year we dedicate
The far-famed field of honor,
Where heroes fought and fell,
And of their mighty deeds remembrance set.

Not ours to triumph but to honor heroes
Who all fought noble, all were victors;
And none the vanquished;
Wolfe and Montcalm an equal glory share
With honor crowned to distant ages hence;
Their names shall echo with a just renown
Teaching Canadians of a common soil
That though distinctive they may yet be one
In loyalty to high ideals, of duty nobly done;
Of life unselfish and of death heroic.

Heirs of their valor and their glory gather
Their memory to honor.
Hushed all contention; healed all variance;
Peace broken where discord dwelt of yore.
Upon this sacred ground join hands as brothers;
High sound the paeans in their honor;
With fitting pageant celebrate.
While all the world their fame acclaims;
Erect the tablets to their worth
Their deeds in sculptured story trace;
While high over all, with folded wings,
The Angel of Peace shall stand
In benediction on our native land.
—John Boyd, in The Canadian Magazine.

PERISHED IN WATERS.

A Motor Boat Struck by Another Last Night.

Gananoque, June 26.—A sad motor boat fatality occurred near Clayton, about ten o'clock last evening. A small launch containing two young men and two young ladies named Wells, from Round Island, was struck by a large flyer, owned by George Morgan, Grindstone Island. The small craft was cut in two and the occupants were thrown into the water. One young man and other two ladies were rescued, in an exhausted condition, the other young man and lady perished. The accident occurred between Clayton and Round Island. A graphophone immediately left to try to find the bodies.

HELPFUL, ADVICE

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness — you are too modest. You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., the things you could not explain to the doctor. Your letter will be held in the strictest confidence. From her you can correspondence with sick women during the past thirty years she may have gained the very knowledge that will help your case. Such letters as the following, from grateful women, establish beyond a doubt the merits of to conquer all female diseases.

Mrs. Frank Emsley, Lindsay, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"When I wrote to you some time ago, I was a very sick woman suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the feminine organs and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do.

"A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman.

"I most heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer with female troubles."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

S. CASEY DENISON

When you realize that ninety-nine hair preparations out of a hundred, depend almost entirely upon Tincture of Cantharides for any good they may do, is it any wonder that people fail to get beneficial results from them.

Tincture of Cantharides is made by soaking foul smelling green bugs or flies—that have first been dried and powdered—in alcohol and filtering out the sediment. The practice of using Cantharides began centuries ago, when it was thought that a diseased scalp required an irritant. The utter uselessness of continuing to put these dead bugs into hair remedies, became apparent when the European Dermatologist, Dr. Unna (ask your Doctor about him) discovered that dandruff is caused by a germ or microbe; in reality an invisible vegetable growth, that can be passed from one head to another.

An authority says, "Any successful scalp treatment must be based on the recognition of the microbe theory," and further, "What on earth gave Cantharides its reputation in hair remedies, is more than I know. It is a tradition of a century and it is all nonsense. Cantharides cuts into the scarf skin and causes inflammation. It is made of dead bugs, and it furnishes exactly the element of decomposition that scalp microbes thrive upon."

Newbro's Herpicide, the ORIGINAL Remedy that "kills the dandruff germ," contains no Cantharides in any form whatsoever. It is made upon the known principle that dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, as well as dull, brittle and lusterless hair, are caused by a germ or microbe that finds lodgment in the sebaceous glands of the hair follicles in the scalp.

It should be understood that Newbro's Herpicide does not instantly destroy all of the thousands of colonies of microbes in a diseased scalp, as a live wire might be expected to destroy its victims. The microbic growth occurs just beneath the surface of the scalp, therefore, patience and reasonable intelligence are required, but under such conditions Newbro's Herpicide gives results that are often almost marvelous. Even in ordinary use it gives more actual and positive benefit than do all other hair remedies combined. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Dr. V. T. McGillycuddy, Medical Inspector Mutual Life. Ins. Co., N. Y., of Denver, Colo., writes as follows:

"Knowing the composition of Herpicide I can state that it contains nothing injurious. Its use will cure and prevent a recurrence of dandruff. It is an elegant and ideal hair dressing."

DURING THIS HOT WEATHER people who take pride in extreme cleanliness will find Sanitas a delightful disinfectant. It cools and refreshes and purifies, and at the same time is highly detergent and sanitary. It is indispensable to all who are particular about cleanliness or prickly heat. Newbro's Herpicide sustains to oil or grease. It will not stain or dye.

SUMMER COMPLAINTS KILL LITTLE ONES.

At the first signs of illness during the hot weather months give the little ones Baby's Own Tablets, or in a few hours the child may be beyond cure. These Tablets will prevent summer complaints if given occasionally to well children, and will promptly cure these troubles if they come unexpectedly. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine so effective and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that the Tablets are absolutely safe. Mrs. E. LeBrun, Caribou, Que., says:—"Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I know of for regulating the stomach and bowels. I think no mother should be without this medicine." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mr. William Morton, who has the contract of laying out $12209 of Government and municipal drains, has completed the new road running from Mr. George Reid's to Mr. Mark Manson's, and has begun work on the main road leading from Hyde's Corners to Ormsby. There will be laid out on roads this year in the Township of Limerick altogether $23000. Great preparations are being made for the Orange celebration on Saturday, 11th July. A dinner will be given by the Orangemen on the grounds of the Methodist church. Speeches will be delivered in the afternoon by several ministers and brethren of the Order. A large crowd is expected.—Rev. A. C. Hulbert visited Coe Hill last week and organized a local option campaign for the township of Wollaston. A strong committee was appointed to canvass the township and carry on the campaign, with Mr. G. Patterson as chairman. There is every indication that the electors of Wollaston will by their votes in January next, ask that the bar be banished from their midst. All local option campaigns have also started in Limerick, and on Wednesday night of this week definite organization took place in Cashel.—George Kelly, George Burkett and George Reid are canvassing residences this summer.—Mrs. Sidney Sargent was in Picton over Sunday.—Perry Clark and Schriver Clark have been attending High School at Campbellford, are spending their vacation at home.—George Trumbull, son of John Trumbull, is seriously ill with pneumonia.—Dr. Gardiner, of Eldorado is in attendance.—The Epworth League held a combined literary and social even ing on Friday last. Refreshments were served and a good programme was rendered, consisting of music, recitations and readings. An item of special interest was an address and presentation to Miss Margaret M. Potter, who has resigned her position as public school teacher, and who during the time she spent at St. Ola, was prominent in the work of the church. She was organist and all the church services, teacher of the young People's Bible class, and secretary Vice-President of the League.

THE FODDER QUESTION.

The question of hay and straw fodder for the coming winter can be sumed up short at last year's and prices are not in a nut shell now. Ontario will be ... better than they did last season, as there is no old stocks now, and last year there was considerable. Hay is now being cut, and in some places some is already in the barn, and the crop cannot increase much with any kind of weather. It takes a general rain to produce hay and straw in the growing crop soon, when we did not get in the proper season, and now, Sunday storms, it is only time to look for, and they fall everywhere they do come in small patches.

The Daily Globe of June 24th, quotes at the Farmers' market there, "The difficulty in receiving 114.00 per ton for hay, which a few short months ago was valued at 120.00 to $25.00, is an impressed farmers the past week, that dealers have actually fallen off, as a result prives this morning were firm. Do you suppose that farmers can't see such a thread of them at the time of the year better than that follow in the City of Toronto, and must depend on reports according to the number of loads coming in.

I have had an outing through Prince Edward, Hastings and Northumberland, and they are all fearfully short through the fall wheat, and correspondingly spring rains.—Prince Edward very much so, in fact I have not seen a crop about except Huron and Essex Counties, which fall wheat will have layered all through from early spring. The apple crop is short too; something has injured the trees and they will not be ... during. I think that it was the sleet storms last winter that did it.

C.P.R. TRAIN WRECKED.

FIVE COACHES ARE UPSET IN DITCH — SCORES OF PASSENGERS INJURED.

150 Passengers Escape From a Midnight Wreck on C.P.R. at Tottenham. Five Coaches Derailed and Toppled Over 15-Foot Embankment on Section of New Southern Road That Has Been in Operation Since 1906.— No One is Fatally Injured, Only Four go to Hospital.

Tottenham, June 28th.—(Special).—A most miraculous escape from what would appear at first to have been a terrible disaster occurred Saturday night about 11.30 o'clock, 1½ miles north of Tottenham.

The westbound Winnipeg train, leaving Toronto at 8.30, left the rails, and five coaches, including tourists and sleepers, were precipitated down an embankment of over 20 feet, turning completely upon down, one car going to the east side of the track and the other four to the west.

The engine, baggage car and the last of the train remained on the track.

Almost all the passengers, numbering about 300, had retired, which made the task of extricating many difficult.

It was half an hour before all had been taken from the wreck. Luckily, there was no fire in the coaches, or there would assuredly have been lives lost.

FORTY INJURED.

There are a number with broken limbs and bad scalp wounds numbering probably 15, of a serious nature, with a total of at least 40 injured.

The exact number of the number very much less than this, but it is not above the number.

Fifty of the passengers who were in the train were a part of an excursion party who had been to the Pacific Model Farm and were returning via Toronto. With a very few exceptions they were all in one car, and this coach had the greater number of victims.

A miraculous escape was that of a 6-year-old boy, who was being taken home by its mother, Mrs. Morris, wife of the city editor of The Brandon Sun. The little one was thrown from its father and could not be found by its mother for some 20 minutes. The wife fainted, but at last discovered by the infant's crying, and it was taken home the worse for the mix-up.

The passengers were conveyed by busses here, where they were cared for by local doctors and volunteer nurses. This morning an auxiliary from Toronto, with a special relief train, arrived here as well as two nurses and as many physicians, had all the badly hurt removed to this train, where every comfort and attention was given. At 11 o'clock this afternoon those passengers who had not been injured were on the train for the west. The train had arrived from Bala, and where they were transferred, with their baggage.

A train was also made up for Toronto and a number returned on this to the city.

Among those on the latter train who escaped unhurt was R. R. Gamey, M.L.A., of Manitoulin.

The officials of the C.P.R. were most kind to those of the wrecked train, and everything in their power was done for the comfort of the passengers.

CAUSE A MYSTERY.

What caused the accident is a mystery here. The rolling stock was in very first class shape, and the part of the road destroyed by the washout was only ordered the best part of the double track between Toronto and Hala. This roadbed has been in use since 1906, and the ties and rails were completely torn up for a distance of about 400 feet, but will be all in running order to-night.

A rumor that the track had spread and another that the roadbed had given way were afterwards proven to be not correct, and the train, while running fast, was not going the speed of other heavy trains that have been running over this part of the road. Trains have been passed through here at all hours and all day.

Old trainmen state that in their long experience they have never seen as bad a wreck with as little injuries to passengers.

DEPARTURE OF REV. MR. STRIKE REGRETTED BY MANY FRIENDS.

On Wednesday evening, the festival of St. John the Baptist, Craig Lodge, No. 401, A. F. & A. M., met in special session. Two candidates for initiation were given the first degree, after which the lodge adjourned to the refreshment room, having a pleasant and profitable hour was spent. R. W. Bro. Geddis, a charter member and a past master of Craig lodge, occupied the chair. During the course of the evening he kindly remarked that this would be the last occasion on which they would have Rev. Bro. Strike with them, as he was upon R. W. Bro. Whyte arose and read the following address to Bro. Strike, who is chaplain of the lodge:

Rev. and Dear Bro.—The brethren of Craig, No. 401, A. F. & A. M., assembled on this, the festival of St. John the Baptist, would take the opportunity of expressing to you their sincere regret that this will probably be the last meeting of this lodge at which we may receive your attendance, as you have resigned of the town of Deseronto. During your pastorate it has been our pleasure to enroll one or two members and to have given to the Craft in the ... an earnest and enthusiastic member. From the time you were initiated into Masonry you have been a tried and true brother, ever giving to this lodge your hearty support and to the brethren as an example of the practical teachings of the Craft, we cannot express too heartily our appreciation of the practical attendance at the meetings of the lodge and your high standing as an ... fed in the discharge of the duties of ... office, which you have so acceptably filled during the past three years. At the time has now arrived when, according to the rules of the church of which you are an esteemed and honored pastor, it is necessary for you to remove another charge, we are pleased to know that not only are you "transferred" but that you go supported by the "call" of the congregation, which gives us hope and assurance that there you will find that loyalty and support which will greatly assist you in your work. We are also glad to know that you will not be deprived of fraternal communication with brethren of the Craft, for a strong and vigorous lodge besides at the Masonic interest there. While we trust your com munication with there may be real enjoyment for you, we are selfish enough to express the hope that the warmest welcome may in your heart may ever be reserved for your mother lodge.

And now, dear brother, in bidding you good-by and assuring you of our sincere wishes for the happiness and success of your beloved partner in life, your children and yourself, we would ask your acceptance of this circlet, with the hope that the Masonic symbols thereon may serve you a reminder of your brethren of Craig Lodge whenever you look at it, and with you through your future. We shall not lose hope of seeing you with us on convenient seasons, and though our meetings may be unenjoyable to you now that you may all give such heed to the applica tions of the Craft work to our daily life that when we are summoned from this sublunary abode we may all meet in the Grand Lodge above, where dwells the world's great Architect lives and reigns forever and ever.

The address was signed on behalf of lodge by the committee to whom the matter was entrusted.

The presentation took the form of a solid gold ring with appropriate Masonic emblem engraved thereon.

Mr. Strike was taken completely by surprise, not an inkling of the intentions of the brethren having been allowed to reach his ears; he nevertheless he replied in a masterly manner, expressing his appreciation of the brotherly kindness which prompted the act.

Several of the brethren present made short remarks, and the ... and ... were sung in harmony shortly before midnight.

A surprise gathering of Epworth Leaguers took place on Friday evening last, Tuesday evening when the young people presented Mr. and Mrs. Strike with a handsomely framed picture of the church and parsonage, which brought up three hospital cars as well as two nurses and as many physicians, had all the badly hurt removed to this train, where every comfort and attention was given. At 11 o'clock this afternoon those passengers who had not been injured were on the train for the west. The train had arrived from Bala, and where they were transferred, with their baggage.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Strike,
Deseronto.

We, the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church, Deseronto, wish to express to you our appreciation of the valuable services you have rendered to our Society during the past four years, and sincerely regret that only but we have found you untiring in your efforts to help in all the various departments of our church work.

Many of us have often felt and remarked that we were doing too much, in so many different departments of church work, and that unconsciously you might injure your health.

We feel that so long a term of such valuable service ought not to pass without some expression in a tangible form, of our high appreciation in which your personal characters, your wisdom in counsel, your energy in action, and your unswerving fidelity to Methodism are held, not only by our Society, but by all the membership and congregation of our beloved church, and the people of our community at large, and in thankful remembrance of your abundant labors in behalf of the Master, we have to cheerfully and constantly devoted, we wish to present to you this purse of silver and glasses, and feel assured that when in future years are using them, you will remember that we are often asking God to bless you richly and abundantly and prosperity in winning souls for His kingdom, and that you may enjoy the greatest pleasures and blessings that can be received on earth.

We are devotedly grateful to God who has made your lives of so great a blessing in the past and earnestly pray that he may grant you yet, many years of active usefulness in His service, and when your labors are finished below as an abundant entrance into our Master's service above.

Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society and Officials of the Methodist church, Deseronto.

The Cameron Steel Ladder and Fire Escape

It is practical, it is made of Bessimer steel, it is permanent, it is inexpensive, it is always ready for use, it is indestructible, it costs less than any fire escape and is much handier. Ice and snow will not adhere to it. No rot, as in the case of wooden ladders. It should be on all churches, schools, hotels, private houses, barns and outbuildings.

This flexible steel ladder is made in two sizes of selected Bessimer steel; 2½ inches for dwellings, barns and outbuildings, and 7½ inches for fire escapes. When adjusted to the wall they are as firm as the wall itself. It has been commended, amongst many others, by the following

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Thos. Stinchcombe met with a very painful accident on Wednesday of last week. She was attending the Sunday School Convention at Louisville, Ky., and while there visited the famous Mammoth Cave. About half a mile in the cave she stepped on a rolling stone and fell, breaking her right ankle. Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gibbard were in the party and accompanied her home on Friday. We are pleased to say that Mrs. Stinchcombe is progressing very favorably under the care of Dr. Symington and Dr. Lovgard.

JUNE WEDDING.

A very pretty but quiet June wedding took place in St. Anthony's church, Centreville, at ten o'clock on Tuesday morning, June 23d, when Miss Rose Monica, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McDonald, Yarker, was married to Mr. Joseph McNulty, of Sarwood. Rev. Father McCarthy officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming gowned in white point de sprit over cream taffeta. She wore a tulle veil and orange blossoms, and carried a white prayer book. Miss Helen McDonald, who attended as bridesmaid, also looked very pretty in white point de sprit. Mr. Charles McNulty, brother of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. The house was tastefully decorated with ferns and daisies. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents. Mr. and Mrs. McNulty left on the afternoon train for their home in Toronto. The bride's going away gown was black broadcloth with a pretty little toque to match.

NURSES GET DIPLOMAS.

The following young ladies, who graduated as trained nurses from the general hospital, received diplomas on Tuesday night of the hands of the board of governors: S. E. Vanevan, Smith's Falls; L. B. Gibbard, Napanee; Ida B. Fosken, M. G. Grant and L. M. McConachie, Brockville.

WEEKLY REGATTA.

The weekly regatta of the Canoe Club held on Thursday, 25th June, was opened with the best evening sport yet. The spirited contesting of each race together with the numerous entries served to make it interesting, both to canoeist and spectators. The results were as follows:

Fours—1st, Chenoweth, Baker, Holmes, Jennett; 2d, Barker, Edelstein, Palmer, Cleland; 3d, Bells, Lowes, Steacy and Jennett.

Gunnell—1st, Baker; 2d, Chenoweth; 3d, Cartel.

Trios—1st, Chenoweth, Lowes, Holmes; 2d, Cartel, Steacy, Jennett; 3d, Anderson, Jennett, Baly.

The last even sport, but nevertheless crossed the line—all three and the name: 1st, Cartel; 2d, Baker; 3d, Anderson.

JUNE WEDDING

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Addison on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock when their second granddaughter, Edith Ella, was united in marriage to Mr. Matthew Taylor, formerly of Brampton. The bride was given away by her grandfather, and was attired in her travelling suit of navy taffeta with hat to match. The only attendant being her sister, Miss Berta Baker, who also wore a pretty little flower girl. The presents were numerous and costly, attesting to the high regards in which the bride was held by her many friends. The wedding march was played by Miss Bertha Addison. Something very unique and out of the usual run of latter day weddings was the christening of the bride's niece and nephew, which added a charming incident to the happy occasion. The Rev. J. H. Neal officiated at both ceremonies. After a dainty luncheon was served Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left on the 1.17 train for Toronto, Brampton and other places.

Slaughter Sale for 15 days, beginning Saturday, July 4th. See large posters. 20 to 50 per cent. off, at BICKNELL'S, Camden East. 27a

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

On Monday evening about 50 neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Richmond and presented them with an address and two chairs, as an expression of good will and the hope that continued prosperity on the eve of their departure from this neighborhood. Mr. and Mrs. Richmond are leaving to reside in Mountain Grove mission on the Napanee District of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and we are sure we voice the sentiment of the whole community when we say that we wish them a good neighbor and a faithful worker in the church. The address was read by Mr. Richard Armstrong, and suitable addresses were made by the Rev. Geo. McConnell, Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Chas. Anderson. Mr. Richmond made a very feeling reply on behalf of himself and Mrs. Richmond. After partaking of ice cream and cake, and singing, "God be with you till we meet again," an enjoyable gathering was brought to a close.

To Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Richmond—

Dear Neighbors—As you are about to remove from our midst, we cannot think of you severing your immediate connection with us without expressing to you in some small degree our appreciation of your many kind acts toward us all irrespective of creed or condition. During the twenty-six years of your stay among us you have ministered comfort and help to many of us in hours of bereavement and sorrow, as well as parting with us in the joys and pleasures of life. And now as we look back over these years many with whom you have associated have gone to their reward. Others have left, and are scattered far and wide. And now as you leave us we feel that again another link in the chain of friendship which has so singularly characterized this community is about to be severed. We have gathered here to-night to present you with those two chairs, not because of their intrinsic values, but merely as a means of expressing our good wishes for you, and believing that they will ever be reminders to you of the many friends of this community with whom you have been so long associated, and of the earnest desire that you may continue to enjoy life and prove a blessing to all you may become connected with, and as a last wish, that in the great harvest of the world's redeemed, you may have the joy of seeing many there, who have been won for the Master through your labor and sacrifice. There surely somewhere is a lowly place in earth's harvest fields so wide Where I may labor thro' life's short day for Jesus the Crucified.

So trusting my all to His tender care, and knowing the lowest mi

I'll do Thy will with a heart sincere.

I'll do what you want me to be.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends,

MRS. C. ANDERSON,
MRS. N. CORBURN.

CLOYNE.

The heavy rain on Tuesday has made everything grow again.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the R. C. church at Flinton, on Monday, when Miss Bridget, oldest daughter of Michael Welsh, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Patrick Flanigan, of Erinsville. The bride was very becomingly attired in grey lustre and was assisted by her sister, Miss Maggie. The happy couple left on Tuesday for Erinsville, where they will reside in the future.—Mr. J. Wise took in the celebration at Tweed last week.—Miss Lucy Weese, of Bon Echo, is spending a few days in town.—Mrs. Clifford spent a few days at Thos. Storey's.—Mrs. Robert Reid and family left on Monday for Dodial, Man., where she will join her husband.—Mr. Leo Mallen left last week for his home at Kingston. He will be much missed around here by his many friends.—Miss Stella Cuddy spent Sunday at her home.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Hartley left on Tuesday for their home at Sault Ste. Marie.—Miss E. John, of Napanee, passed through here on Saturday for her home at Denbigh.—Mr. Arthur Crate left last week for Denbigh. Rumor of a wedding soon.

BASEBALL.

BELLEVILLE TEAM WHITEWASHED.

It Was 100 Per Cent. Easier Than Taking Candy From a Baby.

Napanee applied an excellent coat of whitewash to the Belleville baseball team at the Driving Park on Wednesday afternoon, and rubbed it in well by scoring seven runs during the performance.

A large crowd were in attendance, the ladies being very much in evidence, and were free with their cheering remarks to the locals. The good old game is revived in Napanee and the work of the team well merits the attendance, and every one gets their money's worth.

Smith (2d) cousin of Lord Strathcona, and the latter gentleman would have been ashamed of his 23d (?) cousin had he witnessed his exhibition here on Wednesday) was unable to put 'em over the plate for Belleville and his offerings were toyed with in the first innings for a total of seven hits and six runs. Smith also helped out with three errors. He has a splendid arm but a poor head for judgement. Gerow, the first sacker, is a good ball player, works hard and plays the game all the time. Brown, in right field, is another ball player of renown, and gathered in a couple of nice flys.

Wood pitched his usual brilliant game, only being hit safely four times, and he was given gilt-edged support by the locals, not an error being registered against them. Warner, Allison and Dafoe each caught a man out in the field, and one each of the trios catches were very difficult to handle, especially the one Warner picked off a horse in the crowd.

Rose caught an excellent game as usual, and made four hits out of four times up, one of them being a clean drive for two bases.

Shorts, Shultz, McNeill and Trimble fielded their positions like veterans and the absence of errors speaks well for their work.

Deery was shaken up in a third by falling heavily, and was replaced by Dafoe.

James Pringle umpired the game satisfactorily to all.

COLEBROOK.

A social event of much interest occurred at the home of Mrs. Zeb. Brown, on Saturday, July 3rd, when twelve grandmothers, all intimate friends of Mrs. Brown, came together with her on the anniversary of her seventy-fourth birthday. Mrs. Brown was taken completely by surprise, but proved to be an excellent hostess. After pleasant greetings and congratulations, the happy company were invited to the dining room, where a sumptuous supper awaited them. The tea was served by Miss L. Riddell and Miss Ida Eckardt. In the centre of the table was a beautiful birthday cake ornamented and illuminated by seventy candles, each candle representing a guest. The grandmothers present were Mrs. Hall, Lucas, Lloyd, Hagaway, Mrs. C. Garrison, Mrs. J. C. Sutter, Mrs. John Beaver, Mrs. Odlin Riddell, Mrs. Peter Hart, Mrs. Eliza Lee, Mrs. Wm. Wagar, Mrs. Geo. Junkley, Mrs. T. Gray and Mrs. C. Brown. The guests then entertained themselves talking over olden times, after which they were invited to the lawn, where they were served with ice cream and cake by Misses Ella and Miss Martha Smith. After thanking Mrs. Brown for the pleasant way they had been remembered, entertained, and wishing her many happy birthdays, the guests departed and will long remember that pleasant afternoon.—Our new pastor, the Rev. Mr. Hartshorne, occupied the pulpit in the C. M. church on Sunday. Every one was well pleased with his introductory sermon.—Mr. and Mrs. J. HYMENEAL.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Roberts, Port Arthur, was the scene of a pretty wedding on June 23rd, at 10.30 o'clock, when Miss Effie Yorke was united in marriage to Mr. Roy Hoskin, C. P. R. conductor at Schreiber. The bride wore a becoming travelling suit of navy blue panama cloth, the jacket opening over a chic bodice of ecru silk and all over lace. A large white picture hat with white plumes was worn and the bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss May Hogg, of Schreiber, attended the bride, and Mr. W. Hoskin attended the groom. Rev. J. C. Walker officiated. The groom's gift to the bride was a very handsome pearl and green stone brooch, to the bridesmaid a gold necklace and locket, and to the best man a tie pin with the Masonic emblem in pearls. After the ceremony the wedding party sat down to a beautifully decorated table centred by a handsome bride's cake surrounded by white carnations and white roses. The many gifts included a fine cabinet of silver and a handsome reception, table from the bride's father, Mr. Henry Yorke. Mr. and Mrs. Hoskin left for a three months' honeymoon in the eastern cities, including Toronto, London and Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Hoskin will make their future home in Schreiber.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

July 5th, 1908.

Mr. Editor,—Now that I have a few moments to breathe easy since the fire, I wish to say a few words in commendation of the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

On Tuesday afternoon, the 21st day of April last, one of my houses burned. The claim was adjusted prompt ly, and on the 1st day of May, just twelve days after the fire, I received the Company's cheque for the full amount of my insurance. This is the most prompt payment of which I have any knowledge. The Company might easily have taken the three months allowed them, but they said they had the cash and I had the loss, a just claim, hence the willingness to promptly pay.

The directors are not strangers, from distant cities or districts, but men of this county, whom we all know, and in whom we have confidence; men whose interests are in these counties, and any policy holder can meet them at the head office in Napanee on the first Saturday of each month. For promptness, a square deal and security to the policy holder this Company has no superiors and few equals.

I am in a position to know of the financial standing of the Company, as I have audited their books for a number of years, and every year increases their assets and enlarges their cash balance in the bank. Those wishing to insure will find the agents of the Company obliging, gentlemen. Yours, etc., W. H. Graves and Mr. Manly Jones, of Napanee.

Hoping I have not trespassed too much on your valuable space, I will close.

C. W. NEVILLE.

The Best Flour, Dafoe's Nonesuch, Dafoe's Manitoba Patent

By numerous tests by the best bakers the above mentioned brands have been proven to be the best flours in the market.

When buying flour, call at Dafoe's, and patronize your home mill, thereby producing dead and live cash for you on Pruyn's cheaper than the product of the Western mills. Flour has to be transported three times or more, at great expense, and usually is not as fresh when it reaches the consumer as flour made in the towns of Napanee, Belleville or Picton.

L.O.L. No. 201, Strathcona, have chartered the steamer Brockville (instead of the Belleville), for their excursion to Picton on Monday. A grand celebration will be participated in at the above place on Monday by all the lodges of the surrounding district. The boat leaves Napanee at 7 a.m. Return fare, 50c. Ample accommodation for all on the new steamer.

THE DOLPHIN.

Mr. M. B. Mills and his new yacht "Dolphin" returned home on Saturday, after having made the trip to Kingston, Clayton, among the Islands, up to the Gaps, out to the Ducks and over to Diamond Bay and down to Clayton. On his return he will fit out for the great trip from Hamilton to Collingwood Bay, and as all the berths are not yet taken for this the best cruise of the season, applications should be made by the 1st of August, as only a limited party can be taken.

Dominion Day at Tamworth.

From far and near the crowds poured in on the morning of Canada's holiday. The trains brought their quota and landed passengers within a few yards of entrance to the park, and numbers of every size came in long procession. Nearly three hundred dollars worth of tickets had been sold for admission to the grounds, Miss Nellie Black winning a gold watch for selling the largest number, and Miss Maggie Stinson a toilet set as second prize. The Enterprise Brass Band enlivened the day by music, the booths pushing business, and the girls and boys ran their races and were awarded prizes. Everybody seemed to be out for a good time. Later on a closure had been prepared for tables, provision tent and engine, and shortly after 10.30 the gate was opened and 160 sat down to a sumptuous dinner, and for two hours and a half the women, assisted by some of the men, attended to the appetites of the people. The Sports Committee programme was then proceeded with and resulted as follows: Men's race, 200 yards, 1st prize, Vincent Harrison; 2d, B. Sparks; standing hop step and jump, 1st James Waters. 2d, Vincent Harrison; running long jump, 1st Chas. Wells, 2d Jas. Waters. 3-legged race, 1st Kehoe and Pringle, 2d, Sparks and Armstrong; putting shot, 1st Dr. Burrows, 2d, Vincent Harrison.

The baseball matches aroused the enthusiasm of the crowds, and the best were well played. In the first Tamworth vs. Marlbank, the players were, Tamworth—Waters p., Wells c., Armstrong 1f., Rose c.f., Paul r.f., McAfee 1.f., Hall s.s., Vanscoyoc 2nd b., Sinale 3d b. Marlbank—Parry p. and 2d b., Wilson 2d b. and p., Burrows 1st b., Young c. and c.f., Coughlin 3b., Cosgrave 1f., Lytch s.s., Latest c., Dunyon c. and 2d b., W. D. M. Shorey, Umpire. The game resulted in a victory for Tamworth by 15 runs to 4.

Second match, Erinsville vs. Tamworth, was then called with Billerin and Wells batters for Tamworth; Palmateer and York for Erinsville, and the players were, Tamworth—Brenale, Burns, Chapin, Simmons, Wells, Fuller, Harrison, Kilborn, Richard Sparks, Grinsell, York. Erinsville—Evans, Quinn, P. Burns, Palmateer, Garrett, W. Burns. The game was 4 to 3 in favor of Erinsville.

From four o'clock supper was served and the crowd began to disperse, large numbers remaining for the concert up town at night, when a popular programme was given to a packed house. The receipts of the day were over $600, with a balance of about $400 for the Methodist church, under whose auspices the picnic and concert were held. Arrangements are already being made for next year's Dominion Day.

AQUATICS.

The weekly regatta of the Napanee Canoe Club held on Thursday, 2d inst., consisted of four events, fours and the tilting tournament, proved interesting and amusing. Though it is regretted the latter, in starting, yet endeavors will be put forth to have the sports started on the scheduled time. Owing to the pools coming off the tilting poles the finals were left until Friday's regatta. Messrs. Carrol, Edelstein, Bonter, Dafoe, Anderson and Chenoweth being left for the final duchess. The Fours resulted as follows:

1st, Carrol, Edelstein, Robinson McNeill.
2d, Loynes, Dafoe, Steacy and Bell.
3d, Barker, Jemmett, Anderson, Cleland.
Judges—Dr. Leonard and H. A Daly.

JABS.

It would have been base ingratitude to have denied the various competitors a visit to the wonders of the deep. We understand one sympathetic soul in Kind consideration sent one to divers regions regardless of his nice new cream white ducks.

It seems contrary to the disposition of all tilters, after receiving a good jab with the lance and pole, "to turn the other cheek".

One of the contestants emerging from the depths after being submerged himself as "being dry". We hope he is temperate.

Many expressions of appreciation are heard in regard to the pictures. The subjects on the river certainly of lubricating oil, thanks to the Gas Company. It is unnecessary to say that it leaves a lasting impression whether desired or otherwise. It was like a gladiorial combat to witness the grim determination of the weak contestants urged on by the cheers of "Get it low", "Get it high", "Swat him over", "Go at him", etc.

Women and Girls Held by Anaemia

Unless the Blood is Made Rich and Red Health Cannot be Restored.

Throughout Canada there are thousands of growing girls and women held in the deadly clutches of anaemia. Slowly but surely a deathly pallor settles on their cheeks; their eyes grow dull; their appetite fickle; their step languid. Daily they are being robbed of all vitality and brightness. Their sufferings grow more acute if neglected, until the signs of early consumption become apparent. If your wife or daughter or sister complains of weakness, pains in the side, headaches or backaches—if her appetite and temper are uncertain and she is often low spirited anaemia has her in its deadly hold. What she needs is new, rich, red blood. Give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People without loss of time, for they actually make new, red blood. They make girls and women well and happy, impart an appetite and steadily bring back the charm and brightness of perfect, regular health.

Miss Carrie McGrath, 26 Fenwick St., Halifax, N. S., says:—"I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life. Three years ago I suffered from anaemia in a severe form. I was all run down and as pale as a sheet. I could scarcely eat anything, and what I did take did not seem to nourish me. My hands and feet were numb and cold and the least exertion would leave me breathless and my heart beating violently. I seemed to have pains and aches all over. I was so weak I could not even sweep a floor. At different times I was under the care of three doctors, but did not get any better. One doctor said I had dropsy and that my blood had all turned to water. My friends thought I was in a decline and that I had but a short time to live. I was completely discouraged myself, when one day a lady friend called to see me, and told me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured her daughter of anaemia and urged me to try them. I decided to try them, and in the course of a few weeks felt somewhat better. I met the doctor one day and he remarked how much better I was looking. I told him it was not his medicine but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that were helping me, and he told me I had better keep on taking them. I continued to do so until I had taken another half dozen boxes, when my health was perfectly restored. I am more than grateful that these pills have done for me and strongly recommend them to all weak girls."

Thousands of men and women now well and strong, praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for their cure of anaemia, general weakness, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous disorders, paralysis and all the diseases of the blood and womanhood. These Pills are the only medicine of their kind which feeds the starved nerves, builds up and strengthens every organ of the body. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

QUEBEC TERCENTENARY.

The Grand Trunk Railway System have issued a neat and attractive booklet in connection with the Tercentenary celebration to be held at Quebec this month. The booklet gives concise information regarding the object of the celebration, and gives the complete official programme that will be carried out, order of the historical procession, particulars of the scenes of the historic pageants, information regarding accommodation and particulars of how to reach Quebec. The publication is profusely illustrated with views of the modern city together with historical and land marks. A copy can be had from any principal agents of Grand Trunk.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.

Harry Yorke, son of our late townsman, Mr. Wm. York, was drowned at Smith's Falls on Sunday by the capsizing of a canoe. With two companions the unfortunate young man started out for a paddle on the river about noon. A large canoe was coming behind them when one of the three young men got to call to some one on the launch, and in doing so the frail craft upset. Harry was a fine, manly young fellow and was the chief support of a widowed mother. His father, the late Wm. York, will be remembered by a large number of Napaneean, he having at one time been a printer in The Beaver office. The mother has the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in Napanee.

REPLY TO MR. DELMAGE'S CRITICISMS, RE WORK PERFORMED ON THE COUNTY ROAD NORTH OF CAMDEN EAST.

To the Editor of The Beaver —

Dear Sir,—My attention having been drawn to a letter in the issue of The Beaver of July 3d, by Mr. Delmage, in which he charges incompetence on the part of the Road Superintendent, and a waste of the people's money, I beg leave for space in your paper for a reply, and shall endeavor to be as briefly as possible and read during it—consistent with giving an intelligent information. I am not the one who had charge of the work on the road referred to, I wish to state right here that I assume the whole responsibility of it, and to save space I will ask my readers to refer to The Beaver of the 12th of June for a description of the work, which with the exception of a few minor exaggerations is correct, one of which is his reference to the crown given the road and which should be properly described as the arch of an ellipse and not the acute lines of a pyramid.

Now I wish to draw the readers attention to By-law No. 229, passed by the County Council on April 6th, 1907, clause 9, which states as follows "All road construction shall be performed as nearly as possible in accordance with the standard laid down by the Highway Branch of the Public Works Department. Now as Mr. Delmage approves of the broken stone which was placed thereon, but objects to the manner in which the grader was used, I wish to refer him to the twelfth annual report of A. W. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Public Works, dated Feby. 1st, 1908, page 33, which contains the report of the Inspector of Highways, a clause of which reads as follows:—"The County Road System of Lennox and Addington includes several old stone roads which have previously been heavily macadamized, but which have become very flat with high square shoulders. The removal of these shoulders is a matter of first necessity, and will improve the roads greatly and lessen the wear greatly." Another clause in his report in reference to machinery used is as follows: "One grader only has been used by the County," but a second one is urgently required." Now in reference to the grading done on this piece of work, I must again refer him to page 28, clause 8 of the report, which reads as follows: "Where roads have heretofore had gravel or broken stone placed on them, they should be reconstructed or repaired by cutting off the shoulders with a grader and adding a sufficient amount of gravel or broken stone to fill ruts and depressions and then crowning with a grader. It must again refer him to page 28, clause 8 of the report, which reads as follows: "Where roads have heretofore had gravel or broken stone placed on them, they should be reconstructed or repaired by cutting off the shoulders with a grader and adding a sufficient amount of gravel or broken stone to fill ruts and depressions and then crowning with a grader." Now in order to make a road sufficiently strong to accommodate the travel. The sod and soft material should be thrown outward, never drawn to the centre. Also see page 90, clause 96, "Roads must be crowned or rounded with the highest point at the centre to turn the water to the side drains. Twenty-five feet of roads is that they are too narrow. Narrow roads cannot be sharply crowned will remain in good

"You hadn't asked me to marry you then," she laughed mockingly. Then, edging away toward the door, she waved her hand at him playfully and said teasingly: "Good by, Mr. Bagley, I am going upstairs to Mrs. Ryder. I will await my father's return in her room. I think I shall be safer."

He ran forward to intercept her, but she was too quick for him. The door slammed in his face, and she was gone.

Meantime Jefferson had proceeded upstairs, passing through long and luxuriously carpeted corridors with paneled frescoed walls and hung with tinted old tapestries and splendid paintings, until he came to his mother's room. He knocked.

"Come in!" called out the familiar voice.

He entered. Mrs. Ryder was busy at her escritoire looking over a mass of household accounts.

"Hello, mother! How's father?" he cried, running up and hugging her in his boyish, affectionate way. Jefferson had always been devoted to his mother, and, while he deplored her weakness in permitting herself to be so completely under the domination of his father, she had always found him a considerate and loving son.

Mrs. Ryder sighed while she looked her son over proudly. In her heart she was glad Jefferson had turned out as he had. Her boy certainly would never be a financier to be attacked in magazines and books. Answering his question, she said:

"Your father is as well as those busybodies in the newspapers will let him be. He's considerably worried just now over that new book, 'The American Commonwealth.' How dare they make him out such a monster? He's no worse than other successful men. He's richer, that's all, and it makes them jealous. He's out driving now with Senator Roberts. Kate is somewhere in the house—in the library, I think."

"Yes, I found her there," replied Jefferson dryly. "She was with that cad, Bagley. When is father going to find that fellow out?"

"Jefferson, dear," protested his mother, "how can you talk like that of Mr. Bagley? He is such a perfect gentleman. His family connections alone should entitle him to respect. He is certainly the best secretary your father ever had. I'm sure I don't know what we should do without him. He knows everything that a gentleman should."

"And a good deal more, I wager," growled Jefferson. "He wasn't grown of the aristocrats in England's queen for nothing." Then changing the topic, he said suddenly: "Talking about Kate, mother, we have got to reach some definite understanding. This talk about my marrying her must stop. I intend to take the matter up with father today."

"Oh, of course, more trouble!" replied his mother in a resigned tone. She was so accustomed to having her wishes thwarted that she was never surprised at anything. "We heard of your goings on in Paris. That Miss Rossmore was there, was she not?" ✦

"That is not nothing to do with it," replied Jefferson warmly. He resented Shirley's name being dragged into the discussion. Then more calmly he went on: "Now, mother, be reasonable. Listen. I purpose to live my own life. I have already shown my father that I will not be dictated to and that I can earn my own living. He has no right to force this marriage on me. There has never been any misunderstanding on Kate's part. She and I understand each other thoroughly."

"Well, Jefferson, you may be right from your point of view," replied his mother wearily. She invariably ended by agreeing with the last one who argued with her. "You are of age, of course. Your parents have only a moral right over you. Only remember this: It would be foolish of you to do anything to interfere with your father's interests are your interests. Don't do anything to jeopardize them. Of course you can't be forced to marry Kate if you don't care for, but your father will be bitterly disappointed. He had set his heart on this match. He knows all about your infatuation for Miss Rossmore, and it has made him furious. I suppose you've heard about her father?"

"Yes, and it's a dastardly outrage," blurted out Jefferson. "It's a conspiracy against one of the most honorable men that ever lived, and I mean to ferret out and expose the authors. I ran here today to ask father to help me."

"You came to ask your father to help you?" echoed his mother incredulously.

"Why not?" demanded Jefferson. "Is it true, then, that he is selfishness incarnate? Won't he do that much to help a friend?" ✦

"You've come to the wrong house, Jeff. You ought to know that. Your father is far from being Judge Rossmore's friend. Surely you have sense enough to realize that there are two reasons why he would not raise a finger to help him. One is that he has always been his opponent in public life, and the other is that you want to marry his daughter."

"Yes, I see now, mother. You are right." Then he added bitterly: "That has always been the trouble at home. No matter where I turn, I am up against a stone wall—the money interests. You never bears a glimmer of fellow feeling, never a word of human sympathy, only cold calculation, heartless reasoning, money, money, money! Oh, I am sick of it! I don't want any of it. I am going away where I'll hear no more of it."

His mother laid her hand gently on his shoulder.

"Don't talk that way, Jefferson. Your father is not a bad man at heart. You know that. His life has been devoted to money making, and he has made a greater fortune than any man living or dead. He is only what his life has made him. He has a good heart, and he loves you, his only son. But his business enemies—ah, those he never forgives!"

Jefferson was about to reply when suddenly a door in the electric bells sounded all over the house.

"What's that?" exclaimed Jefferson, alarmed and starting toward the door.

"Oh, that's nothing," smiled his mother. "We have had that put in since you went away. Your father must have just come in. Those bells announce the fact. It was done so that if there happened to be any strangers in the house they could be kept out of the way until he reached the library safely."

"Oh," laughed Jefferson, "he's afraid some one will kidnap him? Certainly he would if he were left alone. I'll take care for the job myself, though. They'd be catching a tartar."

His speech was interrupted by a timid knock at the door.

"May I come in to say goodby?" asked a voice which they recognized as Kate's. She had successfully escaped from Mr. Bagley's importunities and was now getting home with the senator. She smiled amiably at Jefferson, and they chatted pleasantly of his trip abroad. He was sincerely sorry for this girl whom they were trying to foist on him. Not that he thought she really cared for him—he was well aware that hers was a nature that made it impossible to feel very deeply on any subject—but the idea of this ready-made marriage was so foreign, so revolting to the American mind! He thought it would be a kindness to warn her against Bagley.

"Don't be foolish, Kate," he said. "I was not joking just now in the library. That man is no good."

As is usual when one's motives are suspected, the girl resented his interference. She knew he hated Mr. Bagley, and she thought it mean of him to try and get even in this way. She stiffened up and replied coldly:

"I think I am able to look after myself, Jefferson. Thanks, all the same."

He shrugged his shoulders and made no reply. She said goodby to Mrs. Ryder, who was again immersed in her tradespeople bills, and left the room, followed by Jefferson, who accompanied her downstairs and on to the street, where Senator Roberts was waiting for her in the open victoria. The senator greeted with unusual cordiality the young man whom he still hoped to call his son-in-law.

"Come and see us, Jefferson," he said. "Come to dinner any evening. We are always at home, and Kate and I will be glad to see you."

"Jefferson has so little time now, father. His business—and—his friends keep him pretty busy."

Jefferson had noted both the pause and the sarcasm, but he said nothing. He smiled, and the senator raised his hat. As the carriage drove off the young man noticed that Kate glanced at one of the upper windows where Mr. Bagley stood behind a curtain watching. Jefferson returned to the house. The psychological moment had arrived. He must go now and confront his father in the library.

CHAPTER IX.

THE library was the most important room in the Ryder mansion, for it was there that the most important business deals, and its busiest hours were those which most men devote to rest. Old John Bartlett Ryder never rested. There could be no rest for any man who had a thousand millions of dollars to take care of.

Here the money Moloch held court like any king, with as much ceremony and more secrecy, and having for his courtiers some of the most prominent men in the political and industrial life of the nation. Current senators, visiting congressmen, ambitious railroad presidents, insolent coal barons who impudently claimed to have bulldozed the coal lands in trust for the Almighty, cautious princes of finance and commerce, all visited the library to receive orders or jog from the head of the "system." Here were made and unmade governors of states, mayors of cities, judges, heads of police, cabinet ministers, even presidents. Here were turned over to confidential agents millions of dollars to overturn the people's vote in the national elections. Here were distributed yearly hundreds of thousands of dollars to grafters, large and small, who had earned it in the service of the "interests."

Here secretly and unlawfully the heads of railroads met to agree on rates which by discriminating against one locality in favor of another crushed out competition, raised the cost to the consumer and put millions in the pockets of the trust. Here were planned tricky financial operations with sufficient cost to mislead and deceive the investing public, operations which would send stocks soaring one day, only a week later to pet Wall street on the verge of panic. Half a dozen suicides might result from the coup, but twice as many millions of profits had gone into the coffers of the "system." Here, too, was perpetrated the most heinous crime that can be committed against a free people—the conspiring of the trusts, abetted by the railroads, to arbitrarily raise the prices of the necessaries of life—meat, coal, oil, ice, gas—wholly without other justification than that of greed, which with these men was the unconquerable, all absorbing passion. In short, everything that unscrupulous leaders of organized capital could devise to squeeze the life blood out of the patient, defenseless toiler was done within these four walls.

When Jefferson entered, his father was seated at his desk, a long black cigar between his lips, giving instructions to Mr. Bagley. Mr. Ryder looked up quickly as the door opened, and the secretary made a movement forward as if to eject the intruder, so much was he plunged right in.

"Father, I am devoted to my work. I even intend to go away and travel a few years and see the world. It will help me considerably."

Ryder senior eyed his son in silence for a few moments; then he said gruffly:

"Don't be obstinate, Jeff. Listen to me. I know the world better than you do. You mustn't go away. You are the only flesh and blood I have. You see that I want you with me, and now you take advantage—you take advantage"—

"No, father, I don't," protested Jefferson, "but I want to go away. Although I have my studio and am practically independent, I want to go where I shall be perfectly free—where my every move will not be watched—where I can meet my fellow man heart to heart on an equal basis, where I shall not be forced to feed on the soul of Cassidy Money Ryder. I want to make a reputation of my own as an artist."

"Why not study for theology and become a preacher?" sneered Ryder. Then more amiably he said: "No use talking, Jeff. You stay here. Study and study the interests that will be yours some day."

Then appealed to, Jefferson thought he was the most favorable opportunity he would have to redeem his promise to Shirley. So, little anticipating the storm he was about to unchain, he answered:

"I am familiar with the charges that they have trumped up against him. Needless to say, I consider him entirely innocent. What's more, I firmly believe he is the victim of a contemptible conspiracy. And I'm going to make it my business to find out who the plotters are. I came to ask you to help me. Will you?"

"I will see him hunged first!" He has always opposed me. He has always defied my power, and now his daughter has entrapped my son. So it's her you want to go to, eh? Well, I can't make you marry a girl you don't want, but I can prevent you throwing yourself away on the daughter of a man who is about to be publicly disgraced, and I will."

"Poor old Rossmore!" said Jefferson bitterly. "If the history of every financial transaction were made public, how many of us would escape public disgrace? Would you?" he cried.

Ryder senior rose, his hands working dangerously. He made a movement as if about to advance on his son, but by supreme effort he controlled himself.

"No, upon my word, it's no use disinheriting you. You wouldn't care. I think you'd be glad—on my soul, I do!" Then, calming down once more, he added: "Jefferson, give me your word of honor that your object in going away is not to find out this girl and marry her unknown to me. I don't mind her losing your heart, but don't lose your head. Give me your hand on it."

Jefferson reluctantly held out his hand.

"If I thought that you would marry that girl unknown to me I'd have boycotted you and your family in the country, and the woman too. Listen, boy. This man is my enemy, and I show no mercy to my enemies. There are more reasons than one why you cannot marry Miss Rossmore. If she knew one of them she would not marry you."

"What reasons?" demanded Jefferson.

"The principal one," said Ryder slowly and deliberately, and eying his son keenly after the effect of his words, "the principal one is that it was brought up against me that the demand was made for her father's impeachment."

"Good!" cried Jefferson, "then I guessed aright!"

"Mary Kate or not, as you please, but I forbid your going there," the elder man said after a pause.

"It's no use. My mind is made up," answered Jefferson decisively.

The telephone rang, and Jefferson got up to go. Mr. Ryder took up the receiver.

"Hello! What's that? Sergeant Ellison? Yes, send him up."

Putting the telephone down, Ryder senior rose and, crossing the room, accompanied his son to the door.

"I'll think it well over, Jeff. Don't be hasty."

A few minutes later Jefferson left the house.

"Well, Jefferson, did you have a good time abroad?"

understand one thing—I want no preaching, no philosophical or socialistic twaddle, no Tolstoi; he's a great thinker, and you're not; no Bernard Shaw; he's funny, and you're not. Now go ahead."

The beginning was not very encouraging, and Jefferson felt somewhat intimidated, but he realized that he might not have another such opportunity, so he plunged right in.

"Father, I am devoted to my work. I even intend to go away and travel a few years and see the world. It will help me considerably."

Ryder senior eyed his son in silence for a few moments; then he said gruffly:

"Don't be obstinate, Jeff. Listen to me. I know the world better than you do. You mustn't go away. You are the only flesh and blood I have. You see that I want you with me, and now you take advantage—you take advantage"—

"No, father, I don't," protested Jefferson, "but I want to go away. Although I have my studio and am practically independent, I want to go where I shall be perfectly free—where my every move will not be watched—where I can meet my fellow man heart to heart on an equal basis, where I shall not be forced to feed on the soul of Cassidy Money Ryder. I want to make a reputation of my own as an artist."

"Why not study for theology and become a preacher?" sneered Ryder. Then more amiably he said: "No use talking, Jeff. You stay here. Study and study the interests that will be yours some day."

Then appealed to, Jefferson thought he was the most favorable opportunity he would have to redeem his promise to Shirley. So, little anticipating the storm he was about to unchain, he answered:

"I am familiar with the charges that they have trumped up against him. Needless to say, I consider him entirely innocent. What's more, I firmly believe he is the victim of a contemptible conspiracy. And I'm going to make it my business to find out who the plotters are. I came to ask you to help me. Will you?"

"I will see him hunged first! He has always opposed me. He has always defied my power, and now his daughter has entrapped my son. So it's her you want to go to, eh? Well, I can't make you marry a girl you don't want, but I can prevent you throwing yourself away on the daughter of a man who is about to be publicly disgraced, and I will."

"Poor old Rossmore!" said Jefferson bitterly. "If the history of every financial transaction were made public, how many of us would escape public disgrace? Would you?" he cried.

Ryder senior rose, his hands working dangerously. He made a movement as if about to advance on his son, but by supreme effort he controlled himself.

"No, upon my word, it's no use disinheriting you. You wouldn't care. I think you'd be glad—on my soul, I do!" Then, calming down once more, he added: "Jefferson, give me your word of honor that your object in going away is not to find out this girl and marry her unknown to me. I don't mind her losing your heart, but don't lose your head. Give me your hand on it."

Jefferson reluctantly held out his hand.

"If I thought that you would marry that girl unknown to me I'd have boycotted you and your family in the country, and the woman too. Listen, boy. This man is my enemy, and I show no mercy to my enemies. There are more reasons than one why you cannot marry Miss Rossmore. If she knew one of them she would not marry you."

"What reasons?" demanded Jefferson.

"The principal one," said Ryder slowly and deliberately, and eying his son keenly after the effect of his words, "the principal one is that it was brought up against me that the demand was made for her father's impeachment."

"Good!" cried Jefferson, "then I guessed aright!"

"Mary Kate or not, as you please, but I forbid your going there," the elder man said after a pause.

"It's no use. My mind is made up," answered Jefferson decisively.

The telephone rang, and Jefferson got up to go. Mr. Ryder took up the receiver.

"Hello! What's that? Sergeant Ellison? Yes, send him up."

Putting the telephone down, Ryder senior rose and, crossing the room, accompanied his son to the door.

"I'll think it well over, Jeff. Don't be hasty."

A few minutes later Jefferson left the house.

Head Office, Toronto. Gen. Mgr., W. R. TRAVERS.

Interest paid 4 times a year on one dollar and upwards, and calculated from date of deposit

Farmers' Notes discounted. Farmers' Sales Notes collected. BANKING BY MAIL.

J. A. HAYDON, Manager Corden Last Block.

"Because," replied Jefferson, "you exert that power over your family as well as over your business associates who think and will for everybody in the house, for everyone who comes in contact with you. Yours is an influence no one seems able to resist. You robbed me of my right to think. But since I was old enough to think you have thought for me; ever since I was old enough to chose you have chosen for me. You have chosen that I should marry Kate Roberts. That is the one thing I wished to speak to you about that marriage is impossible."

Ryder senior half sprang from his seat.

"So," he said sternly, "this is your latest act of rebellion, is it? You are going to wash on your head? You are going to jilt the girl?"

"I never gave my word," answered Jefferson hotly. "Nor did Kate under stand that an engagement existed. You can't expect me to marry a girl I don't care a straw about. It would not be fair to her."

"Don't be a fool, Jeff. I don't want to think for you or to choose for you or to marry for you. I do not interfere when you threw up the position I made for you in the Trading company and took that studio. I realized that you were restless under the harness, so I gave you plenty of rein. But I know so much better than you what is best for you. Believe me I do. Don't—don't be obstinate. This marriage means a great deal to my interests—to your interests. Kate's father is all powerful in the senate. He'll never forgive this disappointment. Hang it all, you liked the girl once, and I made sure that"—

He stopped suddenly, and the expression on his face changed as a new light dawned upon him.

"It isn't that Rossmore girl, is it?" he demanded. His face grew dark, and his jaw clicked as he said between his teeth: "I told you some time ago that I felt about her. If I thought that it was Rossmore's daughter! You know what's going to happen to him, don't you?"

Thus appealed to, Jefferson thought he was the most favorable opportunity he would have to redeem his promise to Shirley. So, little anticipating the storm he was about to unchain, he answered:

EAT WHAT YOU WANT

BUT FIND THE WAY TO DIGEST WHAT YOU DO EAT.

The first thing to do in the case of indigestion or stomach weakness is to strengthen the muscular walls of the stomach, and in no other way can they will care for the food that is eaten. In no other way can this be done as easy as by the use of Stuart's tablet before each meal. This restores strength to the stomach muscles and stimulates the pouring out of gastric juices, then the food digests readily and you begin to get the full benefit from what you eat.

Use Mi-o-na wherever you have sick headache, heartburn, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, spots before the eyes, sleeplessness and the many other symptoms that are the direct result of indigestion.

T. B. Wallace gives with every 50 cent box of Mi-o-na a guarantee to refund the money unless the remedy cures.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Harker—Great linguist, isn't he? Barker—You bet. He can talk in baseball, college and literary.

These two desirable qualifications, pleasant to the taste and at the same time effectual, may be found in Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. Children like it.

Lawyer—Did you say the assault and battery was committed in an adjacent locality?

Witness—No; in the basement.

When all other cure preparations fail, try Holloway's Corn Cure. It acts effectively and no inconvenience in using it.

Aurelia—How many proposals did you have last summer, dear?

Jessie—Sixteen, dear.

Aurelia—What a terrible persistent fellow that Tommy Noodles must be.

JULY CLEARANCE SALE

Overstocks Conduce Sharp Reductions--Prices Very Low--A Massing of Economies--Sale Will be a Record Breaker.

We will not mince words. We will state conditions and give the facts without any frills. We are greatly overstocked with all sorts of warm weather wearthings—so we radically underprice. Never have such vast assemblages of fine goods participated in the July Clearing Sale.

Now's the time to clear decks—to effect riddance, to remove obstruction. There is much to move—hence much of price-reducing.

Prices have been deeply cut. Every department—every stock is effected. All Summer goods must go—all Summer goods will go, and at a lively rate.

Everything Summery joins the whirl. Selling will begin with a rush. Come early while assortments are complete.

Sale Begins Saturday, July 11th, and Lasts Two Weeks

OBITUARY.

A very sad death took place on Wednesday, early last, in our village. Mrs. L. M. Rix, a victim of consumption, passed away to her well earned rest, but left a sorrowing husband and six small children behind to mourn her loss, the eldest a girl of 12 years, being left to act as mother to the youngest, a boy of 1½ years.

Walker's; it's a girl.—Don't forget the lawn social on Mr. Nelson Bell's lawn, on Wednesday evening next, under the auspices of the Epworth League. Good programme and refreshments. Admission, 10c. and 15c.—Two little boys, Ross and Kenneth, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davey, were accidentally drowned in Carman creek, east of the village.

COUNTY ROAD BUILDING.

I am not at all surprised to know there is still one man in the united Counties who has no ambition or pride in good road making, and am sorry he comes from Camden, and signs his name W. J. Delmage. Am glad is it not Talmage for the gospel of that Rev. Gentleman was believed while the things spoken of by this gentleman is visable yet unconvinable, because the facts are lacking in proof, and the road building he complains of is being done by a man that understands the business and in less than six months he, the complainant, will agree that it was a good job and money well expended. Road building is like house cleaning or summer fallowing; you need to turn things upside down and make quite a dust to accomplish good. The same road engineer did work in Camden, Richmond, Sheffield and Ernestown in 1907, and was highly complimented by the Government engineer and Ex-Warden Gallacher and others. The Government man's only complaint was that we built our roads too wide. On account of having so much road in the country he claims the width from ditch to ditch should not be more than 18 or 20 feet at the most, and well rounded up in order to keep the road bed well drained and dry. I observe Mr. Delmage says the water now runs down the ditches. I wonder where it should run? It formerly went in the centre of the road. Again he speaks of the trains crossing and re crossing on account of the gravel being well broken and put on straight. Would it not be better for people to drive in like manner? Well, ere this letter is in print probably our friend, Mr. Delmage, will be converted to the new system of road building, and instead of filling up one mud hole and making two, we fill up all the holes and make none. Camden to-day has some of the best roads in the County, and in ten years' time it will be the best in the Province if done under the present road system.

Thanks, Mr. Beaver, for the above space.

Yours faithfully,

UMPIRE.

WOLFE THE HERO.

Wolfe is one of the most attractive of heroes, and his conquest of Quebec was one of the most brilliant of military exploits. But the By-stander cannot help expressing his sympathy with the "Looker-On," who in The World deprecates the commemoration of war; at this juncture especially, when a marked effort is being made by the high Imperialist partly to stimulate the military spirit and persuade the people to spend their earnings in the increase of armaments. War, if it has been sometimes inevitable and given birth to grand characters and deeds which command our admiration, has been the bane of progress and the arch-enemy of civilization. Trace wars to their causes and their consequences and this will appear. The indirect and remote effects have been more baneful than the bleeding of blood on the field of battle. French Canada was invaded to rid the English colonies of a formidable neighbor. So it did, but shrewd observers at the time foresaw what the result would be. The colonies on the first occasion struck for independence, of which Samuel Adams and his set had already been dreaming. Then came the war between the colonies and the mother country. Into that war France went for vengeance, thereby making herself bankrupt, which up to that time she had not been, for though her finances had been in a bad state, they had not been past redemption, and might certainly have been redeemed by such a master of finance as Necker. The results were the fall of the French Monarchy and the French Revolution with its Napoleonic wars and its yet unexhausted avalanche of evil. To exclude the military sentiment in the coming celebration of the battle on the Heights of Abraham would, of course, be impossible, but we look with confidence to the good feeling and good sense of the Governor-General to keep its manifestations and provocations within tolerable bounds.—A Bystander, The Weekly Sun, Toronto.

MGR. FARRELLY DEAD.

Venerated Priest of King-ston Diocese Passes Away.

Belleville, Ont., July 8th—At an early hour this morning Right Rev. Monsignor Farrelly passed away in this city, after some months illness. The reverend gentleman was 81 years of age, and was born in County Cavan, Ireland. He was ordained in 1851 and for a time was rector at Aspodel and Lindsay. For 34 years he presided over St. Michael's Church, this city. Owing to ill-health he resigned two years and a half ago, living here in retirement. In the year 1901 the ref. father celebrated his golden jubilee. At various times the deceased administrated the affairs of the Kingston diocese during the absence of the bishops.

GOODWIN—SKINNER.

A very pretty wedding took place in Camden East Methodist church on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, when Margaret Estella, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Skinner, was married to Thomas Edward Goodwin, Toronto. The church was handsomely decorated with ferns and Marguerites, the bridal party standing under a floral suspended from an arch of evergreens. Rev. Mr. Williams performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked unusually lovely in a dainty gown of ivory white silk crepe-de-chine semi-princess, over a polish-de-soie guimpe with chiffon trimming, with which she wore a wreath of orange blossoms and veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and ferns. She was assisted by her cousin, Miss Lelia Davey, Wilton, in white silk with lace trimmings and white mohair hat, carrying pink roses. Miriam Gallagher, Toronto, cousin of the bride, dressed all in white, was flower girl, carrying a basket of Marguerites which she scattered before the bride. Mr. Verner Cambridge, Toronto, was groomsman. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride, and groom received the guests in the drawing room when the alcove was transformed into a rustic bower for the exchange of bride and Marguerites. FRUIT CROP REPORT.

Weather Conditions—The weather conditions throughout the Dominion for the past month have been generally favorable for fruit. The first three weeks were exceptionally dry in the fruit districts of Ontario, but occasional showers after the 20th have prevented serious injury except that the samples of strawberries in some cases are not as large as usual. Light frosts on the 15th did only a very slight damage. Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island have had exceptionally favorable weather. British Columbia, though the wealth it was cool and wet till the early part of June, conditions were not much affected. During the latter part of the month the temperature has been higher with occasional showers.

Apples—Prospects are not so good this month as last. The set of fruit was not as good as was expected, and the dry weather has produced a check during June drop. A fair estimate of the present conditions could be an average or slightly above the average crop of early and fall apples, with winter apples somewhat below a medium crop. Insect pests, especially the larger species, are not in Ontario, such as the cankerworms of Hastings, Durham and Northumberland, have rather a habit of attacking winter apples.

Speaking generally for the whole apple belt, Spies, Baldwins and Greenings will be light or very light. Kaster a medium crop. Ben Davis nearly a full crop. Greenings a medium crop, the Famouse about the average almost everywhere and at least an average crop of fairly clean, good sized fruit in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence valley.

In Nova Scotia the prospects for the apple crop as a whole are particularly good, and bearing a heavy crop for the Gravenstein. There are no noticeable conditions in British Columbia, the prospects showing a medium crop.

Pears and Plums—The prospects for pears and plums are only medium. Bartletts and Kieffers have the best showing.

Peaches—Early varieties will be fairly abundant, somewhat above the average, late varieties a medium crop. In the early varieties Alexander, Early Rivers and Triumph are counted bearing full crops. Of the latter varieties, St. John will be only a medium crop, the Early Crawford light. Smocks and Elbertas show for something over a medium crop. The Elbertas are bearing heavily where they were sprayed for Curculio, those not sprayed have in many cases been a very light crop.

Cherries—The prospects for cherries are excellent. Should there be plenty of moisture during June there seems nothing in the way of a full crop this year.

Grapes—Grapes look well and promise a full crop.

Small Fruits—With a moderate amount of rain small fruits will likely give a large crop. The conditions are so favorable over all the fruit producing sections that the aggregate of the crop will likely be very large.

Insects—Insects are not more prevalent than at this time last year, and fungous diseases are not specially in evidence. Up to the present time most injury has been done by the Cigar Case Bearer, the Bud Moth, Canker Worm, Green Fruit Worm and Oyster Shell Bark Louse.

Foreign Crop Conditions—The United States will have a fairly good average crop, but very generally distributed over the apple growing districts. The prospects for stock suitable for marketing during the winter months will be indirete about an average crop or somewhat less.

The prospects in Great Britain and for the fruit crop generally are particularly good, and there are no adverse conditions reported from the Continent.

A. McNEILL,
Chief Fruit Division.

Camp Le Nid.

The restful quiet of Camp Le Nid was disturbed about noon on Sunday by a alarm being given that a balloon was coming from the direction of Picton near enough on earth than is the custom for such vehicles to travel. Sure enough there it was like a huge orange drifting before the breeze, gradually nearing the surface of the water. When opposite Bygott's Point it suddenly dropped almost perpendicularly until the basket was a few feet from the surface of the bay. It was quite evident there was trouble ahead and as one Irishman in the party expressed it, they were going to land in the water whether the launch was immediately pushed out and went to the rescue. Many eyes had been watching the mysterious strangers, for then other launches darted out from behind Glen Island. Messrs. Fraser and Gordon from Picton were the first to render assistance, and in a few minutes the four landlubbers were all about his prostrate monster lying on the surface of the bay. The rail had been hitched to the balloon and endeavored to tow it ashore, but was unable to make an impression for then the Indian from Glenora soon took the matter in hand with his steam yacht and after a hard struggle managed to tow it ashore near Thompson's Point, and with the aeronaut in his craft and took it to Glen Island, where the aerial traveller had been taken immediately after their rescue from the water. They proved to be Prof. Hugh L. Case, of Chicago, and C. H. Pirripe, a reporter on the Inter Ocean. They were contestants in the international balloon race and had left Chicago at 6.30 Saturday morning. They had had a very exciting trip. All went fairly well until they were in the vicinity of Consecon, when the balloon shot upward to a height of seven and one-half miles. Their bodies became inflated and with the blood oozing from every pore they dropped insensible to the bottom of the basket. The balloon did not maintain the best attitude for any length of time, so the aeronauts would not have survived to tell the story. When dropped in the bay they had donned their life preservers. They were turned over to Mr. Durnell, the genial proprietor of Glen Island, who attended to their wants and humor ously remarked, "It beats a boat and they will devise means to get here." After some refreshments and sleep they appeared none the worse for their perilous adventure. Mr. Pirripe dropped in the bay but had donned their life preservers. They were turned over to Mr. Durnell, the genial proprietor of Glen Island, who attended to their wants and humor

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is most devoid of character, far from it. The disposition of the average baldheaded man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Unnaursaud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

AN ALFALFA KING.

R. E. Smith, of Sherman, Texas, is the alfalfa king of the world. He started in twelve years ago with five acres, then put in a hundred more, and has kept on increasing until now he has fourteen hundred acres in alfalfa. Last year it netted him $109,200, and that does not include the amounts of money received from the sale of hundreds of heads of hogs, cattle and other live stock that fattened in the alfalfa pastures.

What a revelation those twelve years have brought to Mr. Smith concerning the possibilities of alfalfa. Truly, we are as yet only on the extreme borderland of our comprehension of what can be done with this wonderful plant.

Only a few years ago that the editor of this place started in to devote a terrible if alfalfa could be successfully grown in Wisconsin. It took five years to arrive at a method suitable to this climate. Yet, when that method was determined, we found that it is just as successful and handy here as in the most favored alfalfa sections of the country, and hundreds of farmers are growing it, who, but a few years ago, believed that it was an impossibility.—Board's Dairyman.

"SHOW ME" PROOF.

THAT IS WHAT HYOMEI WILL DO IN ALL FORMS OF CATARRH AND TROUBLES OF THE BREATHING ORGANS.

It's not a question of Hyomei having cured some one else but will it reach your own particular case. If it's cold in the head, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Croup or any affection of the breathing organs, T. B. Wallace says yes, and will refund the money if it fails. No other preparation for the same purpose can successfully do this. Simply use Hyomei system of treatment is different from anything else.

It simply breathes and inhale its medication in dry air form which destroys the life that causes oppressed breathing. Nasal Catarrh, Throat Irritation and Lung Troubles. It brings to these sufferers only the balsam laden air they would get in the pine and Eucalyptus forests. The air that stamps out Bronchial troubles.

The prince of entertainers, Marshal P. Wilder, says: Hyomei is easy to use and very swift to cure. It insures against coughs and colds. It gives you pure air and kills the germ of disease. It helps the throat. Hyomei complete outfit, $1.00.

A GRAND CONCERT.

The Sacred Cantata, "A Joyful Thank-giving," in the Methodist Church

A large and appreciative audience gathered in the auditorium of the Methodist church on Friday evening to listen to the sacred cantata rendered by the members of the Stirling Choral Society, under the able leadership of Mr. W. A. Rockwell.

Before proceeding with the concert proper the following resolution was moved by Rev. W. G. Clarke, seconded by Dr. C. F. Walt, and carried most enthusiastically, "That we, the members of the Stirling Choral Society, extend to Mr. W. A. Rockwell, our leader, our heartiest thanks, for the splendid service he has rendered the Society and the village of Stirling at large, in the painstaking, courteous and efficient manner in which he has carried forward the work of the Society. We trust that it may be our good fortune to again follow his leadership in similar work in the not distant future, and we assure him that his work among us will be of lasting benefit." Mr. Rockwell responded by thanking the Society for their kind expressions of approval.

Although the programme was a long one and the evening somewhat warm, yet the interest never flagged from start to finish.

In addition to the above, Mr. Rockwell, of Chicago, charmed the audience with a splendid solo, "The Lord is My Light." After prolonged applause, he rendered with thrilling power as an encore, "The Ninety and Nine." Mr. Rockwell has a voice of great compass and sweetness, and he simply captivated the audience.

The various solos were rendered most sympathetically and

PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY WITH!

The Cameron Steel Ladder and Fire Escape

It is practical, it is made of Bessimer steel, it is permanent, it is inexpensive, it is always ready for use, it is indestructible, it costs less than any fire escape and is without a competitor. Sun and snow will not adhere to it. No rot, as in the case of wooden ladders. It should be on all churches, schools, hotels, private houses, barns and outbuildings.

This flexible steel ladder is made in two sizes of selected Bessimer steel; 3 3/8 inches for dwellings, barns and outbuildings, and 7 1/6 inches for fire escapes. When adjusted to the wall they are as firm as the wall itself. It has been commended, amongst many others, by the following:

Much of the success of these meetings was due to the faithful work of the Superintendent, John Magee, and his officers and teachers. Thank God for His goodness.

ANOTHER LENNOX BOY.

We are glad to be able to tell of the success of another of our Lennox boys, R. Borland Paul. After a brilliant course at Queen's University, in which he took several prizes and never missed an examination, he went to Chicago, where on June 6th he passed the Medical Council for Illinois and his standing gives him authority to practise in 16 States of the Union. In addition to his scholastic abilities the Dr. showed his ability to compete with their best athletes in the University and in competition with other Colleges.

Dr. Paul is a son of Mr. R. W. Paul, of Selby. The Dr. has gone into the office of one of the leading Chicago physicians and intends practising there making a specialty of Surgery.

Seventy-one persons are dead as a result of the celebration of the Fourth of July in the United States.

GASOLINE TRACTION ENGINE.

Yesterday morning something new appeared on our streets in the shape of a gasoline traction engine. The machine was sold to Mr. Geo. Hartman, Odessa, by W. M. Bishop, of Belleville, the selling sales agent for the International Harvester Gasoline Engine, and was operated by Mr. D. A. Wylie, of Ottawa, gasoline engine expert. The engine was brought to Belleville by train and unloaded there for exhibition purposes. From Belleville it was taken to Odessa by its own power. Mr. Hartman will use it for threshing purposes. It is the best of its kind sold in Lennox and Addington.

SOCIAL REUNION.

On Tuesday evening last the congregation of Trinity church gathered together in one of their most enjoyable social reunions. The Ladies' Aid Society built sustained their usual record in providing an excellent musical programme in the Sunday School hall, followed by dainty served refreshments in the spacious dining room of the church. During the evening representatives from the Trustee and Quarterly Boards, the Sunday School, the Epworth League and the Ladies' Aid Society cordially and gratefully extended to the new pastor, Rev. G. W. McColl and his family the greetings of the congregation, and a right royal welcome to the hearts and homes of his people. Mr. McColl responded in happy and appropriate terms.

QUIET HOUSE WEDDING.

On Monday night at 9 o'clock, a quiet but very pretty house wedding took place at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Geo. Briden, Barrie st., Kingston, when her only daughter, Miss Florence Agnes, was united in marriage to Prof. William Lloyd Lodge, M.A., B.Sc., of the Michigan Agricultural College, East Lansing, son of the late Rev. Douglas Lodge, Charlottetown, P.E.I. The Rev. W. H. Sparling officiated. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Miller Briden, looked very sweet and dainty in a lovely empire gown of handsome embroidered net over white taffeta, the bodice being artistically trimmed with Brussels val. lace and insertion. The short sleeves were edged with soft lace and she carried a shower bouquet of white bridal roses and maiden-hair fern. Her only ornament was a diamond and pearl bracelet, the gift of the groom. They were unattended and the ceremony was performed in the presence of only the immediate relatives and friends. The drawing room was decked with pink and white carnations, ferns and palms, and the wedding march was played by Miss Keitha Parrott, Odessa, in excellent style. Among the out-of-town relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. P. E.
